ROOSEVELT ASSURES BANKS' FIRMNESS

GROWING PERIL OF WAR CITED IN LONDON'S PRESS

Theorizes on Part England Would Play in Clash.

FRENCH MOVE FOR AID SEEN

Times Says Daladier Sought Alliance With London.

London, March 11 (A.P.).—The part Great Britain would play in the event of another European conflict attracted the attention of the London press today.

"At no time since 1914 has there been so much open and alarmed talk about war or a situation more immediately threatening," said the Sunday Times.

The opinion was widely held here that what Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon may have intended to be a conference with Premier Deladier of France on resuscitation of the disarmament conference was turned by the French into an opportunity to make an appeal for a new Franco-British front in the event of renewal of European hostilities.

Thunderer's Opinion.

The Sunday Times added:

"The danger spots are plain to all—so plain that it ought to be possible for clear-sighted statesmanship to sterilize them.

"Saber-rattling, which used to be a familiar feature of prewar German imperial policy, has begun to be heard again from across the Rhine and in the Polish corridor. In the last fortnight the tension between Berlin and Warsaw has heightened alarmingly. Both France and Poland are anxiously on the alert.

"In the southeast the situation is no more reassuring. There are fears of a Nazi putsch in Vienna which might bring anschluss (union with Germany) nearer, with all the dangers that it would involve.

Situation Called Acute.

The Sunday Observer stressed that the announcement resulting from the Paris conferences, which presumably were about disarmament, "somewhat pointedly refers to the Geneva 'problem,' to the 'actual European situation' and to a 'means of preserving the peace of the world.' * * *

"The very seismic intensity of the present political eruptions in three continents gives a clew to statesmen," the Observer added. "Within a month, at the least, we are bound to know what sort of a new world is to emerge."

The Sunday Express said: "The situation in Europe is acute. France, terrified by the new fierce wave of nationalism now sweeping Germany, is making desperate efforts to lure Great Britain into a new entente—

Hitler Wins

Nazi Landslides Mark Prussian Elections in Large Cities.

Berlin, March 12 (A.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's party, the National Socialists, and their allies, the Nationalists, won an easy majority today in the largest cities of Prussia in that province's municipal and communal elections.

Nazi landslides and Communist recessions were manifested in all the important German cities. The Nationalists occasionally improved somewhat their positions over previous communal elections.

4 BRITISH SUBJECTS SEIZED BY MOSCOW

Arrests of Metropolitan-Vickers Employes Follow Mysterious Raids.

Moscow, March 12 (A.P.).—Four British subjects representing the Metropolitan-Vickers firm in Russia, and four of the company's Russian employes, including two women, have been arrested following raids on their homes and offices by secret police.

Beginning last night and continuing in the early hours of today, the raiders, numbering more than a score, who carried search and arrest warrants, first visited the home in Perlovka, a suburb, of Allan Monkhouse, Metropolitan-Vickers director here. They seized a number of papers and documents for which they gave receipts, and then took Monkhouse, his assistant, W. H. Thornton; their Russian chauffeurs, a woman typist and a woman secretary away under arrest.

Later another raiding party visited the Moscow apartment of John Cushny, another of Monkhouse's assistants, and seized papers there. They also arrested Cushny and W. L. MacDonald, one of the company's installation engineers, who had been in Moscow only two days after several months in the field.

Metropolitan-Vickers is one of the largest English firms doing business in Russia. It is engaged in selling and installing electrical machinery and turbines and in furnishing technical advice to the Soviet government.

Metropolitan-Vickers business offices, located in the general headquarters of the Russian organization, "Electroimport," in Moscow, were raided at the same time and the company's records and other papers seized.

The British Embassy made inquiries at the foreign office, which said it had no information on the subject whatever, but promised to investigate beginning Monday morning.

None of the embassy officials nor any colleague of the arrested men was able to advance an explanation of the arrests.

Bandit Who Murdered Mrs. Woodruff Is Shot

London, March 12 (U.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Harbin today said that Tian Lanyan, the bandit leader convicted of murdering Mrs. Helen Woodruff, 27-year-old wife of a British-American Tobacco Co. official, was executed by a firing squad.

Three civilians involved in an attempt to kidnap Woodruff's two sons also probably will be sentenced to death, the dispatch said.

Victor Smith 10 Hours Ahead of Flying Record

Walfish Bay, South Africa, March 12 (A.P.).—Victor Smith, 19-year-old flier, who is attempting to beat Amy Johnson Mollison's time for a London-to-Cape Town flight, arrived here at 5:20 p. m. (Greenwich mean time) today (12:20 p. m. Eastern standard time).

He was 10 hours ahead of Mrs. Mollison's time at this point. Her record for the 6,200-mile flight is 4 days 6 hours and 55 minutes.

DISEASE FEAR GRIPS PEOPLE IN QUAKE AREA

LONG BEACH CITIZENS ARE TENTING IN OPEN

Toll Remains at About 115; Rations Are Passed Out; Schools Closed.

Los Angeles, March 12 (A.P.). Fear of disease getting a foothold in the earthquake-torn area of the metropolitan district through water pollution or unregulated sanitation added more woe today to the predicament of homeless thousands.

United relief agencies went into action on a wide front, however, and first aid, hospitalization, food distribution and even reconstruction work gathered momentum while the earth was still shaking.

The thirty-fifth major shock occurred about 4 a. m. today, approximately 34 hours after the first at 5:55 p. m. Friday, which wrought the greatest damage.

The continuing shocks did little damage except to shake down more bricks, glass and masonry, but they kept the populace on edge.

Precautions Are Taken.

Long Beach, center of the greatest destruction, discontinued the use of city water for drinking purposes because authorities suspected sewage from broken pipes might have seeped into the water mains where breakage might have occurred. Precautions against typhoid and smallpox were taken immediately.

All waters drunk in the ruined area had to be boiled, and there was no gas to furnish heat, the supply having been cut off to prevent fires. Fires were kindled in yards and other

King George Telegraphs Regrets on Earthquake

London, March 12 (A.P.).—King George today telegraphed to President Roosevelt of the United States as follows:

"I am deeply concerned at the heavy loss of life which was occasioned by the disastrous earthquake in California, and I would ask you, Mr. President, to accept this expression of my sincere sympathy with all those who have sustained bereavement or injury as the result of this calamity."

New Hampshire Town's Business Square Burns

Somersworth, N. H., March 12 (A.P.).—The worst fire in Somersworth's history swept through an entire business square early today destroying six buildings and doing damage estimated officially at $200,000.

Fifteen business establishments and four families lost everything. Officials said they thought either a defective chimney or overheated stove in a garage started the fire.

Fleet Maneuvers Delayed by Quake

(Associated Press.)

Postponement of fleet exercises off the California coast for one week because of the need for Navy relief in the earthquake zone was reported to the Navy Department yesterday by Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander in chief of the fleet.

"On account of conditions ashore in Long Beach area and urgent need of assistance on shore from the fleet," Admiral Leigh said, "exercises scheduled for weeks beginning March 13 and March 20 will each be delayed one week. Ships will remain at anchor for upkeep this week."

The schedule for the battle force and scouting force had provided tactical drills for all units of the fleet from March 13 to 26. Admiral Leigh advised further instructions for the resumption of the scheduled maneuvers would be issued to the fleet today.

Queen Giovanna and King Boris of Bulgaria, who were married two years ago. The queen is a former Italian princess.

Vatican City, March 12 (A.P.).—Pope Pius will voice open and sharp disapproval of King Boris and Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria tomorrow morning, say Vatican prelates, when he delivers an allocution to the cardinals in the holy year consistory. The pontiff, they say, will denounce the orthodox baptism of the little Princess Maria Louisa, born in January.

The consistory is called to create six new cardinals, among whom are Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi, until now apostolic delegate at Washington, and Archbishop Villeuve, of Quebec.

CHINESE ANNIHILATE JAPANESE BATTERY

Chengtehfu, Jehol Province (Monday), March 13 (U.P.).—Chinese forces today engaged in a vigorous counter-attack against Japanese troops in the region of Fanchiakow, a portal in the Great Wall.

The battle started Sunday morning and today was reported continuing, with many dead on both sides.

A battery of mountain artillerymen of the Hattori Corps was destroyed by Chinese in a surprise attack, it was reported. The Chinese, using swords and pistols, clashed in hand-to-hand combat with the Japanese.

Fourteen members of the Hattori Corps were killed and 39 seriously wounded in the fighting near Fanchiakow. The wounded were being taken to hospitals at Chinchow, Manchuria, by Japanese ambulances.

Japanese threw the attacking column of the Chinese general, Wang I-Che, into retreat south of Kupeikow by a successful airplane bombing raid.

Tokyo (Monday), March 13 (A.P.).—A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Chanchow, Manchuria, today said that after an all-day battle Sunday at Heifenckou Pass in the Great Wall, Maj. Gen. Heijiro Hattori's Fourteenth Brigade of Japanese infantrymen had repulsed a desperate Chinese attack.

Dirigible Akron to Fly Over Canal This Week

Miami, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—The Navy airship Akron will fly over the Panama Canal this week.

2,000 OF FOE FALL, PARAGUAY CLAIMS

Bolivian Division Is Defeated After 32-Hour Battle, Bulletin Declares.

Asuncion, Paraguay, March 12 (A.P.).—The Paraguayan war office in a bulletin today said the third Bolivian division had been overwhelmingly defeated after a 32-hour battle with Paraguayan forces in the Gran Chaco, where the two nations have been in conflict for several months.

The communique stated the Bolivians suffered more than 2,000 casualties while fleeing from Paraguayan cavalry.

Bolivan troops, it was added, had launched a general attack in the Fort Saavedra sector, where heavy fighting was going on. In the vicinity of Fort Nanawa, Paraguayan forces were said to have annihilated a company of Bolivians.

La Paz, Bolivia, March 11 (A.P.).—Newspapers here today announced that Bolivian soldiers had captured Fort Alihuata in the Gran Chaco territory, over which Paraguay and Bolivia have been skirmishing for a number of months.

The general staff later said Bolivian troops had captured the fort and that at the Fernandez sector Bolivian troops had taken all the Paraguayan advance positions.

Senator Davis Spends An Uncomfortable Day

Pittsburgh, March 12 (A.P.).—United States Senator James J. Davis, who underwent an emergency operation early Saturday for appendicitis, passed an uncomfortable day, his physician, Dr. J. W. Shirer, reported tonight.

"A diabetic condition is upsetting normal recovery, but his condition is satisfactory, everything considered," Dr. Shirer said.

Body of Torture Victim, 23, Found in Car's Rumble Seat

Chicagoan Believed to Have Been Seized on Way to Visit Sweetheart and Slain for Refusing to Aid Gangsters.

Chicago, March 12 (A.P.).—The body of Fred Russo, 23, who apparently had been tortured and then strangled today, was found jammed in the rumble seat of an abandoned automobile.

Russo disappeared Wednesday when he left his home stating he was going to see his sweetheart, Mary Angelina, 18. The girl said she did not see him that night.

Doctors said it was apparent the youth had been dead about 18 to 20 hours when the body was found today. The face had a stubble of beard. Police said they believed Russo had been held captive by gangsters and finally killed when he refused to divulge desired information.

Questioning of Russo's relatives failed to elicit statements connecting the youth with the underworld, police said. The father operated a cartage business and the son had been associated with him in its operation.

Miss Angelina discounted the theory that Russo had been slain by a rival for her love by statements that she had no other men friends and that Russo had been her first sweetheart.

SENATE GRANT OF ROOSEVELT POWER IS SEEN

Even Foes Are Predicting Passage Tomorrow or Wednesday.

$500,000,000 SLASHES WOULD BE ALLOWED

Republicans Will Meet This Morning for Discussion of Legislation.

(Associated Press.)

A smashing victory for President Roosevelt in his first major tilt with Congress was forecast yesterday even by senatorial opponents of his demand that Congress give him unprecedented powers to shear $500,000,000 or more from governmental costs.

Approval tomorrow or Wednesday in the Senate without change was seen for the measure, already passed by the House, which would permit the Chief Executive to slash veterans' benefits and Federal salaries.

This development yesterday heartened Democratic leaders who are demanding that the President's second request for broad authority to cope with the depression be met promptly to get the Government on a balanced financial level.

Will Call Up Measure.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, who as chairman of the Finance Committee, will be in charge of the legislation, will call up the measure today. Before the Senate convenes the Republicans will hold a forenoon party conference to discuss the legislation but not to bind the minority one way or the other.

"Republican and Democratic votes will pass this bipartisan measure," Harrison said. His prophecy was echoed by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who

Dynamiters Sought After Church Blast

Lives of Eight Nuns in Peril as Wisconsin Edifice Is Damaged.

Milwaukee, March 12 (A.P.).—A violent blast, believed to have been an explosion of dynamite, today blew a wall from the boiler room of the St. Frederick's Catholic Church in Cudahy. The suburb's fire department promptly extinguished a fire which followed.

Lives of eight nuns, sleeping in a building adjoining the church, were endangered. Bricks crashed through windows of their rooms, but none was hurt. Firemen estimated damage at $15,000.

Investigation established conclusively that the blast was not due to explosion of part of the heating system or of gas. William Greenwald, deputy State fire marshal, said he believed dynamite had been touched off on the concrete roof of the boiler room. The Rev. John Herbst, pastor, said there are no dissensions in the congregation and that he knows of no one who might harbor ill will.

Tear Gas Subdues 4-Man Jail Riot

Refusal of Cigarettes Leads to Outbreak; Prisoners Placed in Solitary.

Portsmouth, N. H., March 12 (U.P.).—Tear gas bombs were used tonight to subdue four prisoners, one of whom has been held on a murder charge, who attempted to start a riot at Rockingham County Jail.

The prisoners hurled mugs and other missiles through windows, shouted and rattled their cell doors. Jail officials said none of the other 23 inmates joined in the demonstration.

The trouble started last night when the four were refused cigarettes because of insubordination. They demonstrated until midnight and today refused to eat in their cells, demanding that they be permitted to join the other prisoners in the dining room. Conditions became serious tonight and Portsmouth police were called. The prisoners were subdued with tear gas and placed in solitary confinement.

PROGRESS MADE, PRESIDENT SAYS ON AIR NETWORK

Text of Talk

The text of the address of President Roosevelt by radio, delivered from the President's study in the White House last night follows:

I want to talk for a few minutes with the people of the United States about banking—with the comparatively few who understand the mechanics of banking but more particularly with the overwhelming majority who use banks for the making of deposits and the drawings of checks. I want to tell you what has been done in the last few days, why it was done, and what the next steps are going to be. I recognize that the many proclamations from State Capitols and from Washington, the legislation, the Treasury regulations, &c., couched for the most part in banking and legal terms should be explained for the benefit of the average citizen. I owe this in particular because of the fortitude and good temper

CITY BANKS AWAIT FEDERAL LICENSES

Authorizations to Reopen Sound Ones Tomorrow Expected Today.

The issuance of licenses by the Secretary of the Treasury is being awaited by all sound banks of the District which are prepared to resume all normal operations at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Authorizations for the solvent banks to again begin business are expected to be made public at the Treasury Department today. The approvals of the national bank applications must be made by the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond, while the Controller of the Currency must approve the requests of the trust companies and the State banks.

Meanwhile hoarders of gold have until 3 o'clock this afternoon to return the precious metal to banks or to the Treasury Department and thereby escape being on the list of hoarders which will be sent tonight to Governor George J. Seay, head of this Federal Reserve region.

Until the licenses are issued the local banks will continue to perform functions permitted under the Treasury Department holiday regulations. These are: Providing for the necessities of life, cashing Government checks and aiding the movement of food shipment and other vital functions.

The mother bank of all the local members of the Federal Reserve system, which is located at Richmond, is geared to render whatever assistance may be necessary for the reopening tomorrow of financial institutions here.

It is understood that the Treasury Department will comply with the request of the Washington Clearing House Association to make public simultaneously the names of the banks which will be licensed to reopen. This request was made so that no seeming preference could be inferred by licensing one bank before others.

The request of Gov. Seay for the names of those who have withdrawn gold since February 1 and who have not redeposited it or redeemed it for currency before the close of business today has had a very salutary effect, bankers say. Since the request was made public, the gold has been streaming into the Treasury Department and local banks, it is reported.

Carried to Sea on Floe, 1,000 Fishermen Safe

Moscow, March 12 (A.P.).—A wireless report from Astrakhan, on the Caspian Sea, reported that 1,000 fishermen, who had been carried out to sea on an ice floe during a heavy storm, were safe. The report gave no details.

An earlier message, which told of the men being carried to sea, said two airplanes were searching for them and that a change in the direction of the wind indicated the ice floe might be driven back toward shore.

Assembly in California To Study Mortgage Bill

Sacramento, Calif., March 12 (A.P.).—Tying in definitely with relief needs of southern California residents whose properties have been damaged by earthquakes, the assembly judiciary committee is to meet tomorrow night to consider bills proposing moratoria on trust deeds and mortgages.

Tells Nation That All Needs Will Be Met.

REOPENINGS BEGIN TODAY

State Institutions Will Get Federal Help, He Declares.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Carrying a new message of courage and confidence directly to the people, President Roosevelt declared over a Nation-wide radio chain last night that great progress has been made in the "Government's reconstruction of our financial and economic fabric."

He lauded the heroic spirit of calm temper and patriotic fortitude which banished panic last week and assured the Nation that adequate supplies of sound money will be available progressively through the coming week as the Treasury proceeds in its general resumption program.

Every effort will be made to open sound banks as rapidly as possible, the President said. These openings will follow generally the location schedule announced Saturday night—the 12 reserve cities today, the 250 clearing-house cities tomorrow and the country banks on Wednesday.

Cites Return of Gold.

But even where audits force occasional departures from this schedule, every effort will be made to protect and insure the interest of depositors with the means provided in last Thursday's emergency law.

Public confidence, as revealed by the return of money and gold to the banks during the last week, is the all-important solvent in the banking situation for the immediate future, the President emphasized.

"It is my belief," he said, "that hoarding during the past week has become an exceedingly unfashionable pastime."

Further along he offered the assurance:

"I hope you can see from this elemental recital of what your Government is doing that there is nothing complex or radical in the process."

His conclusion was a ringing appeal to men and women everywhere to let rational confidence rule again in matters of money and banking.

Stresses Confidence.

"After all," he said, "there is an element in the readjustment of our financial system more important than currency, more important than gold, and that is the confidence of the people.

"Confidence and courage are the essentials of success in carrying out

Utah Governor Orders Employes Paid in Gold

Salt Lake City, March 12 (A.P.).—Gov. Henry H. Blood today signed a bill providing that "the treasurer of the State of Utah and of each taxing subdivision within the State shall pay all public employes under their jurisdiction in gold coin."

Sponsors said the measure was designed to prove the inadequacy of gold as a monetary base. It will become effective at the beginning of this silver-producing State's fiscal year July 1.

FINANCIAL HOLIDAY FURTHER LOOSENED

(Associated Press.)

Another loosening of the national financial moratorium was announced last night, while Federal and State officials made decisions as to which banks are sound enough to be opened this week.

The new order permits all branches of the Federal Reserve banks to resume usual and normal functions today and also the Reconstruction Corporation, Federal Land Banks, Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, Joint Stock Land Banks, Federal Home Loan Banks and Regional Agricultural Credit Corporations to resume business.

Resumption of unrestricted deposit and credit facilities will start this morning in the twelve central cities of the Federal Reserve districts, and continue progressively in other municipalities during the week.

No word went from Washington or the Federal Reserve Banks as to what specific member banks would be given licenses to reopen, certifying as to solvency and ability to continue operations.

State authorities worked over technicalities in reopening banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve System.

In Illinois, the State auditor advised banks under his jurisdiction to apply for membership in the Federal Reserve system, so as to "participate in the advantages of member ship under the new regulations" proclaimed from Washington since the moratorium began.

Gov. Lehman, of New York, asked that Nonreserve Member State Banks be given the same help from Washington as the National Banks.

In several States—Arizona, Kentucky and Mississippi among them—State holiday orders were extended to protect any banks not wishing to resume business.

14 Chicago Banks Get U. S. Permits to Reopen

Empire State Pushes Plans to Open Banks

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—Arrangements were completed today for the reopening of "duly qualified" financial institutions in New York City, which are under the supervision of the State banking department, State Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick announced tonight.

Mail Distribution Resumed in Area

Long Beach, Calif., March 12 (A.P.).—Postoffice employes set up their sacks in the open air today to resume the distribution of mail in this stricken city. Headquarters were established on a terrace across from the Postoffice Building, which was damaged beyond further use, for the present, at least.

Some of the letters received for mailing bore no stamps. Across the envelopes were written such pleas as "We have no money or stamps." Postal workers dug down in their pockets and bought postage, so the letters might be forwarded.

A new postoffice building, under construction and planned for completion in July, was damaged to such an extent that contractors estimated it would take six months longer to finish it.

French Report German Spy Confessed Guilt

Strassbourg, France, March 12 (A.P.).—Governmental police reported tonight the arrest and confession of a German spy, who often had been seen about the camps of Bitche and Wissembourg in the fortified frontier zone.

POPE WILL ATTACK PRINCESS' BAPTISM

Three cardinals also will be nominated to open the holy doors of three Rome basilicas Saturday, April 1, at the moment the Pope opens the holy door of St. Peter's to inaugurate the holy year.

The consistory promises to be one of the longest on record, since a large amount of ecclesiastical business has accumulated since the last consistory in 1930.

It will begin at 9:30 a. m., an hour earlier than scheduled.

The Pope will speak nearly an hour, delivering an allocution of approximately 6,000 words in discussing the world situation.

In addition to nominating the six new cardinals and naming of the three to open the holy doors, the consistory will approve the elevation of Cardinals Sincero and Cerretti to cardinal bishops and Cardinal Mori to cardinal priest, along with three canonizations and a number of appointments of bishops and archbishops.

The prelates said this evening that the Pope would present to the consistory about 20 nominations for new bishops, among which probably would be the cities of Seattle and Syracuse, N. Y. It also was expected 300 nominations which have been made since 1930 would be presented for confirmation.

The Pope, prelates believe, will recall Boris and Giovanna's verbal and written promise to him that all their children were to be baptized Roman Catholics, including the heir to the throne. He will remind them that it was on this promise that he granted permission for the Catholic Princess Giovanna to marry the orthodox King Boris in a Catholic wedding service.

This would be the second time the Pope has publicly reproved Boris and Giovanna. The first time was in his Christmas address to the cardinals in 1930. Then he expressed his displeasure at the marriage ceremony in Sofia that followed the Catholic ceremony in Assisi. This, he pointed out, also was contrary to the royal couple's written promise. The pontiff, through his delegate to Sofia, Mgr. Roncalli, has already protested to the Bulgarian government against the royal baby's baptism.

President's Radio Talk Explaining Bank Moves

per with which everybody has accepted the inconvenience and hardships of the banking holiday. I know that when you understand what we in Washington have been about I shall continue to have your cooperation as fully as I have had your sympathy and help during the past week.

First of all let me state the simple fact that when you deposit money in a bank the bank does not put the money into a safe deposit vault. It invests your money in many different forms of credit—bonds, commercial paper, mortgages and many other kinds of loans. In other words, the bank puts your money to work to keep the wheels of industry and of agriculture turning around. A comparatively small part of the money you put into the bank is kept in currency—an amount which in normal times is wholly sufficient to cover the cash needs of the average citizen. In other words the total amount of all the currency in the country is only a small fraction of the total deposits in all of the banks.

Undermined Confidence Caused Depositor Rush.

What, then, happened during the last few days of February and the first few days of March? Because of undermined confidence on the part of the public, there was a general rush by a large portion of our population to turn bank deposits into currency or gold—a rush so great that the soundest banks could not get enough currency to meet the demand. The reason for this was that on the spur of the moment it was, of course, impossible to sell perfectly sound assets of a bank and convert them into cash except at panic prices far below their real value.

By the afternoon of March 3 scarcely a bank in the country was open to do business. Proclamations temporarily closing them, in whole or in part, had been issued by the governors in almost all the States.

It was then that I issued the proclamation providing for the Nation-wide bank holiday, and this was the first step in the Government's reconstruction of our financial and economic fabric.

The second step was the legislation promptly and patriotically passed by the Congress confirming my proclamation and broadening my powers so that it became possible, in view of the requirements of time, to extend the holiday and lift the ban of that holiday gradually. This law also gave authority to develop a program of rehabilitation of our banking facilities. I want to tell our citizens in every part of the Nation that the National Congress—Republicans and Democrats alike—showed by this action a devotion to public welfare and a realization of the emergency and the necessity for speed that it is difficult to match in our history.

No Sound Bank Will Be Loser by Holiday.

The third stage has been the series of regulations permitting the banks to continue their functions to take care of the distribution of food and household necessities and the payment of pay rolls.

This bank holiday, while resulting in many cases in great inconvenience, is affording us the opportunity to supply the currency necessary to meet the situation. No sound bank is a dollar worse off than it was when it closed its doors last Monday. Neither is any bank which may turn out not to be in a position for immediate opening. The new law allows the twelve Federal Reserve banks to issue additional currency on good assets and thus the banks which reopen will be able to meet every legitimate call. The new currency is being sent out by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in large volume to every part of the country. It is sound currency because it is backed by actual, good assets.

A question you will ask is this—why are all the banks not to be reopened at the same time? The answer is simple. Your Government does not intend that the history of the past few years shall be repeated. We do not want and will not have another epidemic of bank failures.

As a result we start tomorrow, Monday, with the opening of banks in the twelve Federal Reserve bank cities—those banks which on first examination by the Treasury have already been found to be all right. This will be followed on Tuesday by the resumption of all their functions by banks already found to be sound in cities where there are recognized clearing houses. That means about 250 cities of the United States.

State Banks to Receive Federal Assistance.

On Wednesday and succeeding days banks in smaller places all through the country will resume business, subject, of course, to the Government's physical ability to complete its survey. It is necessary that the reopening of banks be extended over a period in order to permit the banks to make applications for necessary loans, to obtain currency needed to meet their requirements and to enable the Government to make common sense checkups.

Let me make it clear to you that if your bank does not open the first day you are by no means justified in believing that it will not open. A bank that opens on one of the subsequent days is in exactly the same status as the bank that opens tomorrow.

I know that many people are worrying about State banks not members of the Federal Reserve System. These banks can and will receive assistance from member banks and from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. These State banks are following the same course as the national banks except that they get their licenses to resume business from the State authorities, and these authorities have been asked by the Secretary of the Treasury to permit their good banks to open up on the same schedule as the national banks. I am confident that the State banking departments will be as careful as the National Government in the policy relating to the opening of banks and will follow the same broad policy.

Banks Reopening Can Take Care of All Needs.

It is possible that when the banks resume a very few people who have not recovered from their fear may again begin withdrawals. Let me make it clear that the banks will take care of all needs—and it is my belief that hoarding during the past week has become an exceedingly unfashionable pastime. It needs no prophet to tell you that when the people find that they can get their money—that they can get it when they want it for all legitimate purposes—the phantom of fear will soon be laid. People will again be glad to have their money where it will be safely taken care of and where they can use it conveniently at any time. I can assure you that it is safer to keep your money in a reopened bank than under the mattress.

The success of our whole great national program depends, of course, upon the cooperation of the public—on its intelligent support and use of a reliable system.

Remember that the essential accomplishment of the new legislation is that it makes it possible for banks more readily to convert their assets into cash than was the case before. More liberal provision has been made for banks to borrow on these assets at the reserve banks and more liberal provision has also been made for issuing currency on the security of these good assets. This currency is not fiat currency. It is issued only on adequate security—and every good bank has an abundance of such security.

One more point before I close. There will be, of course, some banks unable to reopen without being reorganized. The new law allows the Government to assist in making these reorganizations quickly and effectively and even allows the Government to subscribe to at least a part of new capital which may be required.

Confidence and Courage Essential to Success.

I hope you can see from this elemental recital of what your Government is doing that there is nothing complex, or radical in the process.

We had a bad banking situation. Some of our bankers had shown themselves either incompetent or dishonest in their handling of the people's funds. They had used the money entrusted to them in speculations and unwise loans. This was, of course, not true in the vast majority of our banks, but it was true in enough of them to shock the people for a time into a sense of insecurity and to put them into a frame of mind where they did not differentiate, but seemed to assume that the acts of a comparative few had tainted them all. It was the Government's job to straighten out this situation and do it as quickly as possible—and the job is being performed.

I do not promise you that every bank will be reopened or that individual losses will not be suffered, but there will be no losses that possibly could be avoided; and there would have been more and greater losses had we continued to drift. I can even promise you salvation for some at least of the sorely pressed banks. We shall be engaged not merely in reopening sound banks, but in the creation of sound banks through reorganization.

It has been wonderful to me to catch the note of confidence from all over the country. I can never be sufficiently grateful to the people for the loyal support they have given me in their acceptance of the judgment that has dictated our course, even though all our processes may not have seemed clear to them.

After all there is an element in the readjustment of our financial system more important than currency, more important than gold, and that is the confidence of the people. Confidence and courage are the essentials of success in carrying out our plan. You people must have faith; you must not be stampeded by rumors or guesses. Let us unite in banishing fear. We have provided the machinery to restore our financial system; it is up to you to support and make it work.

It is your problem no less than it is mine. Together we can not fail.

Searchers Locate Plane Wreckage

Fate of Pilot and His Aid in Argentina Is Not Ascertained.

Mendoza, Argentina, March 12 (A.P.).—Military and civilian aviators located the wreckage this evening of a Pan-American Airways passenger plane which had been unreported since leaving here yesterday morning with two men aboard and which crashed and burned on a mountain some distance from here.

Pending the arrival of other searching parties at the spot, the fate of the pilot, Clifford E. McMillan, and his wireless operator, Richard Dymond, could not be ascertained.

The plane, enroute to Chile after a flight here with passengers, carried no passengers on its return to its base. Company officials said the weather through the region was clear.

William A. Brown Dies; Retired Coal Operator

Alderson, W. Va., March 12 (A.P.).—William A. Brown, 75, retired coal operator, died today. He was one of the pioneer operators in southern West Virginia, connected with many companies in the New River field until his retirement in 1919.

He is survived by four sons, Harry, of Alderson; Ellis and Percy, of Charlottesville, Va., and William A., jr., of Hinton, and three daughters, Mrs. Harry Nickell and Mrs. J. G. Predeking, of Hinton, and Mrs. F. W. Groome, of Huntington.

Tripp Child Back, Charges Dropped

Apparently Family Affair, Says Prosecutor After Kin Returns Child.

Rensselaer, Ind., March 12 (A.P.).—Four-year-old Patricia Pearl Tripp, reported kidnaped last December, was back at her home near here today, and Prosecutor Robert G. Estill, of Lake County, said no prosecution was expected in the case.

The girl was returned last night by her grand uncle, August Johnson, a Porter County farmer, several hours after Johnson was released by Estill on his story that he was certain he could secure the girl's return through negotiations with the supposed kidnapers.

Eleven persons, mainly relatives of the missing girl, had been questioned and accused in the reputed abduction. Estill said kidnaping charges against them would be dropped. "Apparently," he said, "this was more or less of a family affair. I was interested primarily in the safe return of the girl."

Two Watches Stolen From Home.

Mrs. Addie M. Summerce, of 5427 Georgia avenue, yesterday reported to police that two watches valued at $45 were stolen from her home. The intruder entered through a rear door.

RITCHIE ASKS STATE BANKS GET EQUALITY

Governor Urges Roosevelt to Amend Policy to Give All Same Status.

Baltimore, March 12 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie tonight telegraphed President Roosevelt asking him to treat State banks not members of the Federal Reserve on an equal basis with national banks.

"I earnestly and respectfully appeal to you," read the governor's telegram, which was sent three hours before Mr. Roosevelt was scheduled to explain the banking situation, "to declare for equality of treatment for the State banks in your broadcast tonight."

Asked what changes he sought in the President's emergency bank act, Gov. Ritchie said, "We think it ought to be amended on a basis broad enough to take care of the small State banks, which may not be liquid in the sense that a large city bank would be, but are not really insolvent and will work out in time.

"We think it ought to be amended so that the small State banks would not have to put up Government bonds in exchange for the emergency currency, but could put up, instead, other securities which may not be really convertible now, but will be good in the long run."

The Maryland Governor last night issued a statement terming the President's emergency bank act as discriminating unfairly against State banks not included in the Federal Reserve System. He said the discrimination was such as to imperil the savings of millions of depositors in nonmember State banks.

A statement said there "are nearly 200 State banks" in Maryland and "more than 7,000" in the country and that they held "over 50 per cent of the deposits of the Nation."

Puerto Rican Senate Asks Elective Governor

San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 12 (A.P.).—The Insular Senate, speaking for the island, has sent a message to President Roosevelt requesting that he ask Congress to give Puerto Rico an elective governor until the status of the island has been decided definitely.

The communication also congratulated Mr. Roosevelt on becoming President of "our nation." Several Liberal members of the Senate objected to the use of the word "our" since it incorrectly expressed, they said, sentiment in the island.

Silver Champions Offer Money Bill

(Associated Press.)

Silver champions plan to lay before President Roosevelt soon their plea that the white metal be used to get more hard money into circulation as part of the administration's permanent banking program.

As the first step, Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, has reintroduced in the Senate his bill authorizing the Government to buy in the open market $250,000,000 in silver, to remove the surplus known to be in the world's metal markets. Dill's bill, which he explained was similar to the program drafted recently by the House Coinage Committee, provides for issuing currency against the silver, which would be valued at its market price in issuing money.

For example, if silver were worth 25 cents an ounce in the market, 4 ounces of bullion would be put away in the Treasury as security for each $1 silver certificate. The measure provides that purchase of the silver is to stop when the metal reaches $1.25 per ounce in the market.

SENATE SEEN VOTING COSTS SLASH POWER

introduced the bill on behalf of the administration.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, is inclined to favor the measure. There will be many Republican votes for it.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, one of the two senators in the Finance Committee who voted against favorably reporting the bill, conceded the bill would pass in its present form.

So did Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, who is a member of the special committee appointed to study veterans' economies, but which was not consulted in the framing of the legislation.

Amendments Likely.

Several amendments may be offered on the floor, but those who were considering them said yesterday this step had not been definitely determined.

One change proposed may be similar to that offered but rejected in the House, which would limit any veteran pension or compensation cut to 25 per cent.

Veterans' organizations, including the American Legion, have said they would be willing to accept a one-year flat reduction of 10 per cent in payments to veterans of all wars pending the preparation of recommendations by the congressional committees studying the question.

The measure proposes about $120,000,000 savings by Federal pay cuts limited to 15 per cent.

Crusaders Wire Support Of Roosevelt Economy

Chicago, March 12 (A.P.).—The Crusaders, organized to fight for prohibition repeal, today notified President Roosevelt by telegram that the organization was mustering its power to support his economy program.

Seymour Wheeler and J. Russell Forgan, vice national commanders, sent the following message to the President:

"The Crusaders, with over 1,000,000 members, many of them veterans of the World War whose patriotism did not end with the signing of the armistice, are actively fighting for you in your effort to reduce Government expenses. Your action will be enthusiastically supported by every patriotic citizen in this country. We are today rallying Crusader battalions throughout the country in support of your measure."

Bad Taste

Among Ills, Charged to Columbia Spectator by Probers.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—A committee of five appointed last fall to investigate the Spectator, undergraduate newspaper of Columbia University, reported today that its policies are "not entirely in accord with the best interests of the college and university."

A proposal of Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the School of Journalism, to form a professional newspaper under the auspices of the journalism faculty, however, was rejected.

The committee, appointed by the board of student representatives at the end of the football season at the request of Arthur J. Lelyveld, editor in chief, was composed of two students, two faculty members and a former editor in chief.

It found the paper's editorial attitude "courageous, liberal and intelligent in its tendencies," but said it has "often been mistaken, intolerant and ill-informed in its expression" and "has frequently shown bad judgment in its mode of attack and bad taste as well."

HOLLYWOOD SEEKS WAY OUT OF CRISIS

Hollywood, March 12 (A.P.).—Motion picture producers and directors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences went into conference late today in an effort to perfect a program to bring the film industry through its present crisis.

The financial stringency and the edict of labor unions that they will not permit employes to work under the proposed 50 per cent wage slash has brought about a chaotic condition, out of which some of the producers believe may come a complete shutdown of the studios in Hollywood for an indefinite period.

Ninety-seven per cent of the non-union employes have agreed to the pay cuts and 1,900 workers at the Fox studio consented to work without salary for four weeks.

The labor unions unanimously voted down the salary reduction plan and insisted upon enforcing the terms of a basic agreement under which they now work, but which expires this week.

Present plans call for making tomorrow a holiday for calling mass meetings at the eight major studios.

Willing workers were to be informed of the action of the unions and asked if they would agree to work not longer than three more weeks under the reduction plan or wholly without salary, while the union workers receive their regular wages.

In the event union workers vote down any pay reduction proposal under the basic wage agreement, the matter must be placed before the international heads in New York for arbitration. The producers guarantee the willing workers they will have a definite answer within the three-week period.

Revolt of Peruvian Troops Stirs Lima

Government Sends Force to Suppress Mutiny at Cajamarca.

Lima, Peru, March 12 (A.P.).—An official communique tonight said that some troops of the Eleventh Infantry revolted at dawn Saturday at Cajamarca under the leadership of Lieut. Col. Gustavo Jimenez and that the government has taken steps to punish the rebels.

An unverified dispatch from Arica, Chile, Sunday night set forth that a plot had been discovered at Tacna to overthrow the government of President Sanchez Cerro. Troops were sent to Trujillo.

Fears were expressed that the alleged revolutionary attempt was headed by members of the secret order known as Apristas. Supporting the leaders, according to the reports, were Apristas and Communists.

Legion Chief Says Work More Vital Than Budget

Cleveland, March 12 (A.P.).—National Commander Louis A. Johnson told delegates to the Ninth Ohio District Conference of the American Legion today that "putting millions of men back to work" is more important than balancing the budget.

"I realize fully," he said, "that balancing the budget of the United States is an important matter, and something that in due time must be done. But the most important thing in America today is not the budget, but putting millions of men back to work."

Zangara Writing His Life in Italian

Cermak Slayer Continues Devil-May-Care Pose Toward Death.

Miami, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—Giuseppe Zangara, sentenced to die in the electric chair on his plea of guilty to charges of murder in the fatal wounding of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, has begun the writing of his autobiography in Italian.

When sentence was pronounced last week, Zangara, during a wild tirade against capitalists, expressed the hope that his execution might be withheld two weeks to give him time to write the book. He had lost none of the apparent devil-may-care attitude he exhibited at the time sentence was read by Circuit Judge Uly Thompson.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Joe H. Gill, who was seriously wounded during the same fusillade of shots aimed by Zangara at the then President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt continues to improve, though her condition still is serious, attendants at Jackson Memorial Hospital announced tonight.

POLLARD PROLONGS HOLIDAY TWO DAYS

No Virginia Banks Other Than Those in Richmond Can Open Today.

In connection with the governor's proclamation Collins Denny, jr., assistant attorney general, made the following statement:

"The doing of business on a legal holiday is not prohibited. Persons who desire to transact business may do so. But no persons can be compelled on a legal holiday to do business.

"Paper, &c., which would otherwise mature is carried over to the next business day.

"Monday, no Virginia banks other than those in Richmond can be opened; on Tuesday, banking facilities may be extended to the cities having a recognized clearing house association; on Wednesday, banking facilities may be afforded at all points. In order to prevent the maturing of papers, &c., prior to the opening of banks, the governor has declared Monday and Tuesday legal holidays—but this does not prevent the banks licensed to do business from opening on those days."

In this connection, he said, it should, of course, be borne in mind that no banks are authorized to open which have been prohibited from doing so by the President's proclamation.

Four Banks in Richmond Licensed to Open Today

Richmond, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—Four Richmond banks, members of the Federal Reserve system, reported tonight they had received authorization to open for business tomorrow.

Virginia Commission Aids in Banking Steps

Richmond, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—After an all-day session, the State Corporation Commission issued a statement saying it was cooperating fully with the Federal Government in providing adequate and equal protection for all banking institutions in the Commonwealth.

Mexico Will Claim Damages From U.S.

Will Cite Occupation of Vera Cruz in 1914 by Naval Forces.

Mexico City, March 12 (A.P.).—The newspaper Excelsior said today that Mexico will claim damages for losses sustained because of the occupation of Vera Cruz by the United States naval forces in 1914, and because of the punitive expedition into Chihuahua in 1916.

The newspaper asserted that Mexico was preparing to file damage claims against the United States Government before the United States-Mexican General Claims Commission, which might be organized some time this year.

A treaty authorizing a two-year renewal of this commission was signed some months ago, and the Mexican senate has ratified it, although the United States Senate has not done so.

Police Probe Bombing On North Irish Railway

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 12 (A.P.).—Authorities today were investigating a bomb explosion on the Great Northern Railway line, between Dunmurray and Lambeg, last night.

A group of policemen were near the scene, but they did not capture the malefactors.

Seismologist Tells After-Quakes Peril

Warns New Shocks May Jar Down Buildings Already Weak.

Palo Alto, Calif., March 12 (A.P.).—The possibility that southern California may suffer after-quakes of sufficient intensity to shake down buildings already weakened by the series of tremors beginning Friday was expressed here today by Dr. Bailey Willis, seismologist of Stanford University.

"Although we have nothing but historic records on which to base our predictions," said Dr. Willis, "this earthquake so closely resembles the 1812 tremor that ruined San Juan Capistrano that all buildings weakened by it should be torn down or braced strongly."

The 1812 temblor was followed by a series of severe after-shocks.

and apparently thought after the talks between the British and French premiers that she had succeeded.

"But an inspired announcement indicating this result was promptly denied by a British spokesman."

The diplomatic correspondent of The People, a Sunday labor organ, said he understood:

"If trouble breaks out between Germany, France and Poland, Great Britain does not intend to be dragged in and Mr. MacDonald will insist with Premier Daladier at Geneva on Great Britain standing aside, uncommitted by any obligation apart from its general one under the League of Nations covenant."

Geneva, March 12 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, who has come here with his foreign secretary, Sir John Simon, in an attempt to break the deadlock in which the world disarmament conference has found itself, conferred for a second time today with a number of delegates to the conference. They were Hugh Gibson and Hugh Wilson, of the United States; Count Rudolf Nadolny, of Germany, and Baron Pompeo Aloisi, of Italy.

Mr. MacDonald described British quarters as undaunted by the conference difficulties and as determined to continue the Geneva conversations, expecting to bring the conference to an early and useful termination.

NEED OF BANKING CONFIDENCE STRESSED IN ROOSEVELT TALK

our plan. You people must have faith; you must not be stampeded by rumors or guesses. Let us unite in banishing fear. We have provided the machinery to restore our financial system; it is up to you to support and make it work.

Praise for Congress.

In describing the rapid fire developments of his first week in the White House, President Roosevelt paused to acknowledge his own and the Nation's obligation to Congress for its decisive cooperation Thursday in passing the emergency legislation. A more pressing and threatening situation than then existed, he suggested, would be difficult to match in history. To that situation Congress rose magnificently—"Republicans and Democrats alike"—in a gratifying expression of devotion to the public welfare.

As regards the new emergency money available throughout the country this morning, Mr. Roosevelt said: "It is sound currency because it is backed by actual, good assets."

The principal reason why all sound banks could not be permitted to reopen the same day was that time was required for the physical distribution of the new money supplies from Washington.

Is Being Sent Out.

"The new currency is being sent out by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in large volume to every part of the country," the President explained.

At another point he emphasized: "This currency is not fiat currency. It is issued only on adequate security—and every good bank has an abundance of such security."

Assurance that sound State banks would be offered generous assistance under the new law was also a part of the President's outline of policy and program. He expressed the hope that in certifying State banks to the Treasury for resumption licenses the scattered State banking departments would be "as careful as the National Government."

Prompt Action Foreseen.

While the President put the finishing touches on his historic address yesterday afternoon, Democratic and Republican leaders alike, in the Senate, predicted prompt action this week on the Roosevelt economy program.

All factions in the Senate now recognize that the budget-balancing legislation is but a phase of the larger problem of financial and economic restoration.

An overwhelming public acclaim has rolled up behind the President's emergency program over the week-end.

The principal opposition arises generally from that group of Senators who, as members of the various former service men's organizations, have in a degree a vested political interest in the present system of veteran disbursements.

Moves Forward Again.

Even as the President carried his message to the country last night, the Treasury moved forward again in its program of constantly enlarging the field of normal banking operations.

Treasury regulation No. 20 authorized all Federal Reserve Banks and all their branches and agencies to open this morning, "for the performance of all usual and normal banking functions," except for the general orders covering gold payments and the necessity for a vigilant eye on potential hoarders. This order brings the 12 regional Reserve banks and their 25 scattered branches into full operation this morning.

Under Saturday night's orders, all licensed banks in the 12 Reserve cities also are to resume unrestricted operation today. No official announcement yet has been made as to when or where the list of licenses will be announced. They may come from the Treasury, or they may be released in the respective Reserve cities. The same applies to the clearing house-city banks, which are to resume tomorrow.

Includes Only Sound Banks.

In his address last night, President Roosevelt made it plain that only sound banks are to be licensed to resume; "those banks," as he said, "which on first examination by the Treasury have already been found to be all right."

In amplification of the general policy, Mr. Roosevelt said that refusal to license some banks to resume is demanded by their position.

"Your Government does not intend that the history of the past few years shall be repeated. We do not want and we will not have another epidemic of bank failures."

He warned again, however, that the mere failure of a bank to receive its formal license by today or tomorrow should not arouse fears concerning its soundness. When the Treasury determines what banks are to open, the decision will be formally announced. Under the law passed last Thursday, the Federal Government also is prepared to render assistance to such banks as may be only temporarily in need.

Some to Be Reorganized.

"There will be, of course, some banks unable to reopen without being reorganized. The new law allows the Government to assist in making these reorganizations quickly and effectively, and even allows the Government to subscribe to at least a part of new capital which may be required."

This capital may be provided through purchase of preferred stock by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The law authorizes the R. F. C. to increase its indebtedness to whatever extent it may decide prudent in carrying out this provision.

Absolute banking control over withdrawals for potential hoarding is to be maintained, under Treasury regulations promulgated last night, a few hours after the President's address.

Bankers everywhere were warned arbitrarily to prohibit withdrawals to suspected hoarders. The text of Secretary Woodin's statement follows:

The first duty of the banks reopening under license of the Secretary of the Treasury for the performance of the usual functions is to see that the primary needs of the people for funds for the necessaries of life and for normal business undertakings are met. Accordingly, withdrawals for hoarding have been prohibited and the Secretary of the Treasury suggests that until more normal conditions have been established transfers of funds by banks or their customers be limited to necessary purposes.

No Occasion for Worry.

"I know that many people are worrying about State banks not members of the Federal Reserve system," the President began in his discussion of this phase of the situation. "There is no occasion for that worry. These banks can and will receive assistance from member banks and from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"These State banks are following the same course as the national banks, except that they get their licenses to resume business from the State authorities, and these authorities have been asked by the Secretary of the Treasury to permit their good banks to open up on the same schedule as the national banks. I am confident that the State banking departments will be as careful as the national Government in the policy relating to the opening of banks and will follow the same broad policy."

Touching reorganization at another point, the President said:

"I do not promise you that every bank will be reopened, or that individual losses will not be suffered, but there will be no losses that possibly could be avoided, and there would have been more and greater losses had we continued to drift. I can even promise you salvation for some, at least of the sorely pressed banks. We shall be engaged not merely in reopening sound banks, but in the creation of sound banks through reorganization."

Private Banks to Resume.

Treasury order No. 21 authorized the resumption of regular business this morning in all private banks. This authority applies only to banks which are not under either Federal or State supervision. It includes many important financial houses in New York City and other principal financial centers.

These banks are restricted in their domestic gold payments to such transactions as may be specifically authorized by the Treasury. They also are under the general Treasury restrictions regarding excessive withdrawals. Finally, they may engage in foreign exchange transactions only to the extent necessary "for legitimate and normal business requirements, for reasonable traveling and other personal requirements, and for fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to March 6, 1933."

Under Treasury Order No. 22, all Federal banking agencies engaged primarily in agricultural financing also may resume business this morning. This includes the Federal Land Banks, the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, the Joint Stock Land Banks, the Federal Home Loan Banks, the regional agricultural credit corporations, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The authority is contingent, however, upon each of these bank's delivering to its regional Federal Reserve Bank within 30 days, "all gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates owned by it."

Other Forms of Currency.

In return, the banks shall get other forms of currency. Failure to make these gold deliveries may entail revocation of the Treasury's resumption authority.

Another regulation of general import authorized all banks to permit, in accordance with accepted banking practices, the substitution of loan collateral in the regular way. In no case shall the substituted collateral be of less value than the original deposit. This regulation is of vital importance to stock exchange transactions and suggests the early resumption of trading on the New York Stock Exchange this week.

Confidence Expressed.

In the light of yesterday's developments and the new Treasury orders, banking circles expressed confidence last night in the fulfillment of President Roosevelt's declaration over the radio that as the banks reopen they "will take care of all needs."

"It needs no prophet to tell you," the President continued, "that when the people find they can get their money—that they will get it when they want it for all legitimate purposes—the phantom of fear will soon be laid.

"People will again be glad to have their money where it will be safely taken care of and where they can use it conveniently at any time. I can assure you that it is safer to keep your money in a reopened bank than under the mattress."

BUSINESS MEN HOPE SPRING TRADE GAINS

Groceries on Credit in Great Demand Because of Bank Holiday.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Encouraged by the drastic action taken to restore sound banking, many business executives were hopeful of a belated recovery this week, while activity was substantially curtailed by the temporary banking restrictions.

Shortage of cash was felt throughout the country, although many merchants were extending credit freely, and in some lines, particularly groceries, experienced a notable volume of buying by persons expecting higher prices later on, either as a result of mild inflation or restored confidence.

Quotations Higher.

Spot quotations for a wide assortment of staples were higher, including cotton, live stock, nonferrous metals, and scrap iron and steel. While it was too early to tell whether this price firmness was merely the result of psychological factors or restricted movement, due entirely to clogged credit facilities, it was viewed hopefully in many quarters. Most banking authorities, however, felt that inflation talk was at least premature.

Industrial activity was inclined to slacken. Steel, in its weekly survey, placed ingot production at 12½ per cent of capacity. This compares with about 20 per cent only a few weeks ago. Nevertheless, it was pointed out the consumer interest had been aroused by the action taken to restore banking facilities and "a few isolated feelers for long-term, large-lot requirements have appeared."

Easter Rush Likely.

The movement of revenue freight for the week ended March 4 aggregated 477,827 cars, up 18,748 cars from the previous week, which included the Washington Birthday holiday. Substantial gains were shown in merchandise shipments, while the movement of coal contracted. The aggregate gain, however, was somewhat less than seasonal. Electric power production made a somewhat similar showing.

Wholesalers continued to prepare for spring business, but it was suggested that it might be delayed a couple of weeks or so by the banking situation. Some were inclined to expect a late rush just before Easter.

STRIKING VIEW OF DEBRIS IN LOS ANGELES

QUAKE EYEWITNESS TELLS OF EMOTIONS

Capital Visitor Ran From Los Angeles Hotel Room at First Tremor.

The first word-of-mouth description of scenes in southern California as it writhed in the grip of a series of earthquakes, was given to a Post reporter last night by W. H. Evans, of Culver City, Calif., who arrived in Washington yesterday by plane from Los Angeles.

"I was in a room on the first floor of the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles when the first quake was felt," said Mr. Evans. "It was just five minutes of six."

The Culver City man said he was talking to W. A. Bechtel, president of the firm building Boulder Dam. As the ground began to reverberate, Evans said he and his companion instinctively rushed into the street. Plaster was cascading from walls as they emerged.

The two men dashed into Pershing Square, across the street, and watched the 13-story hotel sway. A lofty flagpole on top described a complete arc several times, Mr. Evans said, but did not snap off.

Finds Family Safe.

As soon as it became evident that Los Angeles had not suffered severely, Mr. Evans drove frantically to Culver City and found his family safe and little damage in that community. He then made a tour of the stricken area. He said that he believed there were at least 150 shocks during the night and morning.

At Huntington Park, on the way to Compton, a town severely hit by the disturbances, the high school building was ablaze. At Compton, Mr. Evans said he began to enter the really disaster-ridden areas. Here he saw a father and son taken dead from a heap of debris.

Mr. Evans was loud in his praise of the work of American bluejackets. Several hundred sailors were on leave in Long Beach, he said. Without officers they quickly set up an organization to preserve order, render aid and prevent looting. Later, he said, Capt. Smythe, of the U. S. S. Tennessee, landed thousands more of marines and bluejackets and succeeded in establishing complete morale. The bluejackets, he said, were especially successful in calming the shore-line communities, which feared a tidal wave would follow the quake.

Tells of Dazed Child.

Mr. Evans also told of a conversation with a 13-year-old girl whose mother had been killed as the child, her mother and father emerged from a shop in Long Beach. The father had wandered away dazed, leaving the hysterical child alone until rescue workers found her wandering about.

At the relief headquarters in Long Beach, Mr. Evans said a mother appeared leading a 4-year-old tot and clasping an infant under her arm. Though the trio were safe, workers had difficulty loosening her hold on the children her nerves were at such a high pitch.

As the night wore on, Mr Evans said that in all the communities fires were built in the open and camaraderie developed among total strangers.

Today Mr. Evans will confer with Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, of California, and Pearson Hall, secretary of the California Democratic Central committee, about relief measures.

ONLY 21 CASES AWAIT HIGH COURT HEARING

Supreme Bench Reaches Goal; Cannon Argument Up This Week.

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court has reached its goal.

After years of hard work it is prepared to hear cases as rapidly as counsel can present them, and when it convenes today only 21 cases will be awaiting hearing. In its ordinary procedure the court could hear all of these in one week.

Realizing, however, it will be impossible for counsel to get ready to present on oral argument other cases until April, the court has ordered that 9 of the cases now ready be heard during the week and the remaining 12 the following week. A few years before William Howard Taft became Chief Justice cases waited on the docket for one or two years before getting a hearing.

With Homer S. Cummings, the new Attorney General, present, and with a new Department of Justice force cooperating, the court today will return from a recess during which it has been writing opinions in 42 cases. These it can dispose of in 35 opinions.

It is expected the court on assembling will hand down at least 25 opinions. Among the more important controversies awaiting decision is the appeal of the Appalachian Coals, Inc., asserting the right of competitive producers to organize selling agencies.

The court has for decision, possibly today, the validity of a number of State laws, including those of Louisiana taxing national banks, of Florida taxing chain stores, of Ohio routing interstate motor trucks, of California reducing gas rates at Los Angeles, and of Maryland exempting a certain electric railroad from taxation.

During the week the court will hear oral argument in the case of Bishop James Cannon, jr., on the question whether the Government should have appealed directly to the United States Supreme Court when the District of Columbia Supreme Court quashed an indictment against the bishop and his secretary, Ada L. Burroughs. The Government charged them with violating the criminal practices act by failing to report contributions allegedly received in 1928 for use in their campaign against the election of Alfred E. Smith to the Presidency. The trial court quashed the bill as defective in several particulars.

Forrest Vroomans Wire They Are Safe on Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Vrooman, former Washingtonians, now in Los Angeles, Calif., last night telegraphed W. J. Oates, of 1415 Monroe street northwest, a friend, and assured him they were uninjured in the earthquake tragedy.

McAdoo to Press His Banking Plan

Proposal Would Set Aside Fund for Protection of Depositors.

(Associated Press.)

Senator McAdoo (Democrat), California, said yesterday he would press for immediate action on his bill to indemnify depositors in member banks of the Federal Reserve system and in such other banks as can meet the requirements to be prescribed by the Federal Reserve Board.

"I regard this as an emergency measure which is indispensable as a supplement to the banking legislation already enacted," the former Treasury Secretary said.

"The bill does not provide for a governmental guarantee of bank deposits," he added. "No dollar of the taxpayers' money can be used, under the bill, to make good any depositor's losses; but provision is made for the creation of an ample fund, through assessment of the banks themselves, out of which every depositor in a suspended bank will be immediately paid in full."

CALIFORNIANS FEAR DISEASE; FURTHER EARTH SHOCKS FELT

open places and water was boiled in primitive fashion.

A great portion of Long Beach's 140,000 residents refused to return to their homes, fearing for their lives. They stuck to the open spaces, tenting where they could, but many sleeping with only a blanket for shelter. The weather was warm, however.

Rations Passed Out.

Bread lines stretched for blocks in the City Park, and food camps elsewhere passed out emergency rations.

Church services were held in the open throughout the area of greatest destruction, which extended from Huntington Park, just south of the Los Angeles down town section, to the ocean shore at Long Beach, a stretch of some 20 miles.

The casualty and damage figures simmered down, under a more systematic recheck to weed out duplication, to 115 dead, about 5,000 injured. 4,000 of these cases being merely first aid, and property damage aggregating roughly $35,000,000 to $39,000,000. The coroner's death list for Long Beach showed 50 dead.

Restaurants began opening in Long Beach and other towns in the affected district as armies of laborers, engineers and craftsmen moved in to clean up the debris and repair the damage.

Hospital Beds Available.

Dr. Charles Decker, medical coordinator, said every injured person in the area under his control had been treated and more than 1,000 empty hospital beds were yet available.

The Southern California Edison Co. sent 100 electric ranges to Long Beach to supply cooking needs.

Admiral Richard H. Leigh, commander in chief of the fleet, postponed for one week the forthcoming fleet exercises off California, permitting thousands of officers and men to continue relief work initiated by the Navy.

A force of inspectors today made a survey of all school buildings in Los Angeles County to determine the extent of the earthquake damage. Preliminary estimates indicated 50,000 pupils of the 260,000 in the county's school system would have to remain away from classes until the damage is repaired.

Schools to Stay Closed.

Archie R. Clifton, county superintendent, said only those county schools where there was damage or where exists the suspicion of damage would be closed.

The Los Angeles city schools will remain closed all week, pending a complete checkup. An early survey showed 142 school buildings were damaged.

Los Angeles authorities said all major buildings in the city proper had come through the seismic ordeal without having shown any serious damage or major structural defects.

A note of determination to recreate, rebuild and carry on was clearly sounded in the making of future plans. Authorities said aid would be sought from the Reconstruction finance Corporation, not only for cities and relief agencies but also for individuals.

Thousands attended the Sunday worship services in the open. From the lamentations for the dead they turned toward the tasks of relief and reconstruction. Volunteer hands helped wrecking crews to clear debris from streets and lots. Others offered their services to the relief agencies.

Long Beach was the center of much of this activity, as it was there that the quake took about half its toll. The damage to that city was estimated at $35,000,000 and the death list was tentatively fixed at 49, with 16 missing. Previously it had been tentatively at 70 dead, but authorities said duplication and confusion probably accounted for the discrepency. The rest of the damage was inflicted mainly upon Huntington Park, Compton, Watts, Santa Ana and other small communities in that vicinity.

Of 162 cities in southern California reporting, 29 listed serious damage.

The damage in downtown Los Angeles was first estimated at $250,000. Later it was estimated the damage to buildings of the Los Angeles school district, which extends into some of the other damaged communities, would be $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. Only two deaths were charged against Los Angeles proper.

Rallies to Aid Victims.

All southern California rallied to aid those in the area of destruction. Food, clothing, money where money was to be had, medical supplies and volunteer man power poured in upon any relief agency that asked for them. Banks, still affected by the holiday order, in some cases permitted withdrawals to facilitate the work. Most of the offerings went speedily to Long Beach, Compton, Huntington Park and Watts.

Public officials gave thanks for the presence of the United States fleet in the Los Angeles Harbor area. Even before the Red Cross was on the ground, and the Red Cross lost no time in getting down to business, the Navy men were in the thick of the ruins, preserving order and giving assistance to those in trouble.

The Navy personnel, trained to such work, had long before been counted upon for valuable service whenever the long-expected quake struck here.

Work Is Coordinated.

The American Legion, United States Marines, Salvation Army and State and county organizations coordinated their work with other agencies under supervision of State and county authorities.

Military, naval and police units, on the alert from the very start in order to prevent looting, vandalism and disorder, kept the situation in hand. Martial law was deemed unnecessary and officers said there had been no looting.

The demolition of unsafe buildings was begun under direction of the county fire warden. The first work of that nature started at Bellflower, just south of downtown Los Angeles. One hundred and fifty men were recruited for the job.

Most of the work will have to be done in Compton, Long Beach and Huntington Park. Scarcely a building in Compton was left unscathed.

VIENNA SOCIALISTS MOBILIZE TROOPERS

Reports of Hapsburg or Nazi Putsches Cause Alarm Among Austrians.

Vienna, March 12 (A.P.).—Countless rumors of imminent Nazi or Hapsburg Putsches have led the Socialists to order the precautionary mobilization of the Schutzbund—the republican guard—to forestall any action from either direction.

Schutzbund men remained in their barracks today. Government troops, to the number of 12,000, are concentrated in Vienna and also are subject to call in their quarters.

The military guard at the chancellory was increased to 50 men instead of eight today.

Meanwhile, the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss tonight decreed a new economic policy designed to revive trade. This includes an embargo on new business ventures in "overfilled" lines, prohibition of "fixed price" stores (those selling merchandise at extremely low prices) and the rapid extension of highways.

A fervent appeal to support the government of Chancellor Dollfuss in a "strong hand" regime and thus to help Austria avoid the fate of Bavaria appeared today in the semiofficial newspaper, Reichspost.

(Austria was placed under a dictatorship last week simultaneous with the taking over by Chancellor Adolf Hitler's regime in Germany of the governing power of a number of states. Gen. Franz von Epp, a Nazi leader, was made commissioner of the Bavarian state in Germany.)

Tetanus Serum Is Flown To Quake-Stricken Area

San Francisco, March 12 (A.P.).—At the request of southern California authorities, 175 packages of antitetanus serum were sent by airplane from here today for the earthquake-stricken Los Angeles area, United Air Lines officials said. The shipment will be held for use in the event of a tetanus outbreak.

COOPERATION URGED IN OIL CONSERVATION

Principles Adopted Recently Interpreted by Committee of Institute.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the American Petroleum Institute today suggested means for more effective administration of the oil conservation laws of the country through closer cooperation between units in the industry and the national and State governments.

The committee's statement was termed an "interpretation" of the set of principles adopted by the institute's directors on February 8.

"In States having statutes providing for limitation of production to reasonable market demand," said the executive committee, "the law can not be properly administered unless there is a market for all the oil produced.

"No oil produced in violation of the laws and regulations should be run by the pipe lines or received into the pipe lines at any point whatever. Such unlawful oil should not be purchased in the field where produced or elsewhere from either producers or brokers or from any other person."

In order to cooperate effectually with State officials, any oil run into pipe lines should be carefully checked, the committee said, and definite assurance should be required that it has been lawfully produced." Cooperation with regulatory authorities, it added, would be improved if long-time contracts for purchase of oil were avoided and buying done "currently at the publicly posted prices of the respectvie purchasers."

"The petroleum industry can assist the enforcement agencies of the States by complying with the principles announced in these interpretations. Those engaged in the industry should do nothing directly or indirectly to evade or circumvent the enforcement efforts of the several States."

Dern to Make Speech In New York April 3

New York, March 12 (U.P.).—Secretary of War George H. Dern will speak in New York April 3 when the Salvation Army's united appeal campaign is opened, it was announced today.

HITLERITES ARE TRIUMPHANT IN ELECTION LANDSLIDE

Clear Majority Attained.

The voting here gave the Nazis and the nationalists a clear majority, even if the Communists are allowed to take their seats, which, however, is generally regarded as unlikely.

Only the State party gained a few votes. All other groups lost, because of the smaller balloting as compared with last Sunday's Reichstag elections.

The Communists suffered an enormous drop from the 718,403 votes they garnered last Sunday. The Socialists lost nearly 100,000 since the last previous communal election in November, 1929. Nationalists here and in other cities gained over previous communal elections, while the Socialists, the Centrists, the Populists, the Christians and the State party lost ground almost everywhere.

About 1,000,000 candidates were voted on and about 200,000 officeholders were up for reelection in the provinces and communes. In Berlin, where the Communists have hitherto been in the van, 7,403 candidates ran for 225 municipal offices and 780 other positions in the 20 districts.

Hitler Flies to Munich.

Duesseldorf, Cologne, Muenster, Essen, Frankfort am Main, and Altona all placed the Nazis on top, but in the strong Catholic centers like Cologne, Duesseldorf and Muenster, the Nazis and the Nationalists were not able to command a majority without the Centrists, unless the Communists are disqualified, as governmental leaders have previously hinted.

In Essen the Centrists continued as the strongest party, winning 33 seats as compared with 31 for the Nazis.

President Von Hindenburg again, as he did last Sunday, was the first voter in the Wilhelmstrasse polls.

After memorial services held here today for the World War dead, Chancellor Adolf Hitler and Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior, went by airplane to Munich to direct negotiations for the formation of the new Bavarian government. (Gen. Franz von Epp, high in the councils of the Nazi party, was appointed commissioner for the State of Bavaria last week.)

Socialist Lawyer Slain.

Meanwhile at Dresden, the federal commissioner for the state of Saxony dissolved the state's Republican reichbanner organization and announced that fines ranging up to 15,000 marks would be imposed on individuals participating in further activity.

At Koenigsberg Nazi storm troops occupied trade-union headquarters after an exchange of shots, during which four Reichsbannermen were wounded. Police reported that a quantity of arms was confiscated. Socialist newspaper offices also were seized.

Throughout East Prussia numerous Communists and Socialists were arrested.

A prominent attorney at Kiel, who represented Socialists at a number of political trials was slain when he admitted into his home several men who posed as police.

A Nazi storm troop squad was stationed in the Municipal Staedtische Opera House in Berlin following upon the discharge of the director, Karl Ebert, and his staff.

COMMERCE, HOOVER PRIDE, DUE FOR CUT

Roper to Carry Out Orders to Trim Department 25 Per Cent.

(Associated Press.)

The huge Department of Commerce, whose arms Herbert Hoover extended throughout the world as its Secretary and as President, is to be a major contributor to the Roosevelt purpose of paring governmental costs 25 per cent.

Secretary Roper, who with Swagar Sherley, close Roosevelt adviser, and Lewis Douglas, director of the Budget, has been working for weeks on a general plan for realignment of bureaus and agencies, has now turned his attention directly to cutting down his own department.

The triumvirate of advisers has laid before the President its ideas for revising the Government structure. He is studying it when other more pressing matters permit. It is understood the report, with such alterations as he adds, will be made public in ten days or two weeks.

Congress last session gave the President authority to merge, abolish or shift functions of independent agencies and bureaus at will.

Transport Rumor Seen.

Reports have been current that one of the most drastic shifts would be the creation of a transportation agency, including the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Shipping Board and other sections dealing with this problem. They would be grouped probably under one director, responsible to the President.

While the President is not empowered to abolish or merge any of the Cabinet departments, he can strip them of their functions as he pleases, and it is generally accepted that many changes of this kind will be made.

The Radio Commission is believed certain to go into some other body, instead of remaining a separate division. It has been reported, too, that the Power Commission will become a part of the Interior Department. Because, however, of the importance which Mr. Roosevelt attaches to the waterpower question, the commission will not lose its identity.

Roper to Cut Fourth.

In this authority to whittle down departments, the Department of Commerce is certain to lose some of its functions and have others curtailed. Since Mr. Hoover became its Secretary in 1921, it has grown from a minor department to one of vast activities. Through its Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, it has placed trade attaches in cities all over the world. There have been the complaints by Democrats that these officers are duplicating the efforts of State Department attaches.

That much of this activity will go is believed certain in some official quarters, and these same circles accept that the field officers of the bureau, located in the important cities of the United States, also will be curtailed greatly, if not abolished.

Secretary Roper has indicated plainly he intends to carry out, if possible, the orders of his chief to cut 25 per cent off of costs.

Maj. Williams Asks Support of Economy

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 12 (A. P.).—Members of the American Veterans Association were called upon tonight by Maj. Silas Williams, national commander, to wire senators from their respective States and urge unqualified support of President Roosevelt's economy program.

Law-Order League Supports Auction

Scottsbluff, Nebr., March 12 (A.P.).—A "law and order" league took the farm holiday movemept in hand Saturday and balked plans for "penny" foreclosure sale by buying chattels on real bids.

Nearly 5,000 farmers and business men gathered at a sale barn with the "law and order" advocates outnumbering farm holiday enthusiasts by a wide margin. The holiday group had intended to buy in the chattels of Peter A. Swanson at prices far below their value as has been done in many parts of the State in an effort to avert foreclosure sales.

One 7-cent bid on a piece of farm equipment finally was raised to $75. Other equipment sold for prices ranging from $1 to nearly $100 and draught animals brought more than $100 per team. There was no violence.

Flag Trade

Nazi and Imperial Colors Replace Standard of German Republic.

Berlin, March 12 (A.P.).—The Republican flag is pushed into the discard as the emblem of the German nation by a decree of President von Hindenburg, effective tomorrow, which makes the old imperial black, white and red the national colors.

The decree, which was announced nation-wide in a speech by Chancellor Adolf Hitler today, also sets out that the swastika flag of the Hitler Nationalist Socialist party shall share full equality with the imperial banner.

It provides that until further notice, the swastika emblem be flown on public buildings simultaneously with the imperial colors.

Meanwhile, Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior, issued a supplementary decree calling for the flagging of all public buildings for the next three days "in celebration of the victory of the national revolution."

All church bells in the nation were tolled today as Germany observed a day of mourning for the World War dead.

The revival of the old imperial colors, which flew at half-staff on all public buildings for the first time since 1918, and the military aspect of the ceremonies, in which the reichswehr (standing army), Nazi storm troopers and members of the steel helmet war veterans organization were conspicuous, lent a military note which was lacking under the Republican administrations.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

MUCH has been written and said about the new Federal pay reduction and index figures have been bandied about to show this and that. They say figures don't lie but that liars can figure. The Federal Diary Department has made some original researches on the index figures to be accepted as a basis for maintaining "the credit of the United States Government."

Just why the six-month period ended December, 1928, should be chosen as the magic period for computing salary deductions has not been made clear in anything we've read or heard and no explanation has been found for not using the period ended December, 1912, the "perfect year," when 100 is used as basis for all computations since the World War began.

At any rate, December, 1928, is the period used for arriving at a conclusion. In the Monthly Labor Review, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor, we find "all items" for the period ended December, 1928 (and this includes food, clothing, rent, fuel and light, house furnishing items and miscellaneous costs which includes taxes, insurance, telephone, &c.), was 171.3.

For the period ended December, 1932, for the same expenditures the index was 132.1. Deducting 132.1 from 171.3, we find the difference is 39.2. Then dividing the difference, 39.2, by the larger figure, 171.2, we get slightly more than 22 per cent. This is the difference in living costs and commodity prices now as compared with the index lexel for the second-half period ended December, 1928.

SO that were the actual figure of salary reduction to be based on the decline between present day costs (December, 1932) and expenses for the period ended December, 1928, as shown in these official records, a 22 per cent reduction would result. The maximum proposed is 15 per cent, which, while disconcerting, would in effect be favorable to the Federal worker. We are reminded in the bill that the President is to renew his studies at six-month intervals in order to determine whether any favoring conditions warrant a readjustment. If these conditions hold, it is natural to suppose there will be sliding scale of wages.

The cost of living index number for the United States for December, 1932, was 132.1, a decrease of 2.7 per cent during the six-month period from June, 1932, to December, 1932. It is now 7.2 per cent lower than in December, 1917, 15 years ago, and 39 per cent below the peak of June, 1920.

The December, 1932, cost of living index number shows that the food group, which represents the largest expenditure for the wage-earning family is now 1.3 per cent lower than it was in the base period, 1913 period. This is the only group that represented a decrease from the base period.

Clothing is 21.5 per cent higher than in 1913; rent, 18.0 per cent higher; fuel and light, 56.9 per cent higher; house furnishing goods, 47.4 per cent higher; while the group of miscellaneous items is 99.3 per cent higher, or almost double the base period of 1913.

Only Government agency figures will be used in arriving at a conclusion.

As a leader in a Government employes organization says:

"You can rely on the fact that the figures handed out through the office of Miss Frances Perkins will be thoroughly reliable and will not be padded."

FREDERICK C. LUCAS, secretary of the committee which handled the arrangements in connection with the war memorial, Agriculture, recently referred to in the Federal Diary, has received approximately 75 acknowledgements of commemorative volumes sent to friends and relatives. Replies have reached him from persons in 20 States—Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia. The comments, in toto, followed a commendatory tenor. Some of the more significant ones are quoted:

"Splendid book," "This very beautiful volume is a fitting record of the men for whom it was issued." "Very fine memorial volume," "A beautiful and reverently gotten up publication," "This book constitutes a most fitting printed record of these patriotic employes," "It is a splendid piece of work, both from an artistic and literary standpoint."

"That's just the trouble with us," Mr. Starr reminded him, "We're skimping and not spending."

"Well, I hadn't looked at it that way."

Car-Crash Victim To Be Sent Home

Funeral of Leroy Brooks Today at Asheville; Wife Near Death.

Asheville, N. C., March 12 (A.P.).—The body of Leroy Brooks, killed in an automobile accident near here last night, is to be taken to Baltimore, his former home, for burial following funeral services here tomorrow.

Mrs. Brooks, injured along with seven others in the collision which cost her husband's life, was only partially conscious tonight, and her condition was regarded as critical.

Other occupants of the Brooks car, who were less seriously injured, were Kester Walton, prominent Asheville attorney; Mrs. Walton, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Van Wagner, of Asheville. Marion Wyatt and Lawrence Lyda, occupants of the other car, were lodged in jail for investigation after being treated for slight injuries.

Socialists to Offer President Bank Plan

Indianapolis, March 12 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the Socialist Party of America, meeting here, has announced completion of a Socialist banking plan which they will seek to present to President Roosevelt this week.

A special committee, headed by Morris Hillquit, author, and which will include Norman Thomas, candidate for President in 1928 and 1932, will ask for an interview with the President.

GITTELSON SCORES AT FINAL CONCERT

Constitution Hall Crowded for Farewell of National Symphony.

An appreciative audience crowded Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon for the final concert of the season of the National Symphony Orchestra, with a program of request numbers and Frank Gittelson, concert master of the symphony as soloist.

It was Mr. Gittelson's debut as soloist with the organization to which he has given so much devotion. He proved a most able violinist. In Bruch's "Concerto in G Major" he rose to real heights of interpretation. The beautiful concerto was given its full value by the orchestra, too, in its share of the performance.

Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the orchestra, was accorded a lasting ovation when he appeared for the final concert of what has been a most successful season despite many obstacles.

The way the orchestra has grown this year was shown in its masterly handling of yesterday's program. The overture was Wagner's "Meistersinger," and another number which aroused applause was Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

Then came the "Allegro con Grazia," from the "Symphony No. 6" of Tschaikowsky and, with Ravel's impressive "Bolero," with its melodious measures, was equally a favorite.

When the audience filed out of the concert hall it was with the feelingg that another year of achievement had been written into the history of Washington's own—the National Symphony Orchestra—and that the thanks of the city are due its dauntless leader and each and every member of the organization.

Capital of Mayan Empire Is Located

Mexican Explorer Reports Important Discovery in Jungle.

Mexico City, March 12 (A.P.).—The discovery and exploration of a twelve-century-old capital of the Mayan Empire, whose ruins were described as being fabulously rich, were reported today by Enrique Juan Palacios, an archeologist in the department of education.

Senor Palacios was sent to the ruins, those of Calakmul, about a month ago when scientists of the Carnegie Institute reported the discovery of the ancient city to the Federal government.

The ruins are about 231 miles south of the City of Campeche, in an entirely uninhabited region, and are extremely difficult to reach. Palacios expressed the opinion that the city was one of those reported by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when he made an exploration flight over that stretch of jungle three years ago.

Petition to Roosevelt Will Advise Inflation

Columbia, Mo., March 12 (A.P.).—Four economists, members of the University of Missouri faculty, made known today they had circulated among faculty members of 100 universities and colleges of the country a petition asking President Roosevelt and Congress to adopt a program of "controlled inflation."

The petition, it was announced, has been signed by 150 teachers of economics, including Profs. Irving Fisher, of Yale University, and John R. Commons, of the University of Wisconsin. Signers of the petition urge "immediate and vigorous action looking to an increase in the general price level, to be followed by a definite attempt at stabilization."

Affiliates Divorced By Memphis Bank

Union Planters Announce Plans in Line With Roosevelt Ideas.

Memphis, Tenn., March 12 (A.P.).—The Union Planters National Bank & Trust Co. tonight announced plans eventually to absorb its State subsidiary, the Manhattan Savings Bank & Trust Co., and to divorce three affiliates.

Gilmer Winston, president, said in his announcement that "these moves are in line with the proclamation of President Roosevelt." The three affiliated institutions to be cut loose from the National Bank are the Bluff City Abstract Co., the Union Planters Title Guaranty Co., and the Union Planters Co.

Winston said the Manhattan's State Bank charter would be retained, but that the bank would act as a holding company for the affiliates.

Rainey and Byrns Guests At Tammany Club's Feast

Representative Sirovich Plays Host and Speaker and House Leader Submit to Long Interview on Outlook for Legislation.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Representative William I. Sirovich, who came into the limelight just one year ago with a congressional crusade against theater critics, played host tonight to Speaker Rainey and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, majority House leader, at a banquet of his district's Tammany Club.

Prior to the banquet Representative Sirovich arranged a press interview for his guests, at which the Speaker, under questioning by his host for the most part, discussed a wide range of national issues. Afterward pictures were taken.

"Henry Rainey and Joe Byrns promised me months ago they would attend this banquet," Sirovich explained, "and they kept their promise, as they have kept every promise they have ever made."

In the interview, which lasted more than an hour, Speaker Rainey lounged on a sofa between Sirovich and Byrns and asserted that:

There is "not the slightest doubt" but that the Senate will approve the administration economy bill which the House passed yesterday.

A bill to legalize beer will be passed "very soon," probably in April.

President Roosevelt's unemployment relief, bond issue also is assured speedy passage.

The new Congress, like the old one, is opposed to cancelling the war debts, but "might be willing" to make some readjustments "if it could restore international trade."

"The President," Speaker Rainey continued, "is going to be a second Woodrow Wilson."

The Speaker expressed the view that legalized beer would be a great aid to economic recovery, and said the brewing industry was the sixth largest in the country before prohibition.

"And will you lead the fight for the beer bill?" Representative Byrns was asked.

"Yes," the Tennesseean replied, "I favor it very much. Its main advantage is that it will help balance the budget."

"Do you think your State will ratify the repeal amendment?" was the next question.

Legislatures Speed Action For Voting on Dry Repeal

Nation-Wide Survey of Capitals Shows State Machineries Are Moving Fast to Settle Local Enforcement Issue as Well.

Chicago, March 12 (A.P.).—With sessions in many States drawing toward a close, Legislatures of the Nation are speeding consideration of State liquor enforcement and setting up machinery for citizens to express themselves on the national repeal proposal.

Indiana has adopted State repeal legislation, while similar bills are pending in a number of other assemblies, a survey today showed. The present status of the issue:

Illinois — State repealer awaiting the signature of Gov. Henry Horner, who has signified approval. Measures are ready for introduction to regulate the liquor traffic.

Indiana — State prohibition laws have been repealed along with the adoption of bills to regulate manufacture and sale of beer. The State awaited action of the governor on a measure to call a State convention on national repeal.

Maine Studies Three Plans.

Maine—Three plans for repeal conventions are before the Legislature and a fourth is pending.

Rhode Island—Public hearings are scheduled Tuesday on a bill to legalize beer. On the same day the State Liquor Commission expects to introduce a measure for holding a convention to act on repeal.

Missouri—Governor is expected to sign a bill legalizing manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer by weight. The Senate virtually is certain of passage of a State repeal bill, but prospects of House passage are slim. No opposition has been apparent to a bill setting up machinery for action on national repeal.

Idaho—A new act gives the governor authority to call a special election to name repeal convention delegates. It was expected that delegates would be elected in August next year.

Wisconsin—Its State prohibition laws repealed years ago, an election to name delegates for a repeal convention has been set for April 4, with the convention scheduled April 25.

Michigan Votes April 10.

Kansas—The Senate tomorrow will reconsider its vote on a measure proposing a method through popular vote to select delegates for a State repeal convention. The measure lacked one vote on passage Saturday.

North Dakota—The Legislature before adjournment passed a bill to set up municipal liquor stores if Congress permits. It refused to repeal State enforcement laws.

Michigan—The governor has signed a measure calling for a repeal convention April 10.

New Jersey—The Republican majority conference committee adopted a plan for convention delegates to be chosen in May and to assemble 10 days later for repeal action.

West Virginia—The Legislature passed a bill to legalize 3.05 per cent beer; State prohibition repeal will be submitted to voters in the 1934 general election, and a special election has been called June 27 to name convention delegates to dispose of national repeal.

Bills Pending in Texas.

Texas—Bills are pending in committees for election of convention delegates. One seeks to postpone the election until after the 1934 general election, another proposes delegate election within 90 days.

Minnesota—Bills pending to repeal State enforcement and to regulate sale of 3.05 per cent beer if permitted.

Iowa—State liquor control and convention bills are pending.

Nebraska—A bill for resubmission of the State constitutional prohibition provisions awaits House action after passage by the Senate.

New Mexico—A bill regulating liquor, providing the State "bone dry law" is repealed at a special election September 19, is in the hands of the governor. At the same election voters name contitutional convention delegates.

Utah—The Legislature passed bills legalizing the manufacture of beer for sale outside the State and for the election of delegates for repeal ratification at a date to be set by the governor.

Oklahoma Acts Today.

Oklahoma—House tomorrow will argue method of selecting repeal convention delegates.

Colorado—Two bills ready for governor to replace laws wiped out. One regulates sale of beer and intoxicants and the other provides license fees.

Wyoming—Four per cent beer legalized. Machinery provided for referendum on State repeal and for conventions for national repeal.

Washington—The governor is authorized to call eighteenth amendment convention between five and eight months after Congress submits question.

Montana—Governor has under consideration bills for repeal submission and setting up beer and liquor license systems.

CONGRESS BLESSING BY FATHER HURNEY

Special Service Thursday at Immaculate Conception Church Here.

There will be a special service in the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 12.15 p. m. Thursday to ask God's blessing on the Seventy-Third Congress, assembled in the Nation's Capital. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, will be celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. S. A. Czyz as deacon and the Rev. J. Kelly Reese as subdeacon. The music, under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, will include Florence Yocum, soprano; Kathryn Bowers, contralto, and the boys' sanctuary choir.

Many elaborate services are being planned by Father Hurney for the mid-Lenten season. The Rev. Daniel J. Connors, Oblate Missionary of Mary Immaculate, preaches a five-minute sermon after the week-day 12:15 p. m. services every day during Lent.

The Rev. Thomas F. Ryder, Paulist preacher of note, is giving a series of Lenten discourses at the 5 o'clock service, which is broadcast every Sunday afternoon from the church, through WOL.

A solemn high mass is planned for 12:15 p. m. Friday, in observance of St. Patrick's Day.

Triduum prayers in honor of St. Joseph will take place at all services next Saturday, Sunday and Monday. At a high mass next Monday statuettes of St. Joseph will be given to all fathers attending this service at 12:15 p. m. that day.

Special services will take place on Good Friday. The mass of the presanctified will take place at 10 a. m.; the three hours' agony will take place from noon until 3 p. m., and will be preached by the Rev. George F. Strohaver, S. J.; stations of the cross will take place at 5 p. m., and the concluding service will take place with tenebrae and sermon by Father Hurney at 7:45 p. m.

Dr. Samuel M. Johnson Is Patient at Garfield

Dr. Samuel M. Johnson, president of the National Boulevard Association of Arlington County, Va., is seriously ill in Garfield Hospital, it was learned last night.

Dr. Johnson took an active part in the opening and development of the Lee highway in Virginia. His condition was described as "fair."

Cobbler Hunters' Test on March 25

Famous Sporting Event of Virginia Horse Country to Be Run Soon.

Strasburg, Va., March 12 (A.P.).—The Cobbler course, lying on the adjoining estates of Dr. Edmund Morgan's Ashleigh and Ben McCarty's Waverly Farm, will be the scene March 25, of the annual hunter trials of the Cobbler Hunt.

The event has come to be known as one of the foremost sporting events of Virginia's horse country. The course is about two miles long, studded with jumps and obstacles. All the jumps are natural ones, identical to jumps riders must take when in the field on an actual chase.

Some of the finest horses of Fauquier County have ridden with the Cobbler hounds and will be eligible for the hunter trials.

JEWRY OF CAPITAL CELEBRATE PURIM

Special Cakes Are Prepared and Gifts of Food Are Exchanged.

Triangular cookies filled with poppyseed the order of the day, Washington Jewry celebrated Purim, or the Feast of Esther, yesterday with delicacies at home and services in the synagogues.

The holidy, dating back to about 2,500 years ago when the Jews were threatened with extinction by an Assyrian monarch and were saved by the bravery and loyalty of Queen Esther, is observed annually by feast, playlet and song.

Special cakes filled with poppyseed are prepared and gifts of food are exchanged. Saturday night services were held at all synagogues and a scroll containing the historical background of the festival was recited. At the mention of the name of Haman children attending the festival service stamped their feet to show disapproval of the man who persecuted the Jews during that period.

Rabbi Solomon Metz, leader of the Adas Israel Congregation, told members of the synagogue at their celebration yesterday that the observance was not merely an historical incident, but a symbol of the triumph of Jewry the world over against prosecution, in the past and in the future. He asserted that the circumstances in the time of Haman and the present situation in Germany were similar. A program of singing and music was presented at the holiday observance.

The Young People's League of the Washington Hebrew Congregation presented a program of music and a one-act play at their celebration of the holidy last night. Frederic William Wile spoke.

$33,000 Robbery Fugitive Captured

Confesses Identity After Absently Inscribing His Real Name.

Morgantown, W. Va., March 12 (A.P.).—Herbert Retzloff, 31, is en route tonight to Cleveland to face charges of perpetrating a $33,000 bank holdup—police say largely because he "forgot" and wrote his "real name."

A shopkeeper Saturday thought Retzloff was offering a $10 counterfeit bill. He called police, who arrested him at a hotel as "H. Retzloss." Police said they asked Retzloff to write his name on a fingerprint card, and he wrote it correctly. They said he then confessed to holding up the Cleveland bank and waived extradition.

Cleveland police had broadcast a request that if arrested a Herbert Retzloff be held for questioning about the bank robbery. Retzloff had $61 cash when arrested. Police said he claimed to have spent the remainder of the alleged loot.

7 Are Injured by Bomb In Cuba Official's Home

Havana, March 12 (A.P.).—Seven persons were injured, two of them seriously, when a large bomb exploded in the residence of Angel Jimenez Rivas, Customs House inspector, today.

ROOSEVELT TO KEEP SYKES IN RADIO JOB

James H. Hanley, of Omaha, Reported Selected to Succeed Saltzman.

It was learned late last night that the name of Judge E. O. Sykes, of the Federal Radio Commission, will be sent to the Senate by President Roosevelt today for confirmation. Judge Sykes was reappointed by President Hoover, but was not confirmed during the last session.

It is quite likely that Judge Sykes will become chairman of the commission. He is the only remaining member of the original Federal Radio Commission, which was created soon after the passage of the radio act in 1927. He recently was chairman of the committee representing this Government at the International Radiotelegraph Conference held in Madrid.

It also is reported that the name of James H. Hanley, Democrat, of Omaha, will be sent to the Senate. Mr. Hanley is named to fill the unexpired term of Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, who retired last July. Gen. Saltzman was appointed for six years. The term expires in 1936.

Mr. Hanley is said to have the backing of Arthur F. Mullen, also of Omaha, Democratic national committeeman. Mr. Mullen couldn't be reached last night. Mr. Hanley is a lawyer.

Switzerland Maintains Gold Basis for Dollar

Basel, Switzerland, March 12 (U.P.). Technical measures were taken today by the governors of the central banks to permit the maintenance of the dollar exchange on a gold basis.

The meeting discussed the crisis in the United States, which was regarded as more of a banking than a monetary nature.

2 Men Are Held In Torch Murder

Alleged Extortion Pair Accused of Burning Their Victim at Stake.

Tucumcari, N. Mex., March 12 (A.P.). Roy Reid and Leonard Beck were bound over to District Court at a preliminary hearing here on charges of murder in the torch slaying of Lee Marshall, homesteader.

Marshall was chained, tied to a stake and burned fatally with gasoline by two extortionists who were angered when his home failed to yield them money.

Dr. J. M. Doughty, county physician, testified Reid's hands had been burned recently. Officers said Reid told them the burns had resulted from explosion of an acetylene torch.

Young Boettcher Rests From Strain in Hospital

Denver, March 12 (A.P.).—Charles Boettcher 2d was in Mercy Hospital here today recovering from nervous strain which followed his recent abduction.

Boettcher went to the hospital last night. Physicians said he was resting easily. It is problematical whether he will be able to make a planned airplane flight to South Dakota with Denver authorities to identify the ranch house in which he was held prisoner for seventeen days.

Oil Drilling Cleared Of Blame in Quake

Geologist Says Withdrawals Could Have Left No Cavities Causing Slides.

San Francisco, March 12 (A.P.).—Oil and gas withdrawals from southern California fields left no cavities that could have been a factor in the earthquakes in that region, Ralph Arnold, widely known Los Angeles geologist, said here today.

"To understand this," he added, "one need only remember that a pailful of sand occupies exactly the same space whether it is filled with gas, oil or water, so that a sand underground containing gas, oil or water will occupy the same space after these fluids and gas are removed."

Arnold said he believed a southward extension of the Inglewood fault "has had something to do with the disastrous earth movements."

Dorothy Ellingson Released in Theft

San Francisco, March 12 (A.P.).—A grand theft charge preferred against Dorothy Ellingson, convicted eight years ago of slaying her mother, was dismissed by Municipal Judge Sylvian Lazarus.

Alexander Mocalin, attorney for Miss Ellingson, told the judge the girl was in a hospital following her attempt to end her life, after her former roommate, Miss Mary Ellis, had charged her with stealing clothing and jewelry.

"The ends of justice will not be furthered by further harassing her," said the judge.

Gift of Zoo Animals Found Unwelcome

Cleveland Rejects Collection Because of $4,500 Cost for Food.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 12 (U.P.).—A letter was received at city hall announcing that Cleveland would soon be the recipient of a gift of one lion, one lioness, two leopards, one buffalo, one python, one elephant, assorted antelopes and other animals for the city zoo.

After a huddle with other officials Mayor Ray T. Miller announced the city would have to say "no" to the offer of Mrs. James Corrigan, widow of a steal magnate, who recently went to Africa on a big game hunt expressly to provide some animals for the Cleveland Zoo.

The reason was that it would cost $4,500 a year to feed the collection.

DRY LAW'S SUCCESS IS CALLED TOO GREAT

Recent strong gains made by anti-prohibition forces in the last few months has not discouraged the prohibitionists in the least, but has brought them put in double strength to fight repeal of the dry laws, Francis D. Nichol, author and lecturer, of Takoma Park, said yesterday at a prohibition rally in the Columbia Heights Christian Church.

"Prohibition's worst handicap today is not because it has failed so dismally in dealing with the great evil, but because it has succeeded so well," Mr. Nichol said.

The wets' claim that they wish the return of beer and light wines to save the youth of the Nation from the spoils of bootleg liquor is "not very deep," he said.

"The desire for temperance for the youth is not the primary explanation for the tremendous clamor for repeal, it is something more mercenary, or more material, such as the satisfaction of appetite; that's the real driving force behind this whole movement," Mr. Nichol said.

"The trouble is that prohibition has made such excellent work of sweeping out the old saloon system that the public has quite forgotten what it was that the prohibition fight was waged against," he said.

Ruth Lockman, field secretary of intercollegiate prohibition, told of the effect of liquor on the students and declared that prohibition among college students has made great headway.

"Christian youth in our colleges are fighting to maintain their standards and are not drinking as the wets would have us believe," she said.

Mendes Is Accused In Inverclyde Suit

British Lord Charges Wife Was Unfaithful in U. S. in 1931.

London (Monday), March 13 (U. P.).—The London Daily Mail today said that Lothar Mendes, motion picture director, was named codefender in a divorce suit filed by Lord Inverclyde, wealthy British peer, against Lady June Inverclyde, the actress, whom he wed in 1929. The action alleges infidelity in the United States in 1931. No damages were claimed. The court was requested simply to pronounce a decree of divorce. Lady Inverclyde was said to have decided to defend the suit.

The Daily Mail quoted Mendes in a transatlantic interview from Hollywood as saying: "I can not see why I am brought into the matter. Before taking steps I should like to consult June. We were not married after her Reno divorce."

She divorced Lord Inverclyde in Reno on August 17, 1931, but the divorce is not recognized in Great Britain. The actress has desired that Lord Inverclyde divorce her in England, to make it legal there also.

3 Killed, 2 Injured As Train Hits Auto

Car Had Almost Cleared Tracks at Florence, S. C., Crossing.

Florence, S. C., March 12 (A.P.).—Three persons were killed and two others were seriously injured here today when their automobile was struck by an Atlantic Coast Line passenger train at the Palmetto street crossing.

Those killed were T. W. Hodge, driver of the car, an unidentified white woman, and Hilliard Felder, a Negro. Hodge and Felder were both from Alcolu, S. C. J. J. Sanders was reported in a critical condition from head wounds, and Willie Felder, another Negro, was said to have but slight chance to live.

The automobile had almost cleared the tracks when it was struck, the occupants being hurled some distance down the right of way.

Child's Cult Death Facing Jury Probe

Linden, Tex., March 12 (A.P.).—The death of Bernice Clayton, 8-year-old paralysis victim in weird religious rites at a cabin in a remote hill community near Linden, will be investigated by the Cass County grand jury tomorrow.

Paul Oakley, 20, self-described "divine healer;" Coy Oakley, 25, his brother, who terms himself a "disciple" of Paul, and Sherman Clayton, 30, father of the girl, have been held since the girl's death last December 10. Paul Oakley testified at a preliminary hearing he was trying to cure the child when a "devil" told him to choke her.

District Attorney E. L. Lincoln said he would seek murder indictments against the three and that, if the bills were returned, the cases would be tried within the next three weeks.

Kansas City Trade To Resume Today

Volume of Live Stock Is Expected to Scale Above Average.

Kansas City, March 12 (A.P.).—Speedy resumption of normal market trade, beginning tomorrow with unrestricted activities at the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange, is expected in Kansas City as the banking holiday is brought to a close.

The Kansas City Board of Trade will open for limited trading in cash grain. Resumption of normal business is dependent on the free interchange of credits between city and country banks.

Monday live stock trading will mark the first full day of business since Thursday. Market authorities expected slightly more than the usual Monday receipts, estimating the totals at 4,000 cattle, 3,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep. Fruit, vegetable and produce markets continued business throughout the holiday.

Dismissed College Minister Defended

Religion and Labor Foundation Will Investigate Chicago Incident.

New Haven, Conn., March 12 (A. P.).—The National Religion and Labor Foundation, a nonsectarian and nondenominational organization, with headquarters here, announced today that an inquiry would be made by it into the dismissal of Dr. James M. Yard, a Methodist Episcopal minister, as director of the religious activities at Northwestern University, Chicago, a position he has held for five years.

The committee of inquiry will be headed by Dr. Willard Uphaus, a field secretary. The foundation said the inquiry would be based on reports that Dr. Yard's dismissal was due to his activities in behalf of Socialist organizations and his alleged "leanings toward atheism."

Dr. Yard informed the foundation that his dismissal "came out of a blue sky," and asserted it resulted from his outspoken views on peace and war, race relations and economic matters.

EXTENSION GRANTED ON 1932 AUTO TAGS

Old Plates Will Be Allowed Until May 1 in Virginia, Official Reveals.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Extension to May 1 for 1932 automobile license tags has been granted, according to a statement by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner T. McCall Frazier.

In his statement, Mr. Frazier said, "Owing to the present financial crisis, motorists of Virginia will be permitted to operate cars with 1932 tags until May 1. Beginning April 1, the cards with which motorists may obtain their 1933 tags will go out in the mails."

While preparing to open his office in the offices of Sheriff Howard B. Fields in Arlington for the distribution of the 1933 tags, J. V. Turner, in charge of the distribution, yesterday said he now has on hand 9,000 of the new tags, but inasmuch as he has received no official order no tags will be sold on March 15, the day he was scheduled to open his office.

Mr. Frazier stated that if any one wishes to obtain his 1933 automobile tags he may do so by applying to Mr. Frazier's office at Richmond.

Auto Runs Amuck After Driver Dies

Careens From Curb to Curb and Endangers Many Lives in Brooklyn.

New York, March 12 (U.P.).—Max Kemptor died of a heart attack while driving his automobile in Brooklyn today, and his lifeless foot pressed the gasoline accelerator to the floor.

The car traveled madly for more than a block, careening from curb to curb and endangering the lives of pedestrians and motorists alike. Finally it was brought up against the stone steps of a Blake avenue residence.

Half a hundred persons, shouting imprecations, stormed up to the wrecked automobile only to find the driver dead.

18-Hour Job Today In Chicago's Banks

Loop Employes Warned to Be Ready for Hardest Work of Lives.

Chicago, March 12 (A.P.).—If you're envious of "bankers' hours" read this. The big loop banks, closed for nine days, tonight were preparing for a deluge of business when doors swing open tomorrow.

Large forces of workers will punch the clocks in some financial institutions as early as 6 a. m. Many employes will not quit for the day until near midnight.

The general order to employes was: "Be prepared to do eight days' work in two hours."

GEORGE C. WHITE, 59, DIES IN ALEXANDRIA

Native of Warrenton Was Former Member of Capital Police.

George Clinton White, 59, of Burke, Va., died yesterday morning in the Alexandria Hospital following a brief illness. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Burke Community Hall. Masonic burial services will be held at the Fairfax Cemetery.

Mr. White was born at Warrenton, Va., on June 16, 1873, and had lived in Fairfax County for almost 50 years. He was known throughout the county for his activities in fraternal, civic, social and political circles. He was a retired member of the Washington police force.

At the time of his death he was an agent of the Southern Railway at Burke, a member of the Fairfax County School Board from Lee Magisterial District, a charter member of the Fairfax Rotary Club and had represented Lee District in both local, State and National Democratic conventions. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Henry Lodge, No. 57, A. F. A. M. at Fairfax, and the Acca Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., in Richmond, Va.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nita Robinson White, and a brother, Peyton White, of Warrenton.

Dance Hall Fight Takes Man's Life

Victim, Stabbed in Back at Rockville, Is Found Dying in Road.

Stabbed in the back during an altercation at a Rockville, Md., dance hall early yesterday, Clifton Dorsey, colored, 25, was found lying in the roadway near his home and died in an ambulance of the Rockville Rescue Squad, en route to Montgomery County General Hospital.

Dorsey was found by passersby as he lay unconscious. After first aid treatment he regained consciousness and, according to police, named his assailant.

More than a dozen colored residents of Rockville had been arrested last night in connection with the murder. The man named by Dorsey had not been located. Police said Dorsey was stabbed through the back with a long knife.

Revenue Office to Open At Night to Aid Citizens

The office of Harry K. Green, commissioner of revenue for Arlington County, will be open tonight and tomorrow and Wednesday from 6:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. to assist taxpayers in making out the Federal and State income tax returns. Wednesday will be the dead line for Federal returns and, although there is considerable time for the filing of the State returns, Commissioner Green and his deputies prefer to make out both at the same time.

This service to the taxpayers is not required by law, but has been voluntarily given for many years.

Mass Meeting Called Tonight in Clarendon

With a view of creating a greater interest among the residents of Clarendon in local and county affairs, an open meeting will be held under auspices of the Citizens Association in the Democratic headquarters on Wilson boulevard at 8 p. m. today. All residents of Clarendon are urged to attend.

The meeting will open with a business session at which officers will be elected, to be followed by a social session, including cards, dancing and refreshments.

Woodrum Feels Veteran Policy Will Be Liberal

(Associated Press.)

Representative Woodrum, of Roanoke, a member of the House Economy Committee, said yesterday in a statement that he is confident veterans with war service connected disabilities and their dependents "will continue to receive sympathetic and liberal treatment at the hands of their Government."

Woodrum said he made that assertion after conferences with President Roosevelt, Lewis Douglas, Director of the Budget, and Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator.

DR. LANG IS SPEAKER BEFORE HOLY NAME

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Dr. Anton Lang, jr., son of the famous Christus in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, was the principal speaker at the Alexandria Holy Name Society communion breakfast yesterday morning in the George Mason Hotel. Covers were laid for 215.

Communion mass was celebrated by the Rev. E. A. Brosnan, spiritual director of the Holy Name Society in Virginia, and William J. Nugent was in charge of the choir and congregational singing. The solo was by Talbert Haslett. Herbert E. Cady led the procession of the membership from the church to the hotel.

In addition to Dr. Lang, W. J. McNeal, president of the Holy Name Society of the District of Columbia, gave a short talk, as did Lieut. Edward Trumbull, U. S. M. C., formerly commandant of the Nicaraguan National Military Training School.

"Ave Maria" was sung by Miss Christine West, and "The Rosary" by Lawrence E. Roland, both accompanied by Miss Ella Hill. Invocation was by the Rev. L. J. Koster, of St. Rita's Parish, Mount Ida, and greetings from that parish brought by M. J. McFarland. Francis H. Fannon was toastmaster.

The affair was in charge of the following committee: The Rev. Hugh J. McFadden, spiritual director of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, chairman; Michael T. Dwyer, Reginald Dyson, James Igoe, Frank H. Nowland, Charles Callum, J. M. Krafft, Judge William P. Woolls, Leo P. Harlow, Earl Rothmund, Edward Johnson, Raymond Graumann, Joseph L. Lash, Ted Conlon, William J. Greenan, Capt. John Murphy, C. Raymond Hellmuth, Herbert E. Cady, Thomas McFarland, E. A. Sweeley, James R. Duncan, R. E. McGahey, Francis T. Quinn, Charles B. Sullivan, George W. Kimball, Thomas Nugent, William Nugent, Bernard Pegan, Frank Monroe, Martin E. Greene and Lawrence Corbett.

Joint Club Luncheon Wednesday.

The Alexandria Rotary Club, Francis H. Fannon, president, and the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, Irving Diener, president, will hold a joint meeting at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday in the George Mason Hotel, and omit the Tuesday and Thursday meetings of the respective clubs. The ladies of both organizations will serve the luncheon.

He's It

Fireman Tagged by Town Policeman While Fighting Blaze.

Joseph Birch, assistant chief engineer of the Falls Church, Va., Volunteer Fire Department, was given a summons for obstructing traffic while attending a fire in the town yesterday afternoon by Richard Turner, town policeman.

According to the firemen of the department, Birch was the ranking member of the department responding to the alarm, and it was his duty to run the pumper, supplying water to the other firemen. He responded to the alarm in his car and, arriving at the scene, parked alongside the fire engine and assumed his post. While the other firemen were extinguishing the field blaze, which was threatening several houses, Turner appeared on the scene and ordered Birch to move his car. Birch refused to leave his post and was given the summons to appear in the mayor's court on a charge of improper parking.

12 Sealers Swept To Sea Held Safe

Newfoundland Crew Now Believed Marooned on Island.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, March 12 (A.P.).—Twelve sealers who were swept seaward by a wind-driven icepack on Friday were believed safe on Western Island tonight, but high winds prevented rescue parties from setting out.

Residents of Horse Island, 2 miles east of Western Island, said they saw a fire on the latter island yesterday and today and believed that the seal hunters had reached shore there. The men carried food sufficient for three days.

It was believed that when the weather becomes milder they can make their way to the mainland, 20 miles south. Western Island is large and, although uninhabited, affords shelter. The sealers could not communicate with Horse Island or the mainland.

26th Bombing in Illinois Coal War Hurts No One

Taylorville, Ill., March 12 (A.P.).—The twenty-sixth bomb to be exploded during coal mining difficulties in Christian County today shattered windows at the home of Artis Merchants in nearby Tovey.

No one was injured.

MONTGOMERY GROUP FAVORS BLUE LAWS

Resolutions Are Adopted at Rockville Mass Meeting for Closed Sabbath.

Resolutions opposing the legalization of Sunday athletic contests and motion pictures in Montgomery County were adopted yesterday by 500 persons at a mass meeting in the Rockville courthouse.

The bills were introduced recently in the Legislature by Dr. George L. Edmonds, a delegate from Montgomery County.

They advocate legality of baseball and other games on Sunday, motion pictures in the metropolitan area of Montgomery County, and motion pictures in other sections of Montgomery County, subject to a town ordinance and referendum.

The meeting was conducted by Odorian A. Robey, also a member of the State Legislature from Montgomery County.

Other members of the State Legislature attending the meeting were Mrs. Lavania Engle, of Linden, and Dr. George L. Edmond, of Rockville.

Among those speaking in protest against passage of the bills were Mrs. Alice Chaman, of Kensington; Father Rosensteel, of the Forest Glenn Catholic Church; George H. Lamar, Rockville attorney; Mrs. Ernest Hartshorn, of Kensington; the Rev. W. C. Maine, of Damascus, and Dr. W. W. Davis, president of the Lord's Day Alliance, of Baltimore.

Alexandria DeMolay Holds Session Tonight

Veteran Seaman Announces Finding of Columbus' Body

Capt. Hartmann, One of Crew Which Took Stevenson to South Seas, Declares He Also Knows Location of 49 Spanish Gold Ships.

New York, March 12 (U.P.).—Capt. Howard Hartmann, veteran of 52 years at sea, took an impressive stance in the Hotel Victoria today and announced he has discovered the body of Christopher Columbus.

Capt. Hartmann wore his full regalia, including battle ribbons, for the occasion. He was fairly weighted down with gold braid, smoked a pipe and said "Blow me down!" twice.

"I am one of two people in the universe," said the captain, "who know where the bones of Columbus lie. The other is a feller in San Domingo. And one of these days I am going to get those bones. You watch me."

Capt. Hartmann, who once shipped with Joseph Conrad and who is the sole survivor of the crew that took Robert Louis Stevenson to the South Seas, spent many years trying to find the Columbus casket. He not only succeeded, he said, but now knows the precise location where 49 Spanish ships, each loaded with gold, lie on the bed of the sea.

"Columbus," he said, "made a last wish that he be buried in a leaden casket, with a cross of the Order of Labrador around his neck, with a Monk's robe on him, and with the hand and leg irons on him, and that he be buried in a dungeon deep. Get that—in a dungeon deep. Well, I found that dungeon deep.

"For ten years after he died they kept his body in the convent in Spain and then a bull of the Pope fixed it up so his last wishes would be carried out. They took him to the dungeon deep in San Domingo. Then, later on, six of his best friends died off, one by one, and they left the same requests. They are all buried in this same dungeon deep, which these eyes of mine have looked upon.

"When I finally get hold of those seven caskets and get them on a ship, the only thing left to do will be to find out which one is the one with Columbus in it. And how do you suppose I'm going to do that? Guess."

"How about opening it?" suggested the captain's interviewer.

"Unnecessary," he explained. "You remember I told you his last requests were carried out. Now, what did they put on his feet and hands? The shackles! Now, when I get those seven caskets, all I've got to do is shake them and the one that has metal rattling in it—that's her!"

Capt. Hartmann, in prying into the known facts of Columbus' life, found out that the Spaniards had loaded 50 ships with gold, obtained from San Domingo, and that a hurricane sent all of them but one to the bottom.

"I went at it systematically," he said, "and I found out it was the same place where Columbus wrecked his flagship, the Santa Maria, and where the first of his men were massacred. Now I know where those ships lie—laden with gold that was torn from the sweat and tears of 40,000 natives, under the lash."

Capt. Hartmann also is getting up his own supplement to the Boy Scout manual, which he says has got a lot of errors in it.

ILLUSION:
A large packing case is exhibited on a raised platform. A young woman climbs into the box. Head, hands and feet protrude, and are held by spectators while the magician takes a crosscut saw and, with the help of an assistant, saws through the center of the box and apparently through the woman.

EXPLANATION:
There are many explanations for this illusion. One method of performing this illusion requires the presence of two girls in the box. One girl curls up in the left half of the box with her head and hands protruding, giving the effect you see illustrated above. The other girl is doubled up in the right half of the box, with only her feet showing. Nobody is sawed in half.

It's fun to be fooled— ...it's more fun to KNOW

Cigarette advertising, too, has its tricks. Consider the illusion that "Flavor" can be achieved by some kind of magical hocus-pocus in manufacturing.

EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring. The blending of various tobaccos. And the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is by far the most important. Domestic cigarette tobaccos vary in price from 5¢ a pound up to 40¢ a pound. Imported tobaccos vary from 50¢ a pound to $1.15.

No wonder, then, that cigarettes differ in taste—since distinctive, pleasing flavor depends so largely upon the blending of the costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Try Camels. Give your taste a chance to sense the subtle difference that lies in costlier tobaccos . . . a difference that means all the world in smoking pleasure . . . in pure, unalloyed satisfaction.

UP TO THE SENATE.

The early restoration of better times or another long period of depression will follow the Senate's attitude on the economy bill.

The Nation has a leader who defies lobbies and special interests in asking authority to balance the budget. He proposes an effective plan. The House has approved it. If the Senate will do likewise the country will soon be on solid ground.

The economy bill grants large powers to the President. But they are constitutional powers. There is no "revolutionary change in the system of Government," as one of the objectors suggests. Congress fixes the metes and bounds of the power granted, and no legislative authority is surrendered. The bill empowers the President to do quickly and equitably what Congress can not do itself. The assumption that the President would exercise his power unjustly or tyrannically is fantastic, since misuse of his power would defeat his own purpose, which is to promote the general welfare by making the Government solvent.

By statesmanlike co-operation in this constructive legislation the Senate can rise to the level of its duty in this emergency. It is not a question of senators becoming "rubber stamps" when they co-operate for the common good. Vanity and partisanship have no rightful place in the Senate now. The people have had enough notoriety-seeking oratory to last them a lifetime. They are sick and tired of delay. Senators may conceive of brilliant amendments and substitutes for the pending bill, but they will bankrupt the public patience if they interrupt the program by insisting upon proposals which can not be accepted. The national house is on fire. It is not the time to discuss the merits of various systems of fire-fighting. President Roosevelt will put the fire out at once if Congress will give him the apparatus he calls for.

A great opportunity is open to senators to suppress the oratory that boils within their breasts. Every senator can earn public praise by confining his speechmaking to the word "aye" on the roll call.

With the resumption of banking operations and the assurance of Government solvency, Americans will take instant hold of the situation and push toward prosperity. Millions of individuals are waiting for the signal. All eyes are on the Senate.

WATCHING THE DOLLAR.

European governments and financial centers are centering attention on the course of the present banking crisis in the United States with the same keen interest that is observed at home. The substantial rise in the value of the pound sterling is causing speculation as to whether this unexpected situation may force Great Britain to increase the rigor of "managed currency" to prevent undue fluctuation of values and exchange rates.

Latest developments here doubtless will tend to reassure foreigners, as they do Americans, regarding the course of the President under the extraordinary authority that has been granted him. The gold standard has not been abandoned, and the additional money that will be provided cannot in any true sense be considered an inflationary measure. There has been and will be no devalorization of the dollar. Temporarily gold exports have been suspended. Conditions, however, in no way parallel the action of Great Britain when that nation was forced off the gold standard by a depletion of reserves.

London opinion is reported to believe that the United States may adopt a gold bullion standard, such as was in operation in England for some six years prior to 1931 and conforming, in a measure, to recommendations that all countries withdraw gold from interior circulation and confine its use to settling balances between nations. A groundless fear is also expressed by some London observers that this country may be preparing to embark upon a cheap money experiment to capture world trade, in which case a contest in depreciation is foreseen which would be disastrous. Apprehension in this direction will probably soon be demonstrated to be groundless.

There is good reason to believe that when present restrictions are raised the world will know that the American dollar and gold standard are as sound and safe as ever.

EMERGENCY MONEY.

A great deal of interest is manifested in the currency to be issued under the emergency bank act which was rushed through Congress last Thursday. Under this measure vast sums of new currency can thus be made available if depositors are inclined to demand their money. It is not the purpose of this issue to inflate prices through an abundance of currency, but simply to meet the emergency created by the tie-up of bank credit.

The new Federal Reserve bank notes do not have any specific gold reserve behind them. They are obligations against the Federal Reserve bank which obtains them from the Treasury. A tax is imposed on such notes with a view to driving them from circulation. It is questionable, however, whether this tax is sufficiently heavy to accomplish its purpose. Congress may find it advisable to put more stringent restrictions upon notes of this kind when the emergency has passed.

Larger volumes of other currency may also be issued. In recent weeks the banks have obtained an enormous amount of new currency to meet the abnormal demand. Paper money outstanding increased $900,000,000 in February, bringing the total to $6,545,000,000 at the close of that month. A large volume was also issued in the first few days of March, before all banking activity was halted by President Roosevelt's proclamation. Even these heavy demands did not exhaust the available currency supply.

Seven different kinds of currency are used by the Government. Foremost among these are the Federal Reserve notes, which are secured by 40 per cent gold and 60 per cent commercial paper or Government bonds. Next in importance are the national bank notes, secured by Government bonds and a 5 per cent redemption fund. These notes are accepted for payment of taxes and most other public dues. Gold certificates have been a prominent form of currency in recent years. They are backed by gold to the full amount of their face value and have complete legal tender powers. At present the Government is drawing these notes into the Treasury, apparently with a view to using the gold to better advantage.

Greenbacks are promises of the Government to pay, first issued during the Civil War. They are now supported by a $150,000,000 gold reserve. Silver certificates circulate in place of silver dollars, which are too inconvenient to carry. They are not legal tender, but are receivable for all public dues. Only a small quantity of the Treasury notes of 1890 remains in circulation. They are secured by silver dollars.

In spite of this large variety of money, a bill is a bill in the hands of the public. The new Federal Reserve bank notes may be expected to be absorbed into the general volume of currency without distinction. As soon as the need for them has passed they should disappear as did the Aldrich-Vreeland notes, which helped the country through its difficulties in 1914.

SAFETY FOR PEDESTRIANS.

New York State is undertaking to give legal sanction to a rule of traffic that has long been recognized as essential to the protection of individuals who walk along the highways. The traditional rule of all traffic is to keep on the right side of the road, thus allowing traffic from the opposite direction to pass on the left. When pedestrians are forced to walk on the highways, because other facilities are not available, this rule puts their lives in jeopardy.

Signs beside many modern highways direct pedestrians to walk to the left "facing traffic." The logic of this regulation is obvious. It gives the pedestrian a better opportunity to observe an approaching vehicle and to get out of the way if that becomes necessary. Hundreds of lives might be saved if this rule were in effect throughout the country. The death list for pedestrians walking in the same direction in which traffic is moving indicates the urgency of this new rule.

Pedestrians who frequently walk on heavily traveled roads acquire the habit of walking on the left edge of the highway. But it is important that their legal right to walk there should be established. This new rule of the road recognizes the fact that highways are constructed principally for motorists. Pedestrians use the roads only because no special provision is made for them. Wherever practicable, separate walks should be made for foot traffic, but vast numbers of pedestrians in outlying communities must continue to use the highways. The least the States can do is to direct them along the safest portion of the road, and to leave no confusion about the rule in the minds of either motorists or pedestrians.

LIFE INSURANCE SECURE.

Millions of citizens in all parts of the country will be relieved to learn that the soundness of life insurance has not been impaired by the shrinkage of values in the last three years. Assurance was given at the annual congress of the Life Underwriters' Association that the insurance companies are more than able to meet their obligations. Forced liquidation of assets in this field is not to be expected.

Premiums paid on life insurance in 1932 were larger than in any previous year. This tremendous income is reported to be 50 per cent more than is needed to pay all death claims, maturing endowments and annuities, to make a normal volume of loans on policies and to pay the cash value of policies that are surrendered. This excellent income allows the companies for the most part to avoid borrowing money and permits them to hold deflated securities as if the depression had not occurred.

Many policy holders have been apprehensive lest the shrinkage of investments might put their life insurance in jeopardy. It is explained, however, that life insurance companies are allowed to invest only in high-grade securities, such as government bonds, policy loans, mortgages on productive land, and first-class railroad, public utility and industrial bonds. Their holdings must be diversified to afford the best possible protection against loss. No more than 15 per cent of the life insurance companies' holdings, for example, are in railway bonds.

Life insurance investments are made for safety and income rather than for a rise in prices. So long as the income from these holdings remains unimpaired the insurance companies are not much concerned about price fluctuations. So long as they do not have to sell securities at the present depreciated prices, the depression does not affect them as it has affected the banks.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT.

With the same undaunted courage and good humor with which the boys went over the top in France, the American people are facing the seriousness of the present financial disturbance. To many it brings great inconvenience. Travellers are stranded and forced to resort to embarrassing measures to secure funds, while in rarer cases actual privation has resulted. Not only those with incomes are affected, but the recipients of charity find even willing givers often unable to afford customary relief.

As the situation becomes easier, reports from every section of the country indicate that there has been little complaint in the midst of trying conditions. To many persons there was a sense of relief in seeing a long period of uncertainty broken, even by such heroic means as the closing of all banks. The climax has made possible radical steps for reform that could not have been initiated under ordinary circumstances.

Out of this emergency there will come positive benefits. It takes a startling situation to rouse the vast population of this country to concerted feeling and action. Today, facing national trouble and danger, there is unity of purpose and effort, a realization of the necessity of standing together and of supporting the President in the great responsibility he has so suddenly been forced to assume. It is an American characteristic that when trouble looms thickest the people rise to the emergency with a good nature that nothing can daunt. It is born of unfailing confidence in victory over difficulties of every kind. When aroused to the necessity of making a united stand for the welfare and safety of home and country, Americans have an inherent confidence in their invincibility.

Democrats who go back on the President at this juncture may go further back than they intended.

STEAMBOATS PASSING OUT

From the Boston Transcript.

Lovers of leisurely travel can not read without a sigh of the evil days upon which the steamboat has fallen, the steamboat whose traffic was for so long indispensable to the prosperity of the country's inland waterways. It is only a little while since a newspaper paragraph recorded the financial distress of the Hudson River night line, and now we read that the day line, which has made the loveliness of the Hudson and of the Rip Van Winkle country familiar to generations of tourists, is in the same plight—sunk in debt. That, too, is the story of the famous Lake Champlain line which for 106 years has been carrying passengers and freight between Ticonderoga and Burlington. The automobile has left these once profitable enterprises with only the bare bones of traffic. Our age demands the service of speed, and the steamboat which, 60 years ago, surpassed our grandsires' childhood dreams of all that was imaginable in rapid and luxurious travel, is now looked upon as a conveyance fit only for old fogies and slowpokes.

Yet nothing in the rocket-flight of the automobile can make up to some of us for the comparatively deliberate journeying by steamboat, for the slow unfolding of the landscape from her deck as she moves with hardly perceptible sound or motion, calmly, restfully, from one landing-place to another. It is a rare automobile trip that can afford us those vistas and reaches that open to us as we thread the Highlands of the Hudson in a steamboat; we can not in a car get a close view of the isles in Lake George's crystal waters or take in that panoramic sweep of far-off, haze-shrouded summits of the Adirondacks and the Green Mountains that bless the sight of the traveler on a Lake Champlain steamer.

The Sound lines of steamers between Boston and New York survive and there are indications that they prosper, a reminder of the spacious days long ago when every evening a proud procession of rival Sound boats curved round the Battery in New York, Boston bound, gay with bunting from stem to stern, filling the hearts of children on East River ferryboats with inexpressible longing just once to make that splendid voyage to the mysterious East, the scene of Bunker Hill and the home of Paul Revere. One of these days, we hope, the steamboat will come back into its own and plow our lakes and rivers and bays and sounds with all the dividend-earning glory of the enchanted past.

Looks As If The New Leadership Was Really Going To Lead.

POST HASTE.

Balance the budget and the balance will be easy.

Congressional abdication is catching. Farm leaders unable to agree want to make Secretary Wallace a dictator to cut crops.

"The House has no knowledge of what happened in the caucus," said Speaker Rainey, and all good Democrats are trying to forget it.

The Democratic caucus did not have the courage of its convictions, its brief declaration of insurgency was neither ratified in the party session nor voted in the House.

The banks are given three days to "stagger" back to work. Sounds as though repeal had arrived.

All those who were standing in the rear of the armament conference, at least, realize that it has been making progress—backward.

Resumption of redemption will be inaugurated on the basis of—take the gold if you dare!

The emperor is still considering Japan's resignation from the League of Nations, but the world has already accepted it.

Florida sends condolences to California and no one can doubt that it is from the heart of a State that knows what the forces of nature can do.

Minister Goering doesn't mind being without a cabinet portfolio as long as he can be Hitler's loudspeaker.

British officials hasten to Geneva and with luck hope to prevent the disarmament conference from increasing armaments more than 50 per cent.

The President's second Sunday was comparatively quiet, the visitor list being restricted to 100 to allow executive slumbers to begin at 3 a. m.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SIGN BEARER.

"I think I'll have to buy a van," proclaimed a very earnest man,
"The ordinary motor car is very much too small."
Said I: "Your family has outgrown the nice sedan you used to own?"
He answered me most solemnly: "It isn't that at all.

"Then I presume a cartage trade you've undertaken now,"
"Oh, no, it isn't that," said he, "but I must let the people see

"I need a car of bulky lines for I believe in metal signs
And I have tags and labels now on every post and door.
Transparencies adorn the glass, to catch the eyes of all who pass!
My motor's now so thick with ads there isn't room for more.

I'm advocating tax repeal and that's a plate of blue;
So many signs I've bolted on, for things for which I'm pro and con
My family and my sedan are almost hid from view."

Vine Seldom Grows Straight if Chance Gives It a Crooked Support

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YESTERDAY the newspapers reported three crimes committed by young men.

The reports were similar in all details. In each instance the criminal's age was 16. In each instance the criminal was broke and jobless and far from home. And the report, in each instance, somehow contrived to picture a depraved and vicious youth already doomed to garnish the gallows.

How bad is a boy of 16—even when he seems wholly bad?

Is your memory good enough to pierce the mist of the years and reveal yourself at that age?

It isn't in the best of taste, but for the sake of other boys I will tell you what manner of youth I was at 16.

My school work was fun and I enjoyed the contest for class leadership. I worked in my father's print shop after school and enjoyed that. I attended Sunday school, prayer meeting and choir practice. I did not smoke and never had tasted an intoxicant.

I intended to finish high school, go to college, and then win fame and fortune as a cartoonist.

In a day's journey you could not have found another apple-cheeked boy with football hair who was more innocent or greener or more ignorant of the world.

But a south wind blew in the spring and wanderlust possessed me. I left home to go adventuring—with $5 in my pocket.

How I hated my boy's face! I longed for a gray mustache and a hawk eye and a deadly skill in shooting from the hip. But I also wished to be a noble gentleman, and the ringing of church bells made me homesick, so I must have lacked talent for a life of crime—despite the .22 caliber Iver Johnson I bought in a pawn shop.

But I know now that chance or the wrong companions could have led me into any kind of illegal idiocy, and I know that judge, jury and public would have condemned me for it without mercy. A stranger who does wrong is much more evil than an acquaintance who does the same thing.

There are three million boys now roaming America. Many are Sunday school products, and few are hopelessly bad. They will grade as high, in character and intellect, as you and I and other solid citizens did at that age.

But the road is a hard school, and many thousands of decent lads will graduate sans laude unless something is done to save them.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Some Frenchmen seem to be trying to work themselves into a fervor of sympathy which will justify them in paying to America in its time of trouble the December installment on the war debt. It will be easier for them to do it if they can get some emotionalism into the act—a strong and wealthy Marianne helping out her poor and struggling Uncle Sam.

The pathetic picture of the United States which has been painted abroad has persuaded many foreigners that this country is in the "Brother-can-you-spare-a-dime" class. So far as actual cash goes, the payment by France of $20,000,000 would fall into this category. The fact of the matter is that France can easily spare the dime, but withholds it as a matter of principle. By the same token, the United States can do without the dime, but would like to see it paid as a matter of principle.

Flowing Money.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

One of the many and useful functions of a government is to create and safeguard the national currency, or "circulation," as it is termed in the banks. "Circulation" means exactly what it says—namely, money used as a circulating medium to expedite trade and commerce. Any one interfering with the proper function of money as a circulating medium is interfering with trade and commerce and is sapping at the very roots of society and the foundation of government.

Fewer and Better.

Albert Lea (Minn.) Tribune.

The general sentiment in Minnesota is for a Legislature about one-fifth the present size. Think of the politicians that would be eliminated! And the same applies to Congress. Fewer and better representation would be a blessing to the States and Nation.

Esprit de Corps.

Atchison Globe.

Maybe the "new deal" will heal. Let's cooperate with the doctor.

How Recovery Comes.

Topeka Capital.

Recovery from business breakdown will come by processes that no individual will see, because it will be the final effect of efforts of millions of individuals. It will come with irresistible if quiet and gradual force for the same reason. So it will even overcome all the mistakes of government in attempting to control and direct it.

Big Bill Blossoms Out.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Chicago's mourning for Mayor Cermak is accompanied by more than a mere apprehension that the Miami tragedy opens the way for "Big Bill" Thompson to attempt a comeback. That Thompson will try to reinstate himself in the mayoralty from which Cermak, with the aid of independent Republicans, ousted him is taken for granted.

The 3-Cent Postage.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The folly of Congress in refusing to reduce the mounting expenditures of Government and at a period of diminishing revenue increasing taxes beyond what the traffic would stand is strikingly shown in the estimated returns from the 3-cent postage. According to Chairman James M. Mead of the House Postoffice Committee, the enormous shrinkage in letter mail will cause a loss of $100,000,000 to the Government when the present fiscal year is ended.

Mr. Mead estimates that there will be a total of 8,000,000,000 letters handled during the year as against 13,000,000,000 in 1932, or a falling off of 5,000,000,000 pieces. At the old rate of 2 cents this would bring in $100,000,000.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Polite Suggestion That Plainclothes Cops Might Help to Hold Down Traffic Casualties.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now and then I see by the papers where citizens complain and citizens' associations resolute about reckless motorists and call on the police to arrest more of the offenders. But what's the use? The automobile has produced a modern breed of expert speeders who can spot a blue uniform a mile off, and so how can they miss the sight of a cop at a street crossing?

A few of us think that plainclothes cops ought to be put on the traffic-regulation job for a change. I used to think there were a good many of us, but I am still waiting for any signs that it is so. So I guess I will have to change my mind and ask you to print it as my belief that the common run of motorists can not resist the temptation to speed now and then and don't like the plainclothes idea for fear they might accidentally get caught themselves some day or another.

What I mean to say is that if public opinion was for the idea, the responsible authorities would not be afraid to apply it in full force. And I will not be satisfied as long as it does not have a good, honest try-out.

At the same time, be it understood that I am not one of those who will not try to put up with things as they come, good or bad, and make the best of it. On the whole, I find the public at large pretty good fellows. Insofar as they are more speed-minded than I am, I only think they don't always know what is good for them when they want it. If they think it is a good thing to save time at the cost of broken arms, legs and backbones and fractured skulls, I can only hope that in a few years they will think otherwise. It is my fixed opinion, however, that when that time comes, plainclothes traffic regulations will result in a great deal less traffic lawbreaking and a decent reduction in the yearly number of automobile cripplings and deaths.

URBANUS.

Seconds the Motion for a Tavern at the Zoo, Where Wayfarers May Rest and Dine.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to add my word to the suggestion of a letter-column correspondent that an adequate rest house should be erected at the National Zoo. Undoubtedly, so far as the general public is concerned, it would be thankfully appreciated. But, also, I think there should be such a building if only for the convenience of those who on account of age or for any other reason need a good rest now and then when on an outing.

In my occasional visits to the zoo I do not see a great many of this class. Yet it seems reasonable to suppose that a zoo should be for the special benefit of those who are advanced in years not less than of the young.

It is true that the retiring generation may not always care to make the tiresome round of all the animal houses, cages and inclosures. Many of them are apt to be interested only in some particular animal or animals or perhaps in a special feature of zoology. But there is no class, not even the young children, who find greater pleasure in a zoo's attractions. Provision for their comfort should, therefore, be given careful consideration in the planning of a zoological park.

In addition to its desirability as a place of rest, the suggested zoo tavern might make a very appropriate and instructive as well as ornamental addition to the National Zoological Park if so designed as to recall the picturesque background and backwoods simplicity of life in the Nation's pioneer days.

Proposes That Former Presidents Shall Be Life Senators From District of Columbia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Many writers have been solicitous as to what niche our former Presidents should occupy upon retiring from office, so that their talents could be of service to their fellow-countrymen.

Since it has often been suggested that a former President should be made senator for life, and since the District of Columbia has never been represented in Congress, what objection would there be to the plan of automatically promoting the outgoing President to a life position as senator from the District? Thus the question of the District's representation would be settled at one "fell swoop." Since there are not many ex-Presidents living at one time, perhaps the District would not object to all of them serving together.

Turn About Is Fair Play—Banks Taken Over by Business.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If what we hear of Henry Ford's entry into the financial world is correct, it looks as though the automobile business now owns a bank instead of the usual procedure of a bank suddenly finding itself in the automobile business.

A PUZZLED EDITOR.

It may be that a man who wore a uniform between 1917 and 1919, according to the Charleston News and Courier, served in a cantonment in the United States and then received his discharge while in sound health, has a better title to a pension or other emoluments from Government, at taxpayers' expense, than is a man who served in a coal mine or on a railroad in the United States in those years. It may be. The argument for it may be good. We do not know what it is and have never seen it presented.

GREED IS DESCRIBED AS CAUSE OF CRISIS

Insulls and Mitchells Are Partly Absolved by Dr. Wilder.

"You can't cast all the blame for our troubles on the Insulls, the Mitchells and their like; if ye as a people had not been greedily after money they could not have gotten it," declared the Rev. A. J. Wilder, preaching yesterday at St. Andrew's Church.

Preaching on Ahab, Jezebel and Naboth's vineyard, the rector, taking for his text "Hast Thou Found Me, Oh Mine Enemy," said in part:

"Don't tell me that if these men could have seen the anguish and poverty and hunger the story would have been the same. A nation's business can not persist resting on greed fed by fictions and falsities. The stock without proper assets is a lie. Through the lie of the stock market, through the handling of other people's moneys improperly, just for personal gain. So greed's bubble burst leaving devastated homes, workless men, women impoverished, children unfed.

"Don't blame the war. Blame the spirit of Ahab run wild. And there came what we have been calling the 'crisis,' today's Elijah, call it God, meeting us as we went forward to claim the vineyard, calling us back to righteousness and honesty, calling us back to a balanced budget, which again is honesty calling us still higher to a balanced budget of the spirit which is soul honesty with God.

Crisis Is Redemption.

"So I say to you in this time when the crisis seems inimicable to your welfare—lift up your heads. God is in and behind us again to the integrity and faith of the Nation's fathers who with their high ideals without riches as we count riches, and without multitudes were great indeed and stable in a righteous and honest integrity. The crisis is God. The crisis is redemption. It is national safety coming back. It is the travail of a new birth.

"Ahab was a great king, an energetic warrior, a general of great victories, great as Macbeth was great. He knew what he wanted and went after it but weakened when the cost of what he wanted was crime. He greedily desired Naboth's vineyard. But finding what he wanted was refused he sulkily refused food. Like Macbeth he had a resolute wife with a determined personality who used her resolute will to stiffen the king's. She hesitated not at blood and obtained the vineyard for Ahab at the cost of Naboth's death, using a religious gathering to effect the satisfaction of her husband's greed. Ahab in taking possession is faced by Elijah whom he addresses in the words of the text. The devotee of Baal, the worshiper of strength, is faced with the prophet of Jehovah the God of righteousness.

Grasping With Greed.

"Strength grasping with greed what we want at the utmost cost to others was Ahab's contravening the way of a righteous God.

"It is difficult to translate this story of a primitive nation and make it applicable to this our day and hour. There is but one work that fits it as a key and fits the exigencies of our own critical hour. The one word is greed. Prosperity, expressed through our national attitude, has meant to get and to have without thought of who paid the price of having. We may have been so very religious about it as to use religious ways just as Jezebel did but cash religionized gained without honesty is greed.

"Yes, money is power and we all craved its power and we sold our high flame of sacrifice generated in the heat of the World's War for 30 pieces of silver and played Judas to the high ideals of the heart. Big business or little business—we were after it, cost what it may. There was little worry concerning the Naboths of today.

"Though we threw no stones we held to the spirit of Ahab. We got the vineyard, prosperity, and money but without the righteousnes of God which is after all common honesty."

Dr. Curran Scores Women as Voters

Speaker Says Promise of Cleaner Politics Has Been Failure.

Philadelphia, March 12 (A.P.).—The Rev. Dr. Edward Lodge Curran, president of the International Catholic Truth Society, in a sermon tonight said the nineteenth amendment granting women the right to vote, "as the beginning o fa new era of cleaner politics has been a hopeless failure."

"Politics did not become clean because some women were permitted to enter the generally dirty atmosphere of our polling places or because some fewer women were permitted to sit at the council tables of the leaders of the various political parties," he declared.

"Armed with the vote, women proceeded to forget the great place they had always occupied in life. They ceased to be wives and mothers. They winked at the abuses in their own political organizations just as much as men; they yielded to the same specious arguments and paid tribute to the same wardheelers and grafters."

Crisis Gives Big Impetus To Alaskan Gold Mining

Anchorage, Alaska, March 12 (A.P.).—Gold mining in Alaska has been given great impetus by the financial stringency, for Alaskans can still use gold dust for small change, and big stakes are to be made in the larger dredging operations.

"Our banks are in sound condition," said President E. A. Rasmuson, of the Bank of Alaska, today—but merchants and banks have resurrected the old-time gold scales and are ready to do business on a pioneering basis if necessary.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: Today started with an awful shock. On the front page of the San Francisco paper that came up on my breakfast tray was a large picture of Mrs. Oliver (my undecided friend), under another name—her own well-known name. The word "death" caught my eye and turned my stomach. "Shot herself in a New York hotel;" "ends life by three pistol shots." "Famed beauty—Broadway star of a decade ago." Needless to say I couldn't touch my breakfast. I simply can't believe that anyone so vivid and beautiful and alive can be dead. I can see and feel her all over my room—sitting in the big chair or on the foot of my bed—that little gleam of humor that flashed in her eye as she repeated some bon mot that especially tickled her, and the little shrug of despair with which she went back to her troubles after the momentary stimulus faded out. So she was really serious when she told me one night that she would like to be dead. I told her to spare me the embarrassment of breaking the news to Mr. Sadler and we both laughed. I never thought much about her remark until now that it looms into significance. Another time we talked right out about suicide, which made me think she would never do it, as I have always been told that people who talk about it never do.

I remember she said, "I haven't had a very good time—have you?" (I did not see how anybody so lovely looking could not have had a good time. Later she told me that she had worked hard and that she had had practically no men in her life. That the first and last and only time she had ever felt any attraction toward any man was in the early days with her husband). But to continue our conversation. I said no, not very, but that I had had good times in spots and that I really felt that a good time in life had to come from enjoyment of the struggle. She said she had always been able to "come back," but this time she had no "fight" left. Although she had a very fair-sized income (inherited from her mother) and no money worries, she was always harping on the fact that she had no children—no family, and she did not care to go back on the stage now and play older parts, and that she didn't feel she was either needed or wanted by any one except her friends and that didn't satisfy. She said she had had an intimation of the freedom of the spirit when it escapes the body. She thought physical life was unimportant. Another time she said to me, "I don't think I'm for this world—do you?" I remember her surprised expression when I said "no."

Then I amended it by saying that I meant I didn't think she was at all worldly. "No," she went on, "but I mean people like you and you have a mode of communicating with them. I am isolated from them by nature as well as circumstance. I just feel that I can't adapt myself to this world." Suddenly her humor returned. "I sound like a lunatic." Then she started to tell me funny stories. The thing that makes me sickest is that I didn't answer her two letters from New York. I read now into them a valedictory that passed unnoticed at the time. "I am sick of racketing around—Some day my plans will be settled . . . it is nice to have known you Elizabeth . . . please answer this letter as soon as you get it—I am counting on it." How I regret now that I didn't, except, of course, it wouldn't have done any good. I suppose the New York papers will bring more news in a few days.

I felt that I needed some air and went to the country for luncheon today with Josephine and Mrs. Kaye and her mother. They are as quiet and conservative as you can imagine. All kinds of contrasts out here. I think the old lady gets more kick out of Reno than anyone here. I am sorry they are leaving on Monday.

Two weeks more and I will be leaving if all goes well. Two-thirds of the 42 gone! Best love,

ELIZABETH.

P. S.—I got a telegram today from Clare. "Married today in New York. Never so happy in my life."

'BREAD ON WATERS' SERMON'S SUBJECT

Rev. A. E. Barrows Reveals Paderewski - Hoover Page of History.

Citing an incident in the life of former President Hoover, the Rev. Alfred E. Barrows, pastor of the Eastern Presbyterian Church gave a genuine illustration in his sermon yesterday of the biblical quotation:

"Years ago in the early 90's a poor boy was struggling to work his way through one of the great universities of this country. It was just about this time that the world-famed pianist, Ignace Paderewski, was making a concert tour of America, and the university student conceived the idea of putting on a concert. Assisted by a fellow schoolmate he hired a hall and ararnged with the pianist to give a recital.

"However, after the concert was over the boys found that they had not even made enough money to pay for the use of the hall and so apologetically they suggested to Paderewski that they arrange to pay him for his services at some later date. The musician talked with the boys, and, when he had heard their story, said: 'You boys don't owe me anything.' But destiny had it that the debt was to be repaid many fold.

"During the stormy and trying times when Paderewski, as prime minister of Poland, looked upon thousands of his starving countrymen, Herbert Hoover came to his rescue with shiploads of grain and food. Paderewski was at a loss to express his gratitude to Mr. Hoover for his assistance, and told him that he would never be able to repay him for his help.

"'Your debt has already been paid,' was Hoover's comment. 'I was one of the boys for whom you gave the recital back in the 90's.'"

"And so, as Jesus so often emphasized, giving is not a dead loss. Success does not depend on what we have, but upon what we do with that which we do have."

Mrs. Jones Is Safe, Her Mother Hears

Long Beach Resident and Son Fled Into Hills After First Quake.

Word of the safety of Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Jones, formerly of Washington, who is spending the winter at her home in Long Beach, Calif., was received here yesterday by her mother, Mrs. James P. Kennedy, Gordon Hotel.

Mrs. Jones and her son, Alexander Hamilton Jones, jr., were in Long Beach when the earthquake occurred Friday night. After the first shock they fled to higher country nearby. Their home and other property in Long Beach owned by Mrs. Jones was slightly damaged.

Mrs. Jones, well known in Army circles here, is the widow of Col. Alexander Hamilton Jones, of the Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A., killed last year in an automobile accident at Fort Reno, Okla. A brother, Frank A. Kennedy, a well-known Washington newspaper correspondent, lives at 1669 Columbia road.

Roosevelt's Widow Is Host to Hoover

Former President Takes Luncheon at Her Home on Long Island.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Former President Hoover was a luncheon guest today of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of former President Roosevelt, at Sagamore Hill, her home at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

Mr. Hoover took his usual early morning walk about 7 o'clock, accompanied by Lawrence Richey, his secretary. Leaving his hotel, he strode down Park avenue, then across town and back.

He left the hotel at 11:15 to motor to Oyster Bay and returned in mid-afternoon. Friends visited his apartment during the afternoon and early evening hours. It has not yet been definitely decided when Mr. Hoover will return to California, Richey said.

Young Roosevelt Flies From Dallas to El Paso

Dallas, Tex., March 12 (A.P.).—Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, and Ralph V. Hitchcock, his friend and former college classmate, left here by special plane at 6:15 p. m. today for El Paso, en route to Tucson, Ariz.

Young Roosevelt and Hitchcock spent last night here and the previous night in Fort Worth, meantime attending a rodeo in Fort Worth. They plan to find jobs in Arizona.

Hotel Guest Found Unconscious.

Found unconscious in his room at the Annapolis Hotel early yesterday, Jack Ward, 36, was taken to Emergency Hospital with a severe laceration to his head. Ward told police he fell and struck his head against an iron pipe in his room.

Crowd's Still Flocking To Post's Model Home

No evidence of dimunition of interest in The Washington Post model home in Spring Valley is as yet apparent. Hundreds are visiting it daily. This model home at 3641 Forty-ninth street northwest is one of the city's interesting places. Many have been delighted with its charming individuality, its pleasing arrangement and substantial construction.

Designed and built by W. C. & A. N. Miller, creators of the beautiful residential subdivisions of Spring Valley and Wesley Heights, the display residence has been opened to the public as a demonstration of the finer art in home building and interior decoration. The latter is by Charles Callery, Inc. The home boasts of an ultramodern General Electric kitchen, made possible by the cooperation of the National Electric Supply and Potomac Electric Power companies with the exhibitors. The home will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

GOOD DEEDS CALLED EVIDENCE OF FAITH

Asbury Church Preacher Describes Life Controlled by Christ.

"Plant the Christian religion in the human heart and there inevitably follows a life fruitful in unselfish service," said the Rev. Edgar C. Beery, preaching yesterday evening at the Francis Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church South.

"Under New Management," or "Christ-Controlled," was the topic of Mr. Beery's sermon. He drew his text from the seventeenth verse of the fifth chapter of the Second Book of the Corinthians. The preacher said, in part:

"When a life is under the control of Christ there is first of all an inward regeneration. The individual is made entirely over. He becomes a new creature.

"God works a great change in the soul when He brings it into life. There is deliverance from bondage and slavery of sin. Any power evil may have is broken and destroyed. Man is free in Christ Jesus.

"New possibilities are realized and new powers are developed. When God controls man, man is more capable and better qualified to live a useful and worthwhile life.

"He recognizes the responsibilities and duties of life, to himself, to others and to God. The rich farmer about whom Jesus tells us was not a Christian. We know it by the way he lived.

"The outlook of the Christ-controlled life is new and delightful. However burdensome and hard the way, there is always the comforting assurance of triumph and success.

"When a life is brought under the control of Christ there is an outward reformation. This always follows the inward change. The life born of God does not continue in the way of the world. The Christ-controlled life is quite different from the self-controlled life.

"Jesus puts his own ideas into force and operation. He takes full possession and immediately begins His work of renovation both inside and outside. He remodels according to His own plans and operates according to His own wisdom and judgment. So we really do not live, but Christ lives in us. Every word and every act is an expression of Christ who lives in us.

"Egoism gives place to altruism. It is no longer self but others. Selfishness is uprooted and self-denial is enthroned. The Master's command to deny and take up the cross is enthusiastically obeyed. With the proper consideration of self-interest there is a beautiful spirit of burden-bearing and service. In the regenerate believer there is a continual thought of others.

"There is an abundance of every good word and work. The Master's entire ministry was an exemplification of the fact that Christianity sends the individual out into service for his fellow men. We are justified by faith, but faith without works is vain. Good works are the evidence of faith."

GROUP THREATENS NEW FARM STRIKE

Des Moines, March 12 (A.P.).—Militant agriculturists of the National Farmers Holiday Association in convention here today threatened another farm strike unless their legislative demands are approved by Congress by May 3.

Approximately 400 persons representing sixteen States and the District of Columbia attended the session at which resolutions were adopted demanding a national moratorium on foreclosures, passage of the Frazier bill to refinance farm loans at a low interest rate, and Federal operation of banks as public utilities.

The association also voiced a demand for enactment of the Swank-Thomas bill which, they said, will insure cost of production for the farmer's products.

Another resolution demanded "a steeply graduated Federal income, gift and inheritance tax up to the point of confiscation to prevent the accumulation of private wealth dangerous to society."

The group also asserted its disapproval of the proposed allotment plan for agricultural relief.

Its cooperation was pledged to city dwellers and laborers and payment of adjusted compensation to World War veterans was urged.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

Dare Says Degree of Neckline Gauge of Smartness

The Meanderer

Would Have You Consider Magic of Magic, Modern Dish Mops and Floor Mops and Kitchen Pans That Need No Scouring.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

A cheering list of bright, fast-working kitchen tools may help to dispel any dullness Monday may have brought. Surprises were many for the Meanderer as she toured the housewares departments of two big Seventh street stores in search of kitchen devices with both labor-saving and money-saving values.

Three interchangeable brushes, a spraying hose with an attached gadget for making instantaneous soapsuds, and a sturdy wire dish dr er, all selling for $1.69 in a department store's anniversary sale. This efficient dish washing equipment was manufactured to sell for more than twice this amount.

That electric mixer you may have been wanting for your kitchen may be possible now. The store featuring an anniversary celebration has placed on sale its electric mixer, which includes two bowls and a fruit juice reamer, regularly selling for $11.50, for $9.95.

New, clever refrigerator sets have five glass containers mounted on a ball-bearing metal circular foundation. A light twirl of the container's holder makes it easy for the housewife to find quickly the food wanted from the icebox, preventing the fumbling often necessary. This icebox set is now especially priced at $1.89 in the big housewares section of a Seventh street store.

Self-wringing mops guaranteed not to tangle when twisted are light, easy to handle and priced at only 79 cents in a reliable Seventh street department store. The refills for such a mop are only 50 cents.

A dry cleaner that can be safely and most economically used in the home, costs just 79 cents a gallon, and $1.19 for a 2-gallon can. The Seventh street department store offering the cleaner at this price is now featuring with each purchase of the useful mixture, a free trial quart. The user may test the cleaner with the free trial quart and if not pleased with its performance may return the entire purchase.

Clean, bright corners of otherwise dirty Oriental rugs, scatter size, were shown to the Meanderer by the demonstrator of a dry-cleaning French paste for home use in the housewares section of one of our large department stores. The clean corners were convincing. The Meanderer is noting down this cleaner for her own domicile's imminent spring going over. Painted walls, upholstery, draperies and many other things in the home may be cleaned with this magic paste. It sells in cans for 50 cents up. The gallon size probably wanted for spring house cleaning costs $1.25.

Frying pans lined with chromium plating that needs no scouring should be a joy to the busy kitchen worker. "They are so bright that they may be used between meals as mirrors," suggests the pretty, enterprising young woman who sells the pans. These double-duty pans sell for just $1 in a big store's current anniversary sale.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

If March 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

This March 13 in all probability will prove an unsatisfactory day. Many unlooked for details will pop up to be handled which will result in a general slowing up of work. Contacts of an intimate nature with family or friends will lead to friction.

The child born on this March 13 will be lavish in his affections whenever it is to his advantage to be so. Not a sincere child, but will have a way about him. He will show a fair amount of interest in his studies and should do reasonably well at school.

If March 13 is the date of your birth, you are not cut out for a career in business, but rather for the pursuit of things artistic. You have a vivid imagination and an astounding ability to see the dramatic side of even the most simple situation.

Born on March 13, you are more artistically inclined than otherwise, but this does not mean that you can not succeed in business. There is a certain aggressiveness and a great deal of persistence which will enable you to get along in most any field which circumstances may lead you into. If you must follow a business career, seek to find some field in which you may use your talents. Advertising or newspaper activities would probably suit you best.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

WHEN Theodore Roosevelt cautioned his children to "walk tall" he little realized that he would be setting a shining example for every mother and father to follow.

That lesson in posture is as important to the children's future well-being and beauty as the very first golden rule. It is an important health lesson, too. Just as mothers teach their children how to brush their teeth, so they should start teaching them at a very early age to "pull up" and lift themselves above the average slumping individual.

Even when they are tots just beginning to toddle, help them to stand and walk properly. As they grow a little older, tell them why they should pull up. Surprising how the youngest of them, particularly of the female species, responds to "you look lovelier that way." That story is the sweetest story ever told to feminine ears—and none too young or too old to welcome it.

When they are of school age, they will understand such orders as: Head up, chin in, chest out, abdomen way in and pulled up, shoulders relaxed back a bit and down.

Take the young one over to the wall and ask her to stand up against it, heels a few inches away from the wall, shoulders, head and hips touching. Now slip your hand between the small of her back and the wall and help her to pull abdomen in and back, decreasing the space between the back and the wall. The spine should be practically a straight line. Now help daughter walk away from the wall in the same posture.

It's so easy to form the habit of proper posture in early years and to retain that habit as one grows older. And remember that good posture is synonymous with poise and personality and with a prosperous look. It's a big step toward grace, too. An economy measure to a great extent because $10 dresses look like a million on the woman who carries herself beautifully. Remember to tell daughter to walk with toes pointing straight ahead, because toeing out is awkward; to sit back with feet flat on the floor and abdomen pulled in. You'll be in for more blessings and daughter will have less reason to fear protruding abdomen and lordosis curve if you start teaching her proper posture very early in life.

MRS. HOOVER VISITS SON'S HOME

After a trip across the continent from Washington, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former President, stopped off in Sierra Madre, near Los Angeles, for a week's visit in the home of her son, Herbert, jr. With her are young Hoover, who accompanied her on the trip, and his wife.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Some interesting new evening decollete ideas for the coming season. Above, left—Tulle ruching at wrist and throat. Right—The high neckline and classically draped bodice. Center—Huge tulle bow on tulle dress. Below—Bolero of clipped and curled ostrich. (Selected in Paris.)

MILADI and the couturier are at last finding out that a whole lot of epidermis is not the most elegant or fascinating thing in the world, when it comes to evening wear.

The higher neckline, both front and back, is the result of this thinking out of the question. Mostly in front, to be sure. And glimpses of the flesh in odd and quite discreet places—in the middle back, or over both shoulder blades, or under the arms.

Now, I don't say that you must wear a higher decolletage for evening to be smart. You can still flash a backless frock, or otherwise emerge from your gown as formerly, and in good taste and style, too. But this is only if you are certain that what you are showing is better shown than covered. Also, only if the occasion is sufficiently formal to warrant decolletage—something seldom connected with summer affairs.

The quite tailored evening wear is new and smart, and of course, shows the high neckline in front, although quite frequently it is cut to the waist in back. And the draped front bodice as the one I sketched for you today at the upper right, is another new and lovely evening fancy.

And whether you like your evening decolletage as high as this or not, you must at least try something in an over-the-shoulder effect, if you wish to be ultra smart. The removable capelet and bolero are ideas that fulfill this need, and smartly. I have sketched one for you in clipped and curled ostrich, at the extreme lower end of today's illustration.

Other features of this season's evening mode are: The profusion of ruching, in tulle and organdy, sometimes in the form of a collar and cuffs slightly masquerade in appearance, but flattering, nevertheless, as sketched above at the left; and the tulle bows, sometimes small, sometimes quite large, as sketched in the center.

While you are waiting for the spring to really come around so you can dress yourself up in all your new and clever pretties, you can be thinking about dressing yourself up in another way. The way of your surroundings—every bit as important as dressing yourself. How can you awaken to a cheerful day if your room isn't cheerful, and if your bed isn't covered with a lovely and elegant bedspread, which you can have the added satisfaction of knowing has been made by your own clever fingers and was very inexpensive? Well, if you think bedspread and morning cheerfulness are in order via the lovely bedspread way, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make every kind of a bedspread you could possibly want.

Au revoir.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SOMETHING ABOUT JAUNDICE.

OF all the organs, none is more important than the liver. While it contributes but little to fatal illness it is responsible for much discomfort, inconvenience, and incapacity. Probably it suffers more from abuse than any other organ of the body, except it be the stomach. We pay some part of the penalty for unwise habits in the development of symptoms which spell a wornout liver.

One of these symptoms is jaundice. It is not an early one and it has other limitations, but it is so plainly in evidence that it rarely goes unheeded. Other symptoms may ring the bell every day and be wholly disregarded or, if noticed, be misinterpreted. But when jaundice appears we generally pay attention. When more than a certain amount of bile or its coloring matter appears in the blood it stains the skin, the eyeballs, the urine, and the sweat, and it is observed from the start. The bile in the skin does no great harm, although it usually causes unpleasant itching. All the tissues of the body, the brain, the kidneys, and all other organs are stained in the same way, but the rule is the same as in the case of the skin—the bile staining is not very apt to harm the cells it stains. The bile pigments result from partial breaking down of blood pigment. It may be found in the blood stream, the spleen, the liver, or, as every fellow who has ever had a black eye knows, it may form locally under the skin around the eye or in any other tissue.

Jaundice, or bile-stained tissues, therefore, may result from absorption of bile from the bile ducts or from the liver itself, or it may originate in the blood stream and have no relation to the liver.

When a new-born babe turns sallow it is because he is readjusting his blood supply to his blood needs, and the liver has nothing to do with the case. There are other kinds of jaundice that are not closely related to the liver, some being due to the breaking down of blood in other parts of the body. But the great majority of people who have jaundice have something wrong with the liver or the bile ducts leading therefrom. Some of the liver jaundices are very important because, unless diagnosed and properly treated, disaster results. In this group is the jaundice due to gall stones in the common bile duct, the main duct emptying the liver and gall bladder. Some are important because they indicate cancer of the liver, bile ducts, pancreas or intestine. But most of them are important because the liver is being injured and needs relief. Jaundice, whatever its cause, is apt to be a late rather than an early symptom, and the liver has already stood about all it can without being crippled.

Mattern-Griffin Globe Flight in Early Summer

Fort Worth, Tex., March 12 (A.P.).—James Mattern, San Angelo, Tex., ocean flier, said today he and Bennett Griffin, of Oklahoma City, expect to take off in June or early in July on their projected flight around the world.

Chanel's Apron Frock!

One of the darlings of the Paris Spring Openings! The little pleated apron actually ties on, with a bow in the back, and comes nearly to the hem of your skirt. And then, because versatility is the order of the day, untie your apron when you go out to tea, flip it around your shoulders for a cape, and tie the sash under your chin! In perfectly luscious navy crepe, with white pique flowers.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

Travel agents report that an unusually large number of tourists are booking passage to the Orient this summer. Perhaps they have a curiosity to look in on the Sino-Jap war.

This doesn't worry the agents because they know the tourists have no chance of getting up where there are actual hostilities.

Although she is said to be earning $6,000 a week, Ruth Etting is still planning to retire to her farm at David City, Nebr. This blond singer of sad songs could earn more than double her present salary, I hear, but it would be dangerous to her voice to sing more than she does.

Sarg Keeps Busy.

Tony Sarg has added a night club to his numerous activities. In odd moments he sketches, writes fiction, makes marionettes, raises horses and dogs and works at half a dozen other professions that escape the memory at the moment.

W. C. Handy, who wrote "The St. Louis Blues," has a daughter who is a blues singer. Handy is now a song publisher on Broadway. He rarely writes music these days, but quite often at private parties you can hear him play the piano—and you should hear his rendition of his "St. Looey 'ooman."

To my notion there really are only two songs of the ragtime era that will survive for posterity. One is "St. Louis Blues" and the other is Irving Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Charles Brackett, novelist, used to be one of the town's best known Broadway celebrities. For the last two years he has lived quietly in Providence, R. I., and is hardly ever seen around the rialto any more.

Speaker-Flier.

Casey Jones, ace aviator, is a much-in-demand after-dinner speaker, but he is reticent in a general conversation.

Sure sign that spring is here: Irvin S. Cobb has blossomed forth in that robin's egg blue suit.

It seems as if 90 per cent of the carriage starters in New York claim to have been officers in the Russian army.

Tin Pan Alley is jubilant over the appointment of William H. Woodin to the Roosevelt Cabinet. He was one of the Alley's most active tune writers.

Essay Medal Awards To Take Place Tonight

Award of American Legion medals to the winners of an essay contest among students of the District junior high schools under the sponsorship of the U. S. S. Jacob Jones Post No. 2, American Legion, will take place tonight at the Thomas Circle Club, 1326 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

The successful contestants are Sanyi Kressin, of the Macfarland Junior High School, and Clifton B. Cates, jr., of the Powell Junior High School. The medals were offered for the best essays written by a boy or girl on some phase of the life of George Washington. The U. S. S. Jacob Jones Post is composed exclusively of women who saw active service in the Navy during the World War, serving as yeomen.

Pi Delta Epsilon at C.U. Pledges Capital Youths

Sidney W. Russell, Vincent L. Toomey and William S. McAndrew, all local students at the Catholic University of America, were pledged as members of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity, it was announced yesterday.

Michael P. Smith and Edward B. White, Washington students attending the university, were awarded honors in the Harlequin Association, dramatic organization, according to the announcement.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

MASTER OF BRIDGE.

MR. GEORGE S. KAUFMAN, the well-known playwright and coauthor of "Of Thee I Sing," sometimes goes for months without playing a game of bridge. At other times he plays afternoons and evenings, enjoying a veritable "bridge spree," according to no less an authority than Mrs. Kaufman. His style of bidding is both brilliant and forceful, as is illustrated on the hand below, in which, with Mr. Oswald Jacoby as a partner, he reached a Grand Slam in a recent Rubber game at Crockford's Club.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Kaufman.

♠ A K 9 7
♡ 7 5
◇ A

Mr. Jacoby.

♠ Q J 6 4 3
♡ A J 8
◇ Q J 8 7
♣ 5

North	South
2♣(1)	2♠(2)
3♠(3)	5♠(4)
5NT(5)	6♡(6)
7♠(7)	Pass

1—Mr. Kaufman's hand is strong enough to justify opening with a Forcing bid of two. While the hand contains only 5 honor-tricks, it has a very strong trump suit, as well as an alternative shorter and weaker biddable suit.

2—Of course, with 2 honor-tricks and a five-card biddable suit, South's response is obvious.

3—There is no occasion for crowding the bidding, as the Opening Forcing bid assures every chance to explore the possibilities of the hand.

4—Mr. Jacoby visions a Slam.

5—A very fine bid, showing three Aces and the King of a bid suit. It likewise infers that the club suit is quite solid, although it has never been rebid.

6—A brilliant bid to show the possession of the heart Ace, which may be all that is necessary for a Grand Slam.

7—After learning that his partner holds the heart Ace, which can, of course, be the only object of the six-heart bid, Mr. Kaufman correctly bids the Grand Slam, which is made laid down.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

♠ K 9 7 4
♡ A 7
◇ K Q 6 5
♣ A 3 2

♠ 10 6 5 2 ♡ 8 4 3 2 ◇ 9 3 2 ♣ Q 7

♠ Q J ♡ Q 10 6 ◇ A J 10 7 4 ♣ 10 8 5

♠ A 8 3 ♡ K J 9 5 ◇ 8 ♣ K J 9 6 4

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Banking Holiday Brings 50-Cent Bill to Barber

Denver, March 12 (A.P.).—"All the cash I have," said the customer who handed B. C. Reeves, a barber, a tattered bill in payment for a haircut.

It was a 50-cent note printed in 1866. Reeves accepted it.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Youth will love the fresh charm of this simple frock.

It buttons at the back.

It has two types of sleeves. The small view shows how attractive this model is with brief puffed sleeves.

The main dress is exceedingly simple—a little shaped bodice and a slim skirt slightly circular. It's as easy as A, B, C, to put it together.

Style No. 2511 is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 35-inch with 1 yard 35-inch white and ⅜ yard 35-inch black material. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

In addition, it contains the most interesting illustrated articles—Beauty Hints, Hairdressing, How to Reduce Sensibly, Poise as an Aid to Fashions, Dressmaking Hints, &c.

N. Y. Philharmonic Drops Capital Tour

Another Season Is Assured, Orchestra Continuing at Full Strength.

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—After several weeks of speculation, another season of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony was assured today. Through a reduction in the orchestra's budget the directors announce the 1933-34 season was made possible.

However, the orchestra will continue its full strength, with an extra week added, making 30 in all. Road tours to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington were abandoned, as were concerts in the Brooklyn Academy of Music and the Metropolitan Opera House. All concerts will be in Carnegie Hall.

The directors said the price of Sunday concerts, now $3.25 for parquet and down, will be "considerably reduced."

Past Legion Chief For Retrenchment

New Hampshire Senators Are Urged to Support U. S. Budget Cut.

Concord, N. H., March 12 (A.P.).—Dr. Robert O. Blood, past department commander and past national vice commander of the American Legion, today sent telegrams to Senators Henry W. Keyes and Fred H. Brown, asking them to support the President's policy of retrenchment.

"We are now in a period of emergency sufficiently acute to justify the emergency program recommended by the President," the telegrams said. "Our loyalty should be first to America and only secondarily to ourselves and organizations in which we have membership.

"Believing in America and knowing that the country will emerge from its present difficulties, I am urging our delegation in the Senate to support the necessary legislation to carry out the President's emergency program."

NATS DROP WEIRD GAME TO ATLANTA CLUB, 14-11

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

DOWN in St. Petersburg, Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, is taking steps to protect his infield from the ravages of age and thus Bill Werber, of the Berwyn, Md., Werbers, is getting a break.

The third base protection of the Yankees for the past two years has been the duty of Joey Sewell, but McCarthy is guarding against the day when Sewell must retire again to the bench. For it was three years ago that the Cleveland Indians deemed Sewell's worth in the majors at an end, and the former Cleveland star is getting no younger fast.

Apparently, McCarthy is turning to Werber as the future third baseman of the Yankees. It is significant that the former Tech High School star has been covering the bag for the regulars in the intra-club games, while Sewell has been performing for the Yannigans. It is significant, too, that a few days after Werber had been recalled from Buffalo, McCarthy released his expensive recruit, Jack Saltzgaver, to the Newark Club.

Made Jump From Campus To Yankees.

Three years ago, Werber made the long leap directly from the campus of Duke University into the Yankee infield, where he played his first game of professional ball. That he was released before the season ended hardly detracts from this claim to fame as the players who made good directly from college ranks can be counted on the fingers of either hand.

The most notable examples are all infielders: Eddie Collins, who left Columbia to join the A's under the name of Murphy; Frankie Frisch, who graduated directly from Fordham into the Giants' infield, and Joey Sewell, himself, who stepped out of the University of Alabama in the waning days of 1920 to fill the shortstop berth left vacant by Ray Chapman, who was a mortal victim of Carl Mays' submarine ball. The Indians' drive to the pennant that season lost no momentum with Sewell capably handling the job.

Each season the Yankees have recalled Werber from the minors, where each season he was a star. And it is significant, too, that Werber never has played in any league below the AA classification.

Triple, Two Singles Share Saturday.

Werber is losing no time in making good on his opportunity. In an intraclub game between the regulars and the rookies on Saturday, the Berwyn boy lashed out a triple that scored three runs, made two other hits, and scored four runs himself, while occupying the lead-off role in the batting order.

Washington this year has sent up another big league infield candidate in Bozie Berger, who, like Werber, graduated from Tech High, but chose Maryland instead of Duke for his college education. Like Werber, a third baseman, Berger was signed directly from college by the Cleveland Indians and is now with the Tribe at New Orleans, but training camp dispatches have given him little mention.

As Werber dominated local high school and sandlot ranks a half dozen years ago, Berger dominated them for the past two years and many critics have stamped the latter a better prospect. But Berger lacks the polish that Werber acquired at Duke, where he played under the coaching of Jack Coombs, the old star of Connie Mack's pitching staff.

Erskine Named Coach Of Football at Loyola

New Orleans, March 12 (A.P.).—The appointment of Robert H. "Doc" Erskine as head football coach at Loyola University, of New Orleans, to succeed Clark D. Shaughnessy is announced by Athletic officials.

Shaughnessy is leaving Loyola to take over the gridiron coaching job at the University of Chicago, succeeding the veteran Alonzo Stagg.

Erskine finished high school in his home town of Waukegan, Ill., and later was graduated from the New Mexico Military Institute.

FUN AT THE RACES.

New York (A.P.).—An inebriated patron almost caused a riot during the recent six-day bike race here when he was inspired to toss a magazine on the track in the midst of a sprint. The riders escaped injury, but police had to rescue the tosser from other irate fans.

FRUIT GROWERS CHALLENGE.

Fruit Growers Express bowlers would like to book some matches with teams representing other railroads in the city. Call Elmer Strang at National 9160, Branch 6, between 12:30 and 1 p. m.

REPORT KINGFISH PLENTIFUL.

Clearwater, Fla. (A.P.).—Several catches of kingfish, running close to the shore, have been reported by local sportsmen this season.

Cubs Looking To Herman For Punch

Cuyler, Stephenson to Complete Outfield of Champions.

Club Well Fortified in Reserves; Hurlers Promising.

By BRIAN BELL.

LOS ANGELES, March 12 (A.P.).—The boys in the corner store used to say, "as the Babe goes, so go the Yankees." They were talking, of course, of George Herman Ruth. It's another Babe, another Herman and another league, but the old slogan may still be good.

If Babe Herman is as good as the Chicago boys think he is, he may go right along with them to another National League pennant. Herman, whose real name is Floyd, is no blushing violet and, admitting that he is good, he thinks the Cubs are "in."

Herman has been hitting the ball hard in exhibition games. Batting in the clean-up position, fourth, his base hits have come where they would do his club the most good. He is strictly an offensive player, wearing no medals for his defensive performances. But he can hit, and base hits cover a multitude of fielding sins.

Will Match Outfields With Foes.

With the fleet Kiki Cuyler in center and the dependable Riggs Stephenson in left, the National League champions should be able to match outfields with any of their fellows.

When the practice firing ceases and the shooting begins in earnest, Manager Charley Grimm will be found playing first base, Billy Hermann at second, Bill Jurges short and Elwood English third. Grimm, a sufferer from lumbago, may not be in the best of shape at the gun, but if necessary Gink Hendrick, handy man, can sub for him. Hendrick, who has been around and hit the ball wherever he went, is a real utility man, playing the infield and outfield on occasion.

Other capable reserve players are Mark Koenig, who gets a big assist on the last championship campaign of the Cubs, and Stanley Hack, young but fast and ambitious. The outfield replacements seem doubtful, but the Cubs think the three starters will enlist for the duration of the war and that detail does not greatly matter.

Pitching Likely to Tell Tale.

The final story may be told by the pitching and Manager Grimm is confident he will have an even half dozen ready to work in mid-April. Root, Malone, Warneke, Bush, Tinning and Grimes may be the select six, but Herrman, Nelson and Richmond are fighting desperately for their chance. To further complicate the already vexed pitching situation, Roy Henshaw, sharp-shooting left-hander from the University of Chicago, annoyed the Giants no end in an exhibition tilt. The fact that the collegian is a crooked arm, as left-handers are called, will not hurt his chances.

The players have been hustling throughout their training capers and to a man they believe they will repeat—not an easy task in the National League. Confidentially, they admit the Pirates, or Pittsburgh, may force them to exert themselves, but they haven't heard of the Cardinals, Phillies, Dodgers, Giants and a couple of other clubs.

It may be that as goes Babe Herman so go the Cubs in 1933. The loud noise from distant right field is the Babe voting "Aye."

Dodgers Lead League In Most Bleachers

New York (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers will offer more 50-cent bleacher seats at Ebbets Field this summer than any other National League club. There now are 6,500 of them, or 20 per cent of the park's total seats. The Polo Grounds, home of the Giants, has only 3,400 bleacher seats, or 6 per cent of the park's capacity of 52,000.

Yankee Stadium leads in the American League with 22,000 bargain seats, while Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, offers only 2,500, the smallest number in the circuit.

Own Golf Tourney Captured by Hagen

Rallies With 67, Five Under Par, to Win Open Event by 2 Strokes.

Hagen, who said he hopes to sponsor the Hagen open every year, posted a sparkling round this afternoon, 34—33—67, five under par, which with his 71 of yesterday gave him 138, two strokes better than his nearest competitors.

Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., youngster, also carded 33—34—67 today for a total of 140, to tie with the steady brace of 70's hung up by Al Espinosa, of Akron. They split first and second money, $550 in all when Hagen stepped aside.

Tied at 141 each were Harry Cooper, of Chicago; Craig Wood and Charlie Guest, both from Deal. Altogether the Deal players collected more than a third of the $1,500 prize money posted by Hagen.

The leaders:

Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., 73—33, 34—67—140, $275.
Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., 70—37, 34—71—141, $158.33.
Charlie Guest, Deal, N. J., 75—34, 32—66—141, $158.33.
John Rouse, Chicago, 71—36, 37—73—144, $70.

G. U. NAMES MURTAUGH TO STAFF

Former Captain to Aid Hagerty With Grid Practice.

APPOINTMENT of George A. Murtaugh as assistant coach of the Georgetown University Football Team was announced yesterday. He will assume his new duties immediately, assisting Head Coach Jack Hagerty and Maurice Dubofsky, who are putting the squad through a six-week spring training session.

Murtaugh's appointment is in line with Georgetown's new policy of retaining graduates in coaching capacities. Murtaugh graduated from the Hilltop in 1926, after a brilliant career on the gridiron. He played tackle and was rated one of the greatest linemen developed by Lou Little, then at Georgetown, and now head coach at Columbia. Murtaugh captained the team in 1925.

Signing of Murtaugh assures the team of adequate drilling in the Warner system, which Hagerty is installing at Georgetown. Hagerty, Dubofsky and Murtaugh were teammates on the New York Giants professional team, which employs the Warner style of play.

Baseball practice for the Blue and Gray will start today. Coach Clayton Sheedy has issued a call for all battery candidates to report in Ryan Gymnasium. The remainder of the squad is not expected to be called out for at least three weeks, or until the weather permits outdoor drills.

John O'Rourke, Bill Rapp, Bill Carpenter, Herb Hutchinson, Tom Carolan and "Lefty" Lindquist are the only lettermen returning. Jerry Dolan, Neeley, Sullivan and Costello are returning veterans expected to make strong bids for regular berths.

Lindquist, ace of last season's mound staff, Bill Carpenter and Neeley, a member of the 1932 freshman team, will bear the brunt of the hurling duties. Sullivan or Saverini are the outstanding candidates for the regular catching position, while Bill Rapp, who attended to this duty last year, is expected to be moved back to the hot corner, his regular position.

Membership Drive At Wash. Canoe Club

The Washington Canoe Club yesterday inaugurated an intensive membership drive with the announcement that the initiation fee of all members accepted up to June 15 will be waived and in the instance of those coming in after that date it will be reduced to $15. The new policy was adopted by the board of governors with a view to meeting the situation created by reduced incomes.

As sponsor of the President's Cup 3-mile swim, which has become a fixture on the local sporting calendar, and all long-distance A. A. U. swims, in addition to canoe racing and regattas, the club has made an enviable reputation.

The drive is listed to 50 members, after which the lists will be closed.

Trundle Will Coach G. W. Legionnaire Nine

Sergt. W. J. West, athletic director of George Washington Post, American Legion, has announced the first meeting of the post baseball team for Friday night at headquarters, 1441 Rhode Island avenue northwest, at 8 o'clock. Plans for the forthcoming legion series will be discussed.

"Buck" Trundle, who piloted the Georgetown Juniors to a Capital City League championship last season, will coach the Colonials this season. Trundle has enjoyed a wide experience on the sandlots and expects to turn out another winning team.

Baxter, Simmons, Dunnigan, Bass, Allen, Bromley, Morris, Baker, Jim and Tom Farrell, Minoux, Ward and Warder are requested to report along with other candidates.

RETAIN SKATE TITLES.

Montreal, Quebec, March 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. Constance Wilson Samuel and her brother, Montgomery Wilson, of Toronto, North American champions, have retained their Canadian figure skating titles.

Mrs. Samuel won the ladies' singles, Wilson the men's crown, and together they captured the pairs' championship here last night.

Cuban Grand National to Larranaga

White Clover II Gets Third; Kurtsinger Rides Winner.

HAVANA, March 12 (A.P.).—Larranga, carrying the silks of Allan Ryan's Anali Stable, romped home the winner of the Cuban Grand National Handicap, richest race in Cuba's turf history, today and clipped three-fifths of a second off Oriental Park's track record for the 1¼ miles.

Stoutly ridden by Charley Kurtsinger, the 4-year-old gelded son of Apprehension—Garden of Allah II, an outsider in the betting, stood off the rousing challenge of Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's Kincsen in the stretch to win by a length, going away. Another length behind was the Foxcatcher Farm's White Clover II.

Larranaga ran the distance in 2:03 to better the track record of 2:03 3-5 hung up some years ago by the 4-year-old Herron, and paid $14.80 for $2 to win, $6.40 to place and $5.20 to show. Kincsen paid $9.60 and $4.60 and White Clover II returned $3.80.

Winning Owner Gets $39,150.

Larranaga's victory earned $39,150 for Ryan, while the winner's trainer, E. J. Bennett, received $2,000, and Kurtsinger $1,000.

The race, witnessed by an enthusiastic if not overly large crowd, was run in bright sunshine over a fast track. Larranaga's victory brought round applause, for the Anall Stable star was well played at the quoted odds of 3 to 1.

The field of nine broke cleanly at the barrier and were well bunched passing the grand stand. Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks' Gold Step and the Cuba & Chile Stable's Cambridgeshire set the early pace and finally managed to race each other out of contention.

Out of the maneuvering for position on the far side of the track, Larranga, previously held under restraint, emerged leading the field into the stretch and, under able handling by Kurtsinger, held Kincsen's fast finishing drive in check.

Cleroy King's Pari-Mutuel, carrying only 105 pounds and the favorite at 8 to 5, never got under way. Blocked at the last turn, Pari-Mutuel could do no better than fifth a head behind Gold Step, which trailed White Clover II by five lengths.

D. C. Golf Body To Elect Tonight

Sites and Dates for Tournaments May Be Made; Pros to Meet.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the District Golf Association will take place tonight at the Racquet Club, with indications that definite sites and dates for the championship and invitation tournaments in this section will be made. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

A number of District clubs will put in bids for invitation events, among these being Army and Navy, Chevy Chase, Columbia and Congressional. In addition to this, the District fathers will decide on the dates and places for the staging of the District championship, as well as the junior and senior events.

Suburban Pin Stakes Listed for Saturday

A crack field of duckpinners is expected to toe the mark for the third annual Suburban Sweepstakes which open Saturday night at the Bethesda Bowling Alleys. The test will be over the 15-game route. All residents of Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, Md., and Arlington County, Va., are eligible. The entrance fee is $10.

The second block will be rolled at Mount Rainier with the grand finale at Rosslyn. Thirty-five per cent of the prize money will go to the winner, with the runner-up receiving 25 per cent.

Not Listed Among Worries of Manager Cronin

The second base situation of the Nats is well in hand with the presence of Buddy Myer, who last season overcame his lone weakness, pivoting on double plays. Always a threat at the bat, lightning fast on the bases and clever in the field, Myer now works smoothly with Cronin as the double play middle man and Clark Griffith regards him as the most improved player in baseball.

CUBS BEATEN ON TERRY'S HOMER

Clout in 9th, Two On, Gives Giants 10-7 Victory.

LOS ANGELES, March 12 (A.P.).—Manager Bill Terry's home run with two on in the ninth gave the New York Giants a 10-7 victory today over the National League champions, the Chicago Cubs. Four other homers were made during the game. Babe Herman, the Cub outfielder, knocking two over the left field wall of Wrigley Field. Woody English, Chicago infielder, and Gus Mancuso, catcher obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, contributed the others.

Rain Halts Pirates at Oakland.

Oakland, Calif., March 12 (A.P.).—After six innings of scoreless ball here today the exhibition game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Oakland of the Coast League was called off because of rain. The Pirates were at bat in the seventh and had counted two runs when the contest was halted, the score reverting back to the sixth. Each side made three hits.

A scheduled afternoon game in San Francisco with the Seals was called off because of the weather.

Pitcher Lindsey Signs With Cards.

Bradenton, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Jim Lindsey, pitcher, sent word to the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp today that he had signed his 1933 contract and would report tomorrow.

Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, who will attempt a comeback as a player this year with the Cardinals, was at second base in today's workout, which was a strenuous one for Sunday.

Hack Wilson Still Out In Cold.

Miami, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—Hack Wilson, the Brooklyn Dodgers' barrel-shaped outfielder, was still in camp tonight after another unsuccessful salary conference with Club Treasurer Joe Gilleaudeau. Wilson did not carry out his threat to check out of camp unless terms were reached today. He is still a holdout. The Dodgers' other holdout, Joe Stripp, was still absent.

Treasurer Gilleaudeau announced that the Dodgers have entered into a

Joe Sekyra Foe Of Barry Tonight

D. C. Fighter Gets Test in 10-Rounder in Ring at Holyoke.

Donald (Red) Barry, young Washington heavyweight, will snap back into action tonight at Holyoke, Mass., where he will engage Joe Sekyra, rugged Dayton, Ohio, battler, in the feature ten-round bout.

Barry has become a favorite son in Holyoke ever since he plastered the Spanish heavyweight champion, Isidoro Gastanaga, earlier in the season.

It will be the District fighter's first scrap since he disappointed a capacity crowd at Portner's Arena a few weeks ago, when he lost to Les Kennedy, Butte, Mont., puncher. Barry will attempt to redeem himself, his manager and trainer, Mushky Jackson states. The fiery thatched youngster has been training feverishly for the match, realizing that in Sekyra he faces one of the toughest assignments of his career.

Sekyra has fought some of the leading heavyweights in the country, being well known in Eastern ring circles.

Fairfax Dairy Rounds Up Stars of Diamond

A. E. Dellastatious, whose name is as long as his experience in baseball, has rounded up a capable collection of ball players to represent Fairfax Dairy on the diamond this season. The Dairymen plan to seek the Capital City League unlimited honors.

On the roster are Dougherty, Arnanson, Mills, Hunt, Doffiemyer, Rains, Murphy, Wilson, Milstead, Rice, Taylor, Moreland, Baldwin, Crowder, Black and Everett.

Games for the latter part of this month and April are being booked by Dellastatious. He can be reached at Potomac 5630 during the day.

RUTH, YANKS TALK TERMS TODAY

Col. Ruppert Reaches St. Pete; Says $50,000 Limit.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, arrived today for his important salary conference with Babe Ruth.

The colonel said he and the Babe would have a chat tomorrow noon. He indicated that he would resist strongly his outfielder's efforts to obtain more than $50,000 for the 1933 season.

"I believe $50,000 is a lot of money for doing anything in times like these," Ruppert explained.

Ruth Insists Upon $60,000.

Ruth claims he will not sign for less than $60,000, and he insists he will not participate in the Yanks' first exhibition game Tuesday against the Boston Braves unless he is signed by then.

Ruppert, his valet, and George Weiss, general manager of the Yankee farm system, climbed off the train, but the Bambino was not in the station to greet them. He was playing a charity golf match at the Pasadena golf course. Paired with Billy Burke, he defeated Lloyd Gulickson and Bob Lassing, 3 and 2.

Lou Gehrig, the first baseman who recently surrendered in his holdout war, also arrived today from New York. The Yanks were given a holiday, their last fair day off until October. They spent the day resting, fishing and watching Ruth's golf match.

West Signs With Browns, Reynolds Holdout.

Rick Ferrell and Carl Reynolds now are the only two Brownies who have failed to accept terms.

Athletics Swamp Dodgers.

Miami, Fla., March 12 (U.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics more than avenged yesterday's defeat by smothering the Brooklyn Dodgers, 13 to 2, today in the second contest of their three-game series.

Connie Mack's three pitching aces, Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg, divided the hurling for the A's, limiting Brooklyn to six hits. Walter Beck, Van Mungo and Rosy Ryan, of the Dodgers, yielded thirteen hits, six of them for extra bases.

Indians-New Orleans Rained Out.

New Orleans, March 12 (A.P.).—A heavy downpour of rain last night and this morning caused postponement of today's game between the Cleveland Indians and the New Orleans Pelicans. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh said he would use his regulars in Tuesday's game with the Pelicans.

Greenberg Hits Two Homers For Tigers.

San Antonio, Tex., March 12 (A.P.).—Manager Bucky Harris sent his Detroit Tigers through three hours of battling and fielding practice in their spring training camp here today. Hank Greenberg, last year first baseman for Beaumont, of the Texas League, who is trying for the third-base job this year, brought a smile to Harris' face when he slapped two over the fence and hit the fence with three other long clouts.

Red Sox Varsity Wins Game.

Sarasota, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—With three rookie pitchers working for them, the Boston Red Sox regulars today shut out the Yannigans by a 4-0 score in a six-inning practice game. Kermit Andrews started in the box for the regulars and was followed by Eddie Gallagher and Mark MacComiskey.

The veterans, Rhodes, Welland and Welch, worked for the scrubs and only the latter was effective. He pitched the last two innings and sent back six batters in order.

Schulte Hits Triple and Home Run

Washington Rookies Unable to Protect Lead of 1 Run.

Hasty Holds Regulars to 1 Hit in First 3 Innings.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 12.—Shed a tear, all ye who labor in great pain when the Nats lose a ball game, for they achieved their first loss of the season today in the sandlot figures of 14 to 11 at the hands of Atlanta's Crackers. The Nationals lost despite the heroic efforts of Fred Schulte, the big Dutchman who'll play center field for the team this year, and Al Crowder, the base umpire pro tem, whose officiating made him Atlanta's public enemy, No. 1.

Twelve hundred Biloxians witnessed their second largest industry in operation for the first time this season. They brought along a gusty brass band, which had an acute knack of starting long overtures just when Announcer Schacht had something to say. He'd whistle them to a stop.

According to The Post score sheet, Washington went ahead once during the game, a 7-to-6 in the fifth inning as a result of a mild 5-run rally featured by Big Schulte knocking a slat out of the left center fence on a triple that would have landed ten rows up in the open air stands in Washington.

Nats Lead for 2 Innings.

Washington managed to hold the lead two innings, during which Jack Russell lost his knack of hitting the Cracker bats with such alarming regularity. But after that Atlanta resumed its hefty hitting propensities and finished in a walk.

It had better be put in here that the last eight runs Atlanta made were off Washington's famed secondaries, who today, at least, were more famed than fortunate. The regulars disappeared from the diamond along about the fifth, after taking that slim lead. The regulars, themselves, come to think of it, did not look so hot themselves until the 5-run rally in the fifth, being held to one hit in the first three innings by lantern-jawed Bob Hasty, veteran of a 1,001 baseball wars, who used to be able to lick Washington back in 1918-1922 by simply tossing his glove out on the mound. Kuhel's slightly flukey hit to left was the only safety scored off the old boy.

On the other hand, Atlanta jumped into a 3-run lead at the start of the game. Bill McAfee was throwing them up to the batter as big as medicine balls and crying to be socked. Big Freddy Sington, the reformed Alabama football player, supplied the punch of the first inning rally by thumping one to the left-field fence for three bases, scoring Red Barron and Lefty Chatham. Cummings singled Sington home for the third run.

Schulte Slams Out Homer.

Schulte began to assert himself in the fourth when, with two out and the sorry sight of loose-shirt Heinie Manush languishing on first base, as a result of a single, Fred belted a home run to the left-field foul pole, which is an overnight ride by airplane in this park. It made the score 3 to 2, but Johnny Burroughs, rookie pitcher, relieved McAfee and soon had the Washington outfielders' tongues hanging out. Catcher Eiseman, first man to face Johnny, clouted a shrieking home run to center, and an epidemic of base hits settled over the minor league boys, who scored three runs in all that chapter.

Al Crowder, in a brown suit and a mangy baseball cap, had been quietly doing the base umpiring and wasn't bothering anybody until Washington's raps in the fifth inning. After all, a man can't stand by and see his team licked, so the General, with two out on the home team and Schulte up, called Goslin safe at second on a forced play when he appeared out by 3 feet. Even Nick Altrock, the ball and strike umpire, said he was out a mile, and the Atlanta players said many more things.

Klephantine Wilbert Robinson, president of the Crackers, flounced down into the creaky press box and hotly bawled an expurgated message for Mr. Crowder to leave the premises. Schulte came through with a triple, and we had five runs before you knew it.

But—oh, yes—Atlanta won this ball game. Hasty had been succeeded by Hearn and then by Wise, who wasn't wise enough to stop that fifth inning rally, and then a gent named Cohen started scuffling up the pitchers' box. He held Washington to four runs during the last three innings, which was pretty good for this game, while his teammates were getting eight in the last two frames. Neisler, the catcher who relieved Eiseman, tripled and socked a home run during that last two-inning melee.

75 STAR 3-YEAR-OLDS NOMINATED FOR 1933 PREAKNESS

Coe Hopefuls Headed by Ladysman

Swivel Among Group of Six Fillies Still Eligible for Race.

BALTIMORE, March 12 (A.P.).—Seventy-five 3-year-olds have been nominated for the 1933 Preakness, the mile and three-sixteenths feature at Pimlico race track, to be run May 13.

Leading the group of nominees are W. R. Coe's Ladysmith, Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, Adolphe Pon's Swivel and Projectile, C. V. Whitney's Caterwaul and The Darb, H. P. Headley's Technique, J. P. Johnson's Repaid, Mrs. J. H. Whiney's Crowning Glory and Poppyman, F. A. Griffith's Sarada and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Dynastic.

Edward R. Bradley, who won the Preakness last year with Burgoo King, has two representatives in Boilermaker and Brokers Tip.

Coe Nominates Group Of Five.

W. R. Coe, Willis Sharpe Kilmer and the Belair Stud, owned by William Woodward, each nominated five. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable is represented by four.

The number of nominees is slightly less than the average in recent years. There are six fillies in the list.

The purse for the Preakness was reduced early this year by the Maryland Jockey Club from $50,000, the award in recent years, to $25,000.

J. Fred Adams, Briar Blue; Audley Farms, Trace Call; Belair Stud, Dark Ambar, Flamboyant, Jovilus, Lady Diver, Dominus; G. H. Bostwick, Garden Message; E. R. Bradley, Boilermaker, Broker's Tip; Brandywine Stable, Knobster.

M. J. Cromwell, Tui Tui; Mrs. W. Crump, Head Play; R. M. Eastman, Charley O.; Marshall Field, Nimbus; W. S. Gallagher, Crack First; Robert L. Gerry, Charities; Glen Riddle Farm, War Glory, War Stripes.

Cary T. Grayson, Band Wagon; Greenbrae Stable, Dynaste, Easy Day, Jubilee King, Welcome Gift; C. A. Griffith, Sarada; W. A. Harriman, Quel Jeu; Sam Harris, Teralice; Hal Price Headley, Technique; R. M. Hovarth, Figurehead; St. Stephens; John E. Hughes, Silent Shot.

Harry R. Jobes, Philipi; W. S. Kilmer, Sun Apollo, Sun Aller, Sun Envoy, Dark Command, Dark Viper; A. Kirkpatrick, Rush Hour; Llansollen Stable, Crowning Glory, Poppyman; J. M. Loughheim, Sandy Hill; P. A. Markey, Swimaway; E. J. Phipps, De Valera, Ballon, Enthusiast; Adolphe Pons, Projectile, Swivel; Quincy Stables, Repaid; Lee Rosenberg, Kerry Patch; Saxemore Stable, Wyvern.

A. C. Schwartz, One Chance; M. L. Schwartz, Clarify, Union; L. M. Severson, Spicson; Tedio Stable, Surveillance; Wm. Passmore, Strideaway; Wheatley Stable, Edelweiss, Utopian; C. V. Whitney, The Darb, Caterwaul; J. E. Widener, Golden War; William Ziegler, jr., Keep Out, Puchero.

Records of Van and Irving Studded With Knockouts

YOUNG VAN, Southwest's fistic pride, who meets Henry "Popeye" Irving tomorrow night in the 8-round feature of the fistic program at Portner's Arena in Alexandria. Van, who has lost only two bouts, both to Sammy Britt, whom he had previously beaten, came back to the fight wars a few weeks ago after a six-month lay-off. He scored a knockout over Billy Vermillion, of Baltimore, and then jolted the boxing fans hereabouts by winning from Walter Kirkwood. Van, who is within an inch of 6 feet, probably will have a 5-pound weight advantage over his Northeast rival.

By DAVE HERMAN.

STRICTLY local color will be injected into the headline proceedings at Portner's Arena tomorrow night when Young Van, pride of the Southwest, roars his challenge at Henry (Popeye) Irving, middleweight champion of the Northeast, in an eight-round match that will bring into action two strong-armed fighters with enviable records.

Their muscles hardened, their chests expanded considerably from two weeks of work in Frankie Mann's popular training quarters, both Van and Irving indulged in a light workout yesterday afternoon, and were pronounced by observers to be in the pink of physical condition. Today the two ring gladiators will apply the finishing touches to their prefight labor.

Rivals Are in Good Shape.

Both Van and Irving have gone about their work with an air of seriousness. Realizing that this is their first main fight and that this one fight alone can either make or break them as far as popularity and their future in the cauliflower industry are concerned, these two robust young fellows have stepped 'round the roped arena with LIOTE vivacity, have waded into their sparring partners with more dynamite in their punches, and have increased their training pace to such an extent as to cause no end of comment in local boxing circles.

In booking Van and Irving for the main battle, Promoter Frankie Mann not only fulfilled the wishes of hundreds of cash customers, but also brought together two scrappers who in the short time they have been in the ring have scored over eight knockouts each, and seldom have been clubbed into defeat.

A glance at the fistic records of the two gives some idea of the ring prowess that each boxer possesses. Van did not embark on his professional career until last winter, but he bowled over his opponents with such monotonous regularity that his rise in the fight game might well be termed meteoric. Irving, a soccer player of no mean ability, broke loose from the simon-pure ranks back in 1931, and, like his adversary, Van, believed in attaching sleeping powder to his most terrific punches.

Both won their first professional fights via the knockout route. Van put away Johnny Edwards at Portner's last February in the first round, while Irving's initial foe, Frank Vance, was flattened in the fourth at Fort Washington in July of 1931.

Van had six straight knockouts to his credit before K. O. Burns, of Baltimore, went the six-round limit. Burns, however, lost the decision. Van's knockout victims during this triumphant K. O. sweep included Battling Casey, Fighting Dick, Jake Friedman, Sailor Potter and Ray Litton. Van then won a six-rounder from Sammy Britt, knocked out Johnny Adams in the third, but his nemesis appeared on the scene in the next battle. It was the same Sammy Britt, who he previously defeated. Britt won by a technical knockout in the first round, and ten days later won by another knockout in the same round.

Van kept out the squared circle for six months, but made his comeback in January with a bang, knocking out Billy Vermillion, rugged Baltimore boy, in the second round, and scoring a surprisingly decisive victory over Walter Kirkwood a few weeks later.

Irving's Record Listed.

Knocked out Frank Vance twice; Fighting Dick, Jack Pollock, Jack Shepherd, Jake Friedman, Gus Edwards, Ray Litton, Leroy Bordeau; decisioned Sammy Britt; drew with Joe Pinazzo, Stanley Skeeba, Joey Raymond, Walter Kirkwood; was knocked out by Bob Turner; lost to Jack Pollock, Joe Pinazzo, Walter Kirkwood, Sam Pinazzo, Sammy Britt.

A bang-up six-round semiwind-up supports the Irving-Van bout, Stampy Jacobs and Roy Manley will clash in a match that promises to be spirited throughout. Billy Landers, Norfolk puncher, takes on Tommy Horn in a six. Two changes in the program were announced last night. Bob Lowry will oppose Jack Levinson, of Norfolk, and Willie Essinger will clash with Tex Mills, also of Norfolk.

CASEYS WIN TWIN BILL.

Knights of Columbus teams scored twice on the court yesterday, the 115-pounders winning over Montrose A. C., 46 to 28, while the 100-pounders flung a 30-8 defeat on St. Martin's. Both games were played at the Caseys' gym. Saffell and Clark were outstanding.

GRAYS STOP WAR COLLEGE.

United Typewriter Grays added another name to their lengthy list of victims yesterday, that of the Army War College, which succumbed by a score of 59-28 to the potent attack of the Grays. Latone's 18 points led both teams in scoring. The Grays are anxious to keep in trim for the A. A. U. tournament. Games for tonight and tomorrow are desired. Call National 8000, branch 106, during the day.

BALLSTON NINE READY.

Claimants of the northern Virginia title last season, the Ballston A. C. will be represented on the diamond again this year. Claude Rosenberger would like to arrange games with strong unlimited teams. He can be reached at Walnut 8984.

CELTICS TRIM BALLSTON.

With Jim Money showing the way the Boys' Club Celtics routed the Ballston A. C., 44 to 34, in a lively game played on the Virginians' court. It was the District team's second straight triumph over Ballston. Money scored 11 points and played a great defensive game.

STEELE AND GROBMIER ON MAT

Feature Well-Rounded Card at Auditorium Thursday.

NO champions are listed on Joe Turner's wrestling card for Thursday night at the Auditorium, but it is a safe wager that the show will be one of the best witnessed here in some time.

If you go to jeer you'll have a fine target in Ray Steele, the rough and tumble crown prince of the industry, who meets Lega Grobmier in the feature match. Steele puts Simon Legree and other well-known villains to shame when he is in the mood.

Grobmier has become a local favorite since dropping in for a week-end visit two years ago.

Steinke Faces Test In Ruff.

Hans Steinke, the stout German, whose proud boast is that he can polish the best of them off in 15 minutes or less, bumps up against the beefy personage of Tiny Ruff, late of Iowa and all points west. Ruff sinks into the scales for a 214 mark and it's not all fat. He is new to this neck of the woods and anxious to make a good impression on the fans.

Other bouts include George Zaharias vs. Frank Brunovica; Joe Cox vs. Joe Divito, and Karl Davis vs. Marshall Blackstock. Davis is a product of Ohio State, where he learned the fundamentals of the game and captained the team in his senior year. Blackstock needs no introduction to Washingtonians.

Unlimited Crown Goal of Miller Nine

Miller Furniture Co. tossers, who culminated a winning season last year by capturing the Capital City League and South Atlantic senior championships, will seek the unlimited honors in the loop this year, it was announced yesterday. "Kack" Curtin and G. W. Thompson again will coach the team.

Among the returning veterans are Reigleman, McAboy, Benner and Raub, infielders; Maupin, Wheeler and Miller, outfielders; Thomas, catcher; Wood and Turner, pitchers. Harry Milburn, former University of Maryland hurler, has been added to the mound staff.

Washington Red Sox Reorganizes for 1933

Rated one of the best semipro teams in the city for the past several years, the Washington Red Sox have reorganized for the 1933 campaign. Bill Jenkins will pilot the club. Among those signed are Pepco Barry, Lefty Brown, Tom Clark, Peanut Hamilton, Otis Zahn, Jessie Bowie, Henry Gichner, Tubby Ault, Dick Wingate, Spencer Uallton and Benny Spigel.

The team will seek the Industrial League pennant under the banner of the Gichner Iron Works. Jenkins is booking games with strong unlimited teams for at home or on the road. He can be addressed at 1357 South Carolina avenue southeast or by telephone at Lincoln 5390.

EAGLES TALK BASEBALL.

Fraternal Order of Eagles will hold their first baseball meeting of the season Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse, 922 Twelfth street northwest. The following players are requested to report: Abbett, Alder, Blake, Brown, Crenshaw, Wege, Owens, Gabler, Lyons, Holland and Fitzgerald.

A. A. U. FIVES PROMISING THRILLS

Griffith and Bethesda Teams in Tourney Feature Tonight.

UPSETS, blood tingling last-minute rallies, and a fancy assortment of thrills that are part are parcel of basket ball have been witnessed in the A. A. U. championship tournament now in progress at Tech High School under the sponsorship of The Post, but to use a hackneyed expression, "You ain't seen nothin' yet."

In the ten days it has been running the tournament has produced more thrills and excitement than are usually found in an entire season, and yet the so-called better teams have not played.

But every team that has not done so already will make its bow in the tournament before the week is out. Two outstanding contenders for the unlimited honors, Sholl's Cafe, defending champions, and Griffith-Consumers, a strong contender for the title, are scheduled.

Griffiths Battle Bethesda.

The Griffs swing into action tonight against Ford Young's Bethesda Volunteer Firemen who carried off Montgomery County honors this season and are seeking additional glory in the A. A. U. tournament. The game bears all the earmarks of a thriller. Bethesda has both barrels loaded and its trigger finger is itching for action. Ray Melton, high-scoring forward, and Ford Young, veteran guard, are stars of the team. But the Griffs have their stars, too. Prominent among the leading scorers of the District is Tommy Peck, forward, while Bob Lyles has long been rated one of the games' outstanding guards.

Two games at 7 o'clock open tonight's program. A pair of the best looking 100-pound outfits in the business, St. Martin's and St. John's Aces, lock horns on the north court, while Andy Mack's flashy Aloha Lites uncrate their championship aspirations in the presence of the Christ Child combination on the south court.

A second round game in the 145-pound class is scheduled at 8 o'clock when Woltz plays McLean on the main court. The two clubs exhibited real power in their first games and both are well supported in their championship claims. The unlimited game will follow this at 9 o'clock.

Sholl's opponent tomorrow night will be the Higbie-Richardson quintet which furnished the first major upset of the tournament last week by defeating the powerful Colonial Boat Club tossers in a thriller. While little had been heard of the Higbie tossers up until their game with the Boatmen they showed enough in that fray to warrant their further consideration as serious contenders for the championship.

Potomac Boat Club, perennial seeker of the unlimited title, has dropped back into the 145-pound class this year and will play its first game at that weight tomorrow night, meeting the Anacostia Business Men's representatives on the main court.

Miami Races Shift To Tropical Park

17-Day Meeting Starts Today; Best Horses to Make Up Fields.

Miami, Fla., March 12 (A.P.).—Tropical Park will pick up the Miami winter racing season tomorrow with inauguration of a 17-day meeting.

Most of the thoroughbreds which carried colors during the 45-day meeting at nearby Hialeah Park will be transferred to the Tropical Park grounds. Some which ran in today's Cuban National Sweepstakes, notably Larranaga, the winner, also will compete in the events.

Starting gates, instead of the customary barrier, will be used. The Quinlela system of wagering will be in vogue on one race, the sixth, each day.

This will be Tropical Park's second season under legalized pari-mutuel wagering. Hialeah Park closed Saturday with running of the Florida Derby.

Urbanski Reports at Braves' Camp.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (U. P.).—Little Bill Urbanski, the Boston Braves' lone remaining important holdout, arrived today, conferred with Manager Bill McKechnie and will sign his contract soon. The infielder will begin practice tomorrow.

Giants' Seconds Rout Seattle.

Santa Cruz, Calif., March 12 (A.P.). Babe Pinelli, debonair new umpire of the Pacific Coast League, called the Seattle-New York Giants second team exhibition game in the seventh inning today and dashed off the field in heavy rain, his new tailored uniform having lost all semblance of nattiness.

The score stood 12-3 in favor of the Giants.

Phils Boast Two Good Teams.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 12 (A. P.).—Manager Burt Shotton today picked his line-ups for the Phillies' first intraclub practice game, and then proudly announced he had "two mighty good teams."

George Brown will occupy the left garden in the "Yannigan" line-up for the game tomorrow, and Shotton expects him to carry the brunt of the attack against Capt. Whitney's "regulars." Dugas will be on first for the regulars and Williamson in left in place of Hal Lee.

Patsy Donovan Proves He Knows His Baseball, Enters Team in Contest

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MR. PATRICK D. KOONTZ (Patsy Donovan to you), half owner of Red Barry, fight manager, fight promoter, treasurer of the Mohawks, man-about-town and, last but not least, baseball fan, dropped in the office of The Post last night for the purpose of trying to sell Young Van, an employe, one of his patented chin protectors for use in his fight at Portner's tomorrow night. Failing to make a deal in that respect, his mind suddenly harked to The Post's baseball contest and he took time out from his busy schedule to fill in an entry blank.

If Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, can not pick baseball winners any better than he can prognosticate results of boxing bouts, other entrants need not worry over his list of names. However, this remains to be seen, for Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, really has done himself proud as a diamond expert in this respect.

Donovan's Reasoning Convincing.

Not only has Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, selected an outstanding list of players but he has backed up his choices with a most convincing line of reasoning. Here are his entrants: Judge, first; Harris, second; Bluege, third; Cronin, short; Goslin, left; Milan, center; Rice, right; Johnson, Crowder, Marberry and Zachary, pitchers, and Ruel and Ainsmith, catchers.

"I do not rate any rivals close to Judge, Harris, Rice or Johnson," said Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, "but I had to do a lot of guessing regarding the others. For instance, I prefer Manush in left, but I'm picking Goslin because I think he is a pet of Mr. Griffith's and the latter is sure to name him. West was probably a better fielder than Milan, but how the old-timer could hit and run the bases.

"How are you going to keep a fellow who can hit like Cronin off the list?" Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, asked. "While I simply had to favor Bluege over Foster, even though I rate Foster as one of the greatest place-hitters of the game, Bluege has an edge over him in all other respects, I think."

Ruel and Ainsmith Catchers.

Shifting to the batterymen, Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, named Ruel and Ainsmith as the receivers because he rated each as outstanding here during their respective baseball generations. "Crowder," said Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, "is just about the best pitcher in baseball right now. Zachary always has been a dependable old cuss, while Marberry's relief work just about gave Washington two pennants.

"I think my team'll just about win those box seats to the opening game," Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, concluded. "I sure hope they do because I understand that no passes are issued for baseball openers and you know I'm not used to putting out much real cash for my amusements. This Post contest seems to be my best bet right now."

Probably there are hundreds of other local fans who do not want to "put out" for that April 12 game against the Athletics. If so, why not steal a page from the book of Mr. Donovan, nee Koontz, and send in a list of guesses? It costs nothing but a little speed, for entries close at midnight day after tomorrow.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 12.

Well, pal, here's a new deal. At least, I'm at a new scene of operations although we're still dealing with the horses. Hialeah might have been worse. I understand that New Orleans might be opened as early as tomorrow. The boss hasn't sent me notice to shift to the Fair Grounds so I may stick here throughout the meeting. It looked for a while as though I was going to cash plenty on my across-the-board bet on Inlander Saturday. Bellizzi got him off almost last and was forced to keep to the outside. They moved up with a rush but Inlander had too much taken out of him and seemed to tire at the end. Saved some of it with the show.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—DORSAYS came back after a rest to show some neat early speed, although in mighty tough company. This field tomorrow looks about right to me. FLYING SAILOR ran well behind Von Sion and merits attention here. The money horse, LIQUEUR, for the show end.

SECOND RACE—HER HERO'S last was a beaut, and that effort repeated among these should account for the long end of the purse. RAGTOWN BELLE is likely to draw Gilbert as the rider and could make matters troublesome for the top one. RACE STREET is sharp as a tack and appears to be in the money picture.

THIRD RACE—PENNATE and Workman may team to give the boys a jolt tomorrow. The horse has been working well. SUPERCHARGE gets in light and is the one to beat. DUNLIN'S LAD has much speed and may take the measure of the others for small end.

FOURTH RACE—Providing MOUNTAIN ELK is sent back, I look for a winning race. Gets in with 113 pounds, which is near his favorite weight and has been reported as a fast worker. ROYAL RUFFIN'S last was not his race. Loves a mile and a sixteenth. BROADWAY LIGHTS is fit as a fiddle.

FIFTH RACE—IRENE'S BOB may provide the upset in this. Certainly was never better and I'm expecting a best effort tomorrow. DON LEON and LEROS has plenty of speed and will be ready to move up if the top one makes any mistakes.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALTHOUGH there are dozens of radio matters to be considered by the new Congress the entire subject has been shelved until the more important legislation is out of the way. The emergency bills took precedence over everything else and banking will continue to be the most pressing problem of the Seventy-third Congress until permanent legislation has been passed.

Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, has succeeded Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, having charge of radio matters. Senator Dill will be one of the outstanding figures in radio in the new administration. He is expected to virtually take charge of radio legislative problems. Senator Wallace White, jr., who has been equally active where radio is concerned will also be a member of the committee.

Senators Dill and White helped frame the radio act of 1927. Both became interested in radio while attending to matters for their constituents back in the early days, long before legislation was deemed necessary to take care of the licensing of stations.

SENATOR DILL is at work on a bill providing for a communications commission to include telegraph, cable and telephone as well as radio, which he will introduce later in the session.

Since President Hoover let the Davis bill amending the radio act of 1927 go by way of pocket veto—largely because of protests from Senator White, who objected to the appeals and foreign directorate sections—and the Federal Radio Commission considers necessary some of the provisos of that bill, it is quite likely that a number of the matters will be brought up again in the new Congress, in separate bills or in an omnibus bill.

The appointment of Huey P. Long to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee was a surprise, since it is not known that he has any particular radio interest. He probably is more interested in other matters handled by the committee. Therefore, it is believed the radio interests will not have much to fear from Huey.

A doll collector, an authority on dolls, a little girl who likes dolls and six dolls themselves, will go on the air today in a program over WMAL. The limited vocabulary of dolldom will be heard for the first time when the "Doll Debut" is heard at 2:30 p. m.

The history of dolls and dolls of other countries will be described by Mrs. MacDonald Douglass, whose collection is considered one of the most authentic private collections in the United States, and Mrs. Lilla Law, well-known authority on dolls. The dolls, dressed in their native costumes and "speaking" in their native tongues, will be introduced by 10-year-old Susanne Morsell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Tudor Morsell.

SPEAKER HENRY T. RAINEY, who on Thursday was elected head of the new House, will discuss the tasks facing President Roosevelt and the Congress when he is heard over WRC during the National Radio Forum tonight.

During his broadcast Speaker Rainey will outline the Democratic party's plans for legislation to solve the present economic crisis.

"In My Garden," by Mrs. Harvey Firestone, sr., will be featured on the Voice of Firestone program over WRC at 8:30 p. m. Richard Crooks, tenor, accompanied by William Daly and his orchestra, will be heard.

Harry Horlick and his A. & P. Gypsies, and Frank Parker, tenor, will be heard over WRC at 9 p. m. Parker will sing "Creole Serenade" and "Moon Song." Blanche Waldo Dewey's "Gypsy Serenade" also will be heard.

The Shoreham Dance Orchestra, under the direction of Barnee, will start a regular series of programs to be sent to the blue network of the N. B. C. at 12:30 a. m. The dance band has been on the air for a long period locally and to the Southeastern network, but this is the first series for the entire country.

FRED SHAWN, new announcer at WMAL, has had varied experience in stage, screen and radio. His career as an entertainer started while he was attending Pomona College in Claremont, Calif., in 1925. He organized a college quartet, and later the group went into vaudeville. Begininng in 1927 they traveled for three years as a Franchon-Marco unit, under the name "Cheer Leaders Quartette."

When their contract expired during the summer of 1929, they went West to appear in talking pictures. Returning to New York, they joined various Broadway productions—"Ballyhoo," "America's Sweetheart" and "East Wind." At the conclusion of the "East Wind" contract the quartet disbanded.

Shawn then went with the Ziegfeld "Follies," and while playing in Cincinnati was offered a position on the staff of WLW as announcer and soloist. He remained there until the last of December, 1932.

Shawn was born in Payette, Idaho, November 7, 1906.

Those bird calls on the "Aunt Sue and Polly" program are done by Announcer William Abernathy, who has been able to imitate birds since he was a little fellow.

However, when called upon to imitate a blue bird on a recent program, he had forgotten how a blue bird sounded. After dozens of attempts to reproduce the call, he decided he would have to seek help. The Zoo seemed a pretty good place to ask, and it was a lucky guess. One of the keepers imitated the blue bird over the telephone and Abernathy had no further difficulty.

Israel Zangwill's "The Melting Pot," the great drama of immigration in America, will be the Radio Guild presentation over WMAL at 4:00 p. m. In the play under the direction of Vernon Radcliffe, unusual sound effects will be employed. Microphones will be set up in Times Square to bring actual traffic noises to listeners.

THE recent announcement of a third network, headed by Ed Wynn, was confirmed by the comedian in New York. It is to be known as the Amalgamated Broadcasting System. Station WOL will be the outlet for some of its programs in Washington as prophesied by Leroy Mark, owner of the broadcaster, last week.

The chain expects to begin functioning along the Atlantic seaboard within ten days and within another ten days as far West as Chicago. Stations comprising the seaboard chain are to be WMET, New York, ultimately to become WYNN; WPEN, Philadelphia; WOAX, Trenton, N. J., and WBCM, Baltimore. The organizers expect that when the chain is complete it will comprise 100 or more stations of what is described as the lower-powered group.

While sponsorship of programs will be sought, the chain is to operate with a policy providing brief sponsors' announcements only at the beginning and end of a period—with the additional advice—"look in tomorrow's paper" for further information. Mr. Wynn explained it was the intention to cooperate with newspapers and magazines in that respect to the fullest possible extent.

Baltimore's Opera Will Open Tonight

Many Capital Folk to Hear Metropolitan Stars in "Rigoletto."

Baltimore, March 12 (A.P.).—Baltimore's grand opera season will open tomorrow night with devotees from over Maryland and many surrounding States here to attend three performances by the fatmous singers of the Metropolitan Company.

Many diplomats and members of Congress, with their families, are among the prominent visitors who have made reservations. In the official box tomorrow night will be Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Woodrow Wilson's personal physician, and Mrs. Grayson; Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Wagner, Miss Alice Preston, George Siemonn, conductor of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, and Mrs. Siemonn who, as Mabel Garrison, was once a Metropolitan prima donna.

New Post Model Home Opened in Locust Road

The latest Washington Post model home, which opened yesterday at 1304 Locust road northwest in the beautiful Northgate subdivision, proved an outstanding Sunday attraction. This most desirable dwelling, built by Paul T. Stone, Inc., and furnished and decorated by Joseph B. McSherry, is presented by J. Wesley Buchanan, Inc., realtors, with offices at 1427 I street northwest.

Architecturally and structurally this distinguished center-hall, brick residence is a contribution of unusual merit to the better class homes of the National Capital. It will be open daily and Sunday until 9 p. m. To visit it, drive out Sixteenth street northwest to Locust road, one block north of Kalmia road.

DR. ELLIS SAYS RIGHT ACTING CAN SAVE US

"In the revised version of Judges, fifth chapter, second verse, we read the pertinent and timely lines which might have been written last week instead of 3,000 years ago; for the leader took the lead in Israel, 'for that the people offered themselves willingly, Bless Ye Jehovah.'

"The paralysis of bewilderment, fear and indecision," Dr. Ellis went on to say, "Which lay upon the Nation a week ago was suddenly transformed into a new national spirit by the inaugural address of President Roosevelt, and by his subsequent actions. A new move of patriotism, confidence and purpose is sweeping the country, as the people offer themselves willingly to this vital leadership, and at a stroke all our various elements have become Nation conscious."

In fresh unity and soberness, he said, all the people are now thinking of the country and its common problems. Led by the President's words of a week ago, they are peering into the vital and spiritual aspects of the situation in which we have found ourselves.

Now everybody sees that things have been wrong because men have done wrong. America had slumped into the morass of materialism, carnalism and selfishness. Every lesson that civilization has taught has been flouted, every law of God has been defied.

Conscience smitten, penitent, eager for a comprehensive reformation of our whole national life, the people await fresh leadership in ideals, in religion, in patriotism, and in commerce.

New York Plans Free Colleges for Jobless

New York, March 12 (A.P.).—Four free college centers for the unemployed, which will enroll about 1,500 students and provide work at $15 a week for 86 unemployed teachers, are being formed, it was announced today by the temporary emergency relief administration, with the cooperation of the State department of education and officials of State universities.

Rites for Howell Slated Tomorrow

Nebraska Senator's Body Is Taken to Omaha by Wife and Stepson.

(Associated Press.)

Accompanied by the widow and stepson and a senatorial committee, the body of Senator Robert B. Howell, of Nebraska, who died here Saturday after a two weeks' illness, was placed aboard a train last night for Omaha.

The funeral party will arrive in the Nebraska city at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow. Services will be conducted at the home of the late senator unless Mrs. Howell and her son by a former marriage, Sidney J. Cullingham, decide to hold them in the family church.

Senator Howell, who was 69 years old and a member of the Republican independent group at times, died at Walter Reed Hospital. He had been ill of pneumonia since February 25. Howell was serving his second term in the Senate, which would have expired in November, 1934.

Last Rites Today For F. A. Lutz, 58

Services Will Be at Home in North Woodside for Church Official.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today from his home in North Woodside, Md., for Francis Asbury Lutz, 58, who died Saturday after a brief illness of pneumonia. The Rev. James Shera Montgomery, of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, will conduct the services. Mr. Lutz was an official of that church for many years.

Mr. Lutz was the son of the late Francis Asbury Lutz and Mrs. Nellie Galt Lutz, long residents in Washington and Georgetown.

Mrs. Maryetta Maclay Expires at Yonkers, N.Y.

Yonkers, N. Y., March 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. Maryetta MacLay, widow of James G. MacLay, a former well-known lawyer in Chicago, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frederick O. Brazier, here. She was born in Cleveland 85 years ago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rhoades. She moved to Yonkers 15 years ago from Chicago.

Two daughters, Mrs. Brazier and Mrs. William Oates, of Lompoc, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Harriet Hudson, of Chicago, Ill., survive. After services here Monday the body will be taken to Chicago for interment.

MISS CURRAN RITES TODAY.

Retired Woodward & Lothrop Employe Lifelong Resident of Capital.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. today from St. Paul's Catholic Church for Miss Margaret A. Curran, 77, for 47 years an employe of Woodward & Lothrop, who died Friday at her home, 1829 Wyoming avenue northwest.

Miss Curran was a lifelong resident of this city. She retired several years ago because of failing health. Surviving her are two nieces, Miss Margaret Welch and Mrs. John Kieley.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ARMLESS since he was 7 years old, Roberto Zasseillot laughed off his disability and chose as his trade watch repairing—a trade that requires of the ordinary man two very good and steady hands. Not so with 23-year-old Roberto. He uses his tongue, his teeth and lips in his work.

Bending low over his little work bench in Mexico City, he may be seen repairing and adjusting fine watches, whose owners intrusted them, strange as it seems, to an armless watchmaker. Roberto handles tiny screws and wheels with amazing ability with his lips and teeth. He holds the case firmly with his tongue and gently slips the spring or wheel in place with his lips, tightening the almost microscopic screws with a deft turn of a tiny screwdriver held in his teeth.

Roberto dresses and feeds himself. He takes off his shoes with his feet. He can open a package and take a cigarette from it with his teeth. His automobile is driven by using the left foot for the brake and clutch while he steers with the right.

In addition to his watch repairing business and motoring, he finds time for an occasional hunting trip. He holds the gun steadily with one foot and pulls the trigger with the other. He is an excellent shot. Needless to say, he has had many offers to appear on the stage, but he has rejected them all, content to earn a living at his watchmaker's bench.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

RETURN FROM THE SOUTHLAND.

BACK from Miami Beach am I.
And how I miss the cloudless sky.
The turquoise blue of the seas that roar so—
And the daily swim in my undraped torso

Down where the folks are race-track crazy,
Existence now seems dull and drab; it
Hasn't any mechanical rabbit!

Back from the realm of scant apparel....
Here in the North I know life goes on!
But, gosh, you have to keep your clothes on!

Back from the place where palms are waving
Back from the land of chirping crickets—
And no more tearing up two-dollar tickets!

Back from the spell of Hialeah,
With these names ringing in my ear:
"Haggerson," "Coat Tails," "Bolilee"—
Boy, they were slow when they ran for me!

Why did I go to all that trouble?
"Skinny Life," "Pillager," "Hector's Gem,"
How I miss losing my dough on them!

Back from the land of reckless bettas,
Back from the country that knows no snow—
(Why did I play that horse to show?)

Back from the tin-can tourists lawless—
What'll I do for that betting habit?—

THE HOARDERS' NEW THEME SONG.

Song of the returning depositor: "Take Back Your Gold."

"Too many depositors put money in banks and lost it. It's just as if I put my car in a garage and when I went to get it somebody had borrowed it and run it into a tree."—Henry Ford. The only difference, Hank, is that in the case of the depositor he found the tree was one in which he had been sold an interest.

How can the American public ever be frightened again by a rumor that ONE bank may close?

FOR FORGOTTEN LESSONS.

John Semple observes that these are the days when thousands of men are brushing up on the money and banking course which they slept through in college.

Elmer Twitchell says that thousands of people have had their income cut so deeply during the moratorium that they're getting almost as little as they report in their income tax returns.

Leila Shirley Smith calls attention to the fact that the last three Presidents of the United States were double-o Presidents: Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt. Have we been in an "oh-oh!" era all the time?

Business Group Backs Government in Crisis

The Columbia Heights Business Men's Association, to prove its support of the constituted authority in the present national emergency, has distributed large display cards to all of its members. This action was taken at a meeting of the executive committee called by President A. R. Swann to consider the banking crisis.

These cards bear a slogan declaring faith in the Government, the American people and their customers. At its meeting Tuesday night the association will receive a report from Ralph Wallace, chairman of the committee on credit policies.

Greenleaf to Deliver Speech at High School

Walter Greenleaf, member of the Board of Education, will address the regular monthly meeting of the Alice Deal Junior High School Home and School Association today at 8 p. m., at the school at the corner of Nebraska avenue and Davenport street, Chevy Chase.

His subject will be the "Progressive Trend in College Entrance."

ARMY BOXER KILLED AS CAR HITS FENCE; DOZEN INJURED HERE

Private Emanuel T. Rappert, 22-year-old lightweight boxer, of Company D, Thirteenth Engineers, Fort Humphreys, Va., was instantly killed yesterday morning when the automobile he was driving crashed into a guard rail on the Washington-Richmond Highway at Gum Springs, about 7 miles south of Alexandria, Va. His companion, Theodore R. Devens, also of Fort Humphreys, asleep at the time of the crash, was slightly injured.

The accident was investigated by Sergt. E. J. McDermott, of the State police, who stated that the accident occurred about 1:30 in the morning. One of the railings of the fence had pierced the windshield of the car, torn away the steering wheel and the left side of Rappert's head.

Injured Man Wanders.

Devens was thrown from the car and, in a dazed condition, wandered to the Penn Daw Hotel, about 4 miles away, from where he called a companion at Fort Humphreys to come and get him. Police stated the owner of the wrecked car said he did not know Rappert had taken the car.

Rappert, whose home was in Woodbury, N. J., was held in high esteem by his superior officers. He was to have represented Fort Humphreys in the championship bouts of the Third Corps Area the latter part of this month. Fairfax County coroner, Dr. C. A. Ransom, gave a verdict of accidental death. The youth's parents in New Jersey were notified by military authorities.

Rappert and Devens were returning to the fort after having spent the evening in Washington. Devens reported at an official investigation held by the commanding officer, Capt. Albert C. Lieber, that he was unable to give the cause of the accident. The inquiry resulted in the conclusion that Rappert had been blinded by the lights of another car.

Other Week-End Accidents.

Other automobile accidents over the week-end took a toll of about a dozen persons, none of whom, however, was critically injured.

Mrs. Mary L. Tyle, 38, of 2025 Hillyard place northwest, suffered a fractured knee and lacerations of her head, when a car in which she was riding crashed head-on with another machine near Manuel's Tourist Camp, Fairfax, Va. She was treated at Alexandria Hospital. H. G. Horner, of 2045 Georgia avenue northwest, driver of the car, escaped injury.

Joseph Sabacky, 28, of McLean, Va., operator of the other car, was removed to Georgetown Hospital. The extent of his injuries could not be learned at a late hour last night.

Boy Struck by Auto.

Mrs. Verna Hard, 36, of 3121 Adams Mill road, who was riding in the other machine, was also treated at Emergency for lacerations. Leon B. Hard, her husband, who was driving the car, was unhurt. Two other passengers in the Hard machine, John Graghan, 19, of 2503 Arkansas avenue northwest, and Margaret Kerr, 19, of 613 Keefer place northwest, suffered lacerations.

Eight-year-old Edward Rainon, of 736 Ninth street southeast, was cut on the body when knocked down by an automobile at Eighth and I streets southeast Saturday night. He was treated at Casualty Hospital, where his condition was said to be not serious.

The driver of the machine, Nelson P. Kidwell, of 2727 Nichols avenue southeast, took the boy to the hospital. He was not held.

Joseph Lavelle Sought Here; Mother Is Dying

The mother of Joseph Lavelle, of Carbondale, Pa., is dying and he is wanted home at once. Lavelle is known to have been in Washington during the last six months, but relatives and friends have been unable to locate him. He is believed to be en route to New York City.

Charles Speicher, of 1931 Thirty-eighth street northwest, asked The Post yesterday to aid in the search. The news was broadcast last night through the Postilion, The Post's nightly radio news presentation over WMAL.

Man Reports Robbers Got $3.75 and Clothes

John Monroe, colored, of 1635 Covington street northwest, yesterday reported to police that he was assaulted and robbed by two men while walking along the street near his home. He said his assailants escaped with $3.75 in cash and his clothes.

ASSAULT CHARGES BRING LIQUOR HAUL

Trio Arrested After Employe Says Injuries Resulted From Ejection.

Armed with a warrant charging assault, police last night entered the Country Store, 4449 Connecticut avenue northwest, arrested the proprietor and two employes and confiscated a small amount of alleged liquor.

The assault warrants were sworn to by James E. Powell, of 51 R street northwest, who allegedly suffered a fractured right leg and sever lacerations early yesterday, when he was ejected from the restaurant by the trio named in his warrants.

Powell, also an employe of the establishment, is alleged to have told police that John F. Offterdinger, proprietor of the Country Store, ordered him "thrown out" by James N. Ashmore and Thomas L. Jordan, two other employes.

Powell said Offterdinger fired him just before closing time early yesterday, and when he requested back pay the manager ordered him ejected. The other two, Powell declared, pushed him through a glass door. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for the leg fracture and lacerations.

Ashmore and Jordan gave the address of 4107 Connecticut avenue northwest. With Offterdinger they were charged with assault. After police said they found a small quantity of liquor in the establishment, an additional charge of illegal possession was placed against Offterdinger.

Taxi Driver Is Robbed Of $7.40 by Two Fares

Clarence Hancock, a taxicab driver, of 913 Eleventh street southeast, yesterday reported to police that he was held up and robbed by two armed white men who hired his cab early yesterday.

The men hailed him at First street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Hancock said, and asked to be driven to Fifth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast. En route, he told police, one of the men produced a gun and ordered him to stop. After taking $7.40 they escaped on foot, he said.

1,000 Crowd Hall To Hear Cantor

More Than 2,000 Others Turned Away From Press Auditorium.

More than 1,000 Washingtonians jammed the Press Club Auditorium last night and 2,000 more were disappointed, when Eddie Cantor and Jimmy Wallington broadcast their regular Sunday night program over NBC from the Press Club Auditorium.

After the broadcast, Eddie Cantor stayed on the stage as long as time permitted before his stage appearance to entertain those assembled there.

He did this because the audience was unable to hear him sing on the air.

Chinese Shadow Plays Tonight.

A group of Chinese shadow plays will be presented at 8:30 tonight in the Little Theater of the Arts Club, 2017 I street northwest.

TROIKA RESTAURANT PICKETED BY UNION

Cafe Owner Says Waiters Are Russians Without Any Knowledge of Custom.

Pickets employed by the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance, Local 781, have been placed in front of the Russian Troika Restaurant, 1011 Connecticut avenue, after members of the union group decided the establishment is unfair to organized labor because its waiters are not members of the local or national organization.

Max Nemiroff, proprietor of the restaurant, stated yesterday that all of the waiters employed there are Russian and that as most of them do not speak English "they do not know or care about unions." Many of them, he stated, were formerly engineers, attorneys and members of other professions, and were not waiters by training. Mr. Nemiroff stated that only employes speaking Russian were employed in his establishment and that most of his waiters worked there to be among people of their nationality.

Charles E. Sands, business agent of the Waiters Union, stated that the employes of the restaurant were employed under a European system that Washington "would not stand for." He asserted that his organization will continue picket lines and present facts of the controversy to the Department of Labor.

The proprietor of the restaurant claimed he has no aversion to unions, as he employed a union orchestra, but that because of the peculiar nature of the type of waiters he was forced to employ, he was not in a position to ask them "to join an organization which they could not understand."

G. W. U. Education Club Host at Tea

Assistant Federal Commissioner Is Guest at Function.

The Education Club of George Washington University entertained at a tea yesterday at the home of Maj. and Mrs. Virgil Cornell, of 1205 Floral street northwest.

Hostesses were officers of the club: Mildred Green, president; Hazel Cragun, vice president; Katherine Wassman, secretary; Helen Arons, assistant secretary; Celia Carpenter, social secretary.

Among the honor guests were Miss Bess Goodykoontz, assistant commissioner of education; Dr. Mary Dabney Davis, Dean and Mrs. William Carl Ruediger, Dr. and Mrs. J. Oren Towers, and Dr. and Mrs. W. C. French.

Motorist Loses Attire Worth $250 From Car

The loss was estimated at $250.

PEACE DEFENSE AIM OF YOUNG GERMANS AS THEY RECALL 1914

Leader, in Talk Here, Says They Were Deceived on World War Goal.

Speaking before a youthful audience at a public peace meeting at the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday Dr. William Solzbacher, leader of the German youth peace movement, declared that during the World War the youth of Germany thought it was fighting for the defense of its country, but that it was bitterly deceived.

Taking their lesson from those who fought in the World War, the youth of Germany today is strongly organized to maintain peace at any price, in spite of the fact that Germany might declare war against Poland any moment, Dr. Solzbacher said. He charged that the present crisis between Germany and Poland has been brought about by German and foreign capitalists exploiting Germany.

As long as nations allow themselves to be induced into a state of war for the protection of foreign investments of the moneyed few, there is little hope for world peace, J. B Matthews, executive secretary of the Fellowship Reconciliation, said.

Relief Delays Denounced.

Introduced as a Socialist, Mr. Matthews declared that his political group would not support this administration or future administrations which would plunge its people into war for capitalistic purposes.

Speaking on the "unequal distribution of wealth" in this country he denounced delayed enactment of relief measures for the hungry and jobless.

The Government does not institute relief measures for the masses until the same conditions which brought about their poverty threaten to bring poverty to the wealthy few, he said.

Sees Reversion to 1914.

He denounced increase of naval powers as a scheme for the protection of American wealth in foreign countries.

Although not wholly adequate in its present form as a means of preventing war, the League of Nations was described as the "backbone" of the peace movement, by Dr. W. Stull Holt, professor at Johns Hopkins University.

He said that had the League of Nations been fashioned after the pattern advocated by President Wilson, it would be far more effective than it is today.

Unless urgent methods of correction are employed to drive away the war clouds hanging over Europe today, the world will revert to the chaos of 1914, Prof. Holt said.

Young Democrats' Aid.

Roland Rice, of the Young Democratic Club of Washington, pledged the support of his organization to world peace and told the audience that "treaty terms must not be violated for the whims of some investor in foreign countries or some foreign munitions manufacturer."

At the close of the meeting a resolution by the Youth Peace Council of Washington was adopted calling for the support of the present administration "in every effort it may make in furthering cooperation with foreign nations, and the adoption of national policies designed to further world peace and world stability." It was introduced by Miss Mary Moore Miller.

The Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, was chairman of the meeting. It was sponsored by the Youth Peace Council of Washington. The address of welcome was made by Miss Jane Garlick. William T. Brown, chairman of the Youth Peace Council, made the response.

$350 in Gems Stolen And House Ransacked

A quantity of jewelry valued at approximately $350 was reported stolen from the home of Samuel J. Gompers, chief clerk of the Labor Department, at 2517 North Capitol street last night.

Investigation revealed that the burglar gained entry through a window on the rear porch which had been jimmied open. The house was ransacked.

House Burglars Obtain $300 in Cash and Gems

Three $100 bills and a quantity of jewelry valued at about $75 were reported stolen from the home of Joseph S. Hart at 2619 Third street northeast some time last night.

Entry had been gained through a front window, which had been left unlocked, according to police. The loot was taken from a bedroom on the second floor.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

PERPETUATING a practice whereby the reader may keep a vague sort of tab on the approximate accuracy of his critical faculty, as compared with the actual box-office verdict representing a composite of the mass judgment of the entire country, it is an interesting duty to record that Motion Picture Herald's list of box-office champions for the month of January includes the following subjects, named in the order of their box-office grosses:

Elissa Landi.

"Strange Interlude," M-G-M's picturization of the O'Neill play, with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable; "The Animal Kingdom," RKO-Radio's film version of Philip Barry's play, with Leslie Howard, Ann Harding and Myrna Loy; "A Farewell to Arms," Paramount's film rendering of the Ernest Hemingway novel, with Helen Hayes and Gary Cooper; "Silver Dollar," First National's pictorial biography of "Haw" Tabor, with Edward G. Robinson, Bebe Daniels and Aline McMahon; "The Kid From Spain," United Artists' production, starring Eddie Cantor, with Sidney Franklin and Lyda Roberti; "The Sign of the Cross," Cecil B. DeMille's picturization for Paramount of the Wilson Barrett play, with Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton; "They Just Had to Get Married," Universal production, with ZaSu Pitts and "Slim" Summerville.

It will be noted—or maybe not—that five of the seven productions rating inclusion in the list are straight dramas of distinctly serious emotional appeal. Of the remaining two, one is a musical extravaganza and the other unadulterated comedy.

Two pictures, "A Farewell to Arms" and "Silver Dollar," tied for third place, while two others, "The Sign of the Cross" and "They Just Had to Get Married," turned in grosses ranking each as fifth.

Speaking of Elissa Landi, importantly cast in "The Sign of the Cross," soon to be seen in the Capital at popular prices, it is a lamentable commentary upon what aspects of art Hollywood deems of vital concern that the publicity broadsides being sounded off on "The Warrior's Husband," a forthcoming release in which Miss Landi is a sort of feminine Sir Galahad, declare that it has remained for this picture to lead to the discovery that she ranks along with Marlene Dietrich and Claudette Colbert as possessor of the most beautiful legs in the film colony.

This, it seems to me, is the last sort of ballyhoo that should be expected with relation to a brilliant young woman of aristocratic lineage, a skilled musician, authentic novelist and an artiste whose radiant appeal has always been of the spirit and intellect rather than the contour of her body.

The cinema must inevitably fall short of its highest potentialities so long as the capabilities of its most engaging actresses are measured solely in terms of legs and their willingness to display them!

A recent bulletin from its offices in the National Theater Building makes plain that the American Theater Society, irrespective of the difficulties it has encountered in other cities, will fulfill its pledge of six subscription plays in Washington this season.

Substantiating earlier tentative announcements, George M. Cohan, ever the unfailing friend of the living theater, will terminate his New York engagement in "Pigeons and People," hailed by the critics as one of his most diverting plays, at the height of its run at the Lyceum Theater to tour the country under the society's banner.

As unusual as Mr. Cohan's willingness to abandon his lifelong practice of presenting himself in his own plays and to permit his name to be announced under other "auspices," is the dramaturgic form in which he has shaped "Pigeons and People." It is a play written in one act, without intermission. Mr. Cohan is on stage throughout virtually its entire length.

The stellar role, played, of course, by the author, is that of a park bench dreamer, suddenly plopped down in the midst of Park avenue's opulent splendor. His subsequent philosophizing—humorous, pungent and satirical—emphasizes that the more he sees of his park pigeons and of people, the more he likes his pigeons. Hence, the title.

Hence, also, Washington's eagerness to view this play at the National the week of March 27.

A note from Daniel Frohman, dean of the American theater, following his return to New York after his eminently successful Actors' Fund Benefit in the Belasco Theater a week ago last night, intimates that he is seriously considering the advisability of presenting another similar program for the same worthy cause, in the Capital in the near future. If it could even remotely approximate the spirit, the distinction of personnel and the all-around merit as sheer entertainment of the performance of March 5, its overwhelming success would be a foregone conclusion.

This column will be happy to communicate the public's attitude toward the purely tentative project of an early repeat date to Mr. Frohman.

This afternoon at 3, Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's is according the dramatic desks a more or less private preview of "King Kong," described as one of the most amazing pictures ever made. The screening will be in the private projection room of the Fox Film Exchange.

"King Kong" is one of those miracles of modern cinematography that brings back to life the prodigious monsters that roamed the earth in prehistoric ages. It derives its name from a 50-foot gorilla that thunders about ominously through the action, doing battle with dinosaurs, pterdactyls and other fabulous denizens of forest, jungle and air, over the terrified and quivering form of little Fay Wray.

"King Kong" may be said to begin where "The Lost World" left off, its effects magnified by the since perfected qualities of sound, voice and other elements of auricular appeal the Rothacker masterpiece lacked by being ahead of its time.

All very goose-fleshy!

Maybe he flew to the wrong bank, but the dove I turned loose this morning didn't bring any greenback!

If that goes on much longer, we'll have to see what a little systematic robin can do!

Clothing and Jewelry Valued at $34 Stolen

Clothing and jewelry valued at $34 were stolen from the room of Edward R. Hawkins, of 19 Seventeenth street southeast, he reported to police yesterday.

BOY HOLDS UP CAFE; ESCAPES WITH $200 IN THEATER CROWDS

Woman Cashier Collapses Behind Counter Upon His "Hand-Over" Demand.

A sleek-clad youth walked into the Pomona Restaurant, 1307 E street northwest, last night, and inquired for the manager. Miss Florence Seeger, the cashier, motioned to the rear. The coproprietor, Bernard Lurbs, was in a back room.

The young woman collapsed behind the counter, speechlessly frightened. Hurriedly, the bandit snatched $200 in currency and disregarding several stacks of silver, rushed out into the midevening show crowds.

Glances and Hurries On.

As the robber emerged from the restaurant, he cut in front of Harris B. Hull, Postilion radio announcer. Hull, perusing rapidly the late news he was to give radio listeners in a few minutes, glanced at the man and hurried on.

A moment later there was a woman's scream and the rush of pursuing feet. Hull, at the corner, flashed The Post city desk:

Gives Account Over Air.

About six minutes later Hull stepped to the "mike" and said "This is the Postilion." As he did so a radio station attache handed him a brief but comprehensive account of the holdup to be relayed to the waiting listeners.

"I saw it all. I saw it all."

Sample of Spring Reaches Capital as Mercury Hits 53

Crocuses Make Debut, Japanese Quince Begin to Bloom and 50,000 Persons Visit Zoo to See Baby Jaguars, Which Remain in Regal Seclusion.

With the first day of spring less than two weeks off, Washington yesterday was given a sample of what to expect after the vernal equinox. Spring may not have made its formal bow, but it was certainly in the air.

The temperature rose to 53 degrees at 4 p. m. Crocuses peeped above the grass. Somebody, whose name is withheld to avoid embarrassment, wrote an ode and someone else proposed to a girl. Japanese quince began to bloom.

More than 50,000 persons went to the Zoo—the largest crowd there since last year. Both children and grown-ups wanted to see the three-day-old jaguar whelps. They were not receiving, however, and eager visitors had to be satisfied with the information that one jaguar has a distinct barytone voice, while the other has an equally distinct soprano.

President Roosevelt was obliged to remain indoors throughout the day, devoting his entire time to the banking situation. The President also spent considerable time preparing the address he delivered over the radio last night. Mrs. Roosevelt attended the service at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church yesterday morning.

"When will the cherry blossoms appear?" Frank T. Gartside, of the Department of Public Buildings and Parks, was asked.

"Before Easter if this warm weather continues," he said.
